

42 Eliza: THE Exeter
SINCERE CONVERT

DISCOVERING
THE PAUCITY OF TRUE BELIEVERS;

And the great difficulty of Saving Conversion.

Shepherd
By THO. SHEPHEARD, sometimes of Immanuel Colledge in Cambridge.

MATTH. 19. 30.

*Many that are first, shall be last,
and the last, shall be first.*

~~London~~
LONDON,

Printed by T. P. and M. S. for Humphrey Blunden, at the Castle in Cornhill.

1 6 4 1.

To the Christian Reader.

IN these evill and perilous times God hath not left us without some choyce mercies. Our sinnes abound, and his mercies superabound. The Lord might justly have spoken those words of death against us, which of old he did against the Iewes; I have taken away my peace from this people, loving kindnesse, and mercies, which had he pulled from us, we had had cause enough to mourne with Rachel, and to refuse comfort, for all our happinesse lyes wrapt up in peace, loving kindnesse and mercy. But God is yet good unto Israel, he commands deliverances for Jacob, he over-rules all the powers of darkenesse, and tells the sonnes

Psal. 73. 1.

Psal. 44. 4.

Psal. 76.
10.

A cf

To the Reader,

1 Tim. 3.
8, 9.

Isay 26.
20.

Isay 43 2.

Isay 41.
20, 21.

of Belial, (men of corrupt mindes and cursed practises) that they shall proceed no further, but that their folly shall be manifest unto all. He makes all enemies, all devills, all creatures, to further his owne glory, and the good of his peculiar people. When times are naught and dangerous, he saith, Come my people, enter into thy chambers, and shut thy doores about thee, hide thy selfe as it were for a little moment till the indignation be over past. If troubles threaten life, he saith, When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee, and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee, when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not bee burnt, neither shall the flames kindle upon thee; for I am the Lord thy God, &c. when enemies are incensed, feare and sorrowes multiplied, he saith, Feare thou not, for I am with thee, be not dismayed, for I am thy God, I will strengthen thee, I will helpe thee, yea I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness. Behold all they that were incensed against thee, shall bee ashamed

and

To the Reader.

3

and confounded, they shall bee as nothing, and they that strive with thee shall perish. Such words of comfort and life doth God speake unto his. And among other mercies he stirres up the spirits of his servants to write many precious truths and tracts to further the everlasting good of his beloved ones. If the bottomlesse pit be open, and smoke rise thence, to darke the ayre, and obscure the way of the Saints; Heaven also is opened, and there are lightnings, and voices, to enlighten their spirits, and direct their pathes. Had ever any age such lightnings as we have? Did ever any speake since Christ and his Apostles as men now speake? We may truly and safely say of our Divines and writers, the voice of God, and not of man: Such abundance of the spirit hath God poured into some men; that it is not they, but the spirit of the Father that speakes in them.

What infinite cause hath this age to acknowledge the unspeakable mercy of God in affording us such plenty of spirituall Tracts full of Divine, necessary & consi-

Revel. 9. 2
Revel. 18.
19.

To the Reader.

ence searching truths, yea precious soule-comforting, and soule-improving truths? such whereby Head, heart, and soule-cheating errors are discovered and prevented; such as soundly difference true grace from all seemings and paintings, No time, no Nation exceeds us herein; and shall we that abound in truths be penurious in praises?

Consider Reader, whether Spirituall truths be not worthy of thy choyssest praises. Every Divine truth is one of Gods eternall thoughts, it's Heaven-borne, and beares the image of the most High. Truth is the glory of the whole sacred Trinity. Hence the Spirit is called Truth. 1 Joh. 5. 6. Christ is called Truth. Joh. 14. 6. and God himselfe is said to be the God of Truth, Deut. 32. 4. It is so delightful to him, that his eyes are ever upon the Truth. Ier. 5. 1. and when the onely wise God would have men make a purchase, he counsels them to buy the Truth. And is it not good counsell, is it not a good purchase? Can you bestow your paines or lay out your money better? If you bee dead in sinnes and trespasses, Truth is the seed seed of a new life, of a heavenly birth. James 1. 18. If you be in any bondage, Truth can make you free. Iohn 8. 32. If compassed about with enemies, Truth can shield thee, Psal. 91. 4. If you be full of filthy thoughts and lusts, or any impurities, the Truth can sanctifie you, Ioh. 17. 17. If darkenesse and faintnesse possesse your soules, Truth is lumen & populum animæ, the light and life of the soule, Psal. 119. 105.

To the Reader.

5

Let us then advance our thoughts of Truth, and rate it a'ove all sublunarie things, and buy it though it cost us all: it is no Simony; It is not too deare, you cannot overvalue Truth. It is sister to the Peace of God which passeth all understanding: See how God himselfe estimates his word and truth, Psal. 138. 2. Thou hast magnified thy word above all thy Name. Whatsoever God is knowne by besides his word, is beneath his word. Take the whole Creation which is Gods Name in the greatest letters, it's nothing to his word and truth. Therefore Christ tells the Pharisees, it is easier for heaven and earth to passe, then one tittle of the

Iohn 21.
15, 16, 17

To the Reader.

Law to faile. If the least Jod or Tittle of the Law, be prized by God above all the world, let us take heed of undervaluing the great and glorious Truths of the Gospell, and fettle it as a Law upon our hearts, that wee can never overprize or yeeld sufficient praise for any truth.

Men can praise God for the blessings of the field, the seas, the wombe, and of their shops; but where is the man that praises God for this blessing of blessings, for Truth, for good Bookes, and heavenly Treatises. Men seldome purposely lift up their hearts & voices to heaven to praise God for the riches of knowledge bestowed upon them. In good Bookes you have mans labour, and Gods truths. The tribute of thanks is due for both, that God enables men to so great labours, and that he conveys such precious treasure through earthen vessels. David thought it his duty to praise God for Truth, Psal. 143. 2. and hath left it upon record for our imitation. He saw such excellency, and found so much sweet gaine by Truth, that hee must breake out into praises for it.

Reader, give over thy old wont of sligh-ting

To the Reader.

7.
ting and censuring mens labors. Experience hath long since told thee, that no good comes that way. Now learne to turne thy prejudices unto praises, and prove what will be the fruit of honoring and praising God for Truths dispensed by his faithfull servants. Let me tell thee, this is a chiefe way to keepe Truth still amongst us. If truths be not received with the love of them, and God honoured for them, presently strong delusions come, and Truth must suffer or fly. God hath made good that promise in Jeremie, he hath revealed to us abundance of peace and truth, and we through ingratitude have forfeited both. Our peace is shaken, and who can promise himself with Hezekiah there shall be peace and truth in my dayes; Peace may faile thee, but let not Truth. Every good Christian may and should say with the good King, there shall be Truth in my daies, if not peace and truth. I will so far honor truth, as to receive the love of it. I will hold it fast by faith, hold it forth by practise, praise God daily for it, and venture all in defence of it; So did the Martyrs, whose memory is sweete,

To the Reader.

and whose reward is great. It is better suffering for truth, then with truth: yet if Truth must suffer or can die, better it is to dye with Truth then out-live it.

But that Truth may live, and we live by truth, let us magnifie God much for truth, for his word and good bookes that spring thence. Some probably may say, its enough to praise God for his word, other books are not tantis wilt thou praise God for the Sea, and be unthankfull for the rivers and springs? wilt thou lift up t hy voyce for the great waters, and be silent for the silver drops and showers? If the former raine affect thee, be not ingratefull for the latter. God would have men to value his servants, and praise him for their labours.

But they have errors in them.

Be it so, shall we refuse to praise God for the Flowers and the corne, because there be some weeds in the garden, and thistles in the field? Prejudice not thy selfe, buy, reade, take thy delight, here is a garden without weeds, a corne field without Cockle or darnell, thorne or thistle. Art thou a Sincere Convert, here are truths su.

To the Reader.

9

sutable, solid, and wholsome, thou maiest feed and feast without feare.

The Authour is one of singular piety, inward acquaintance with God, skild in the deceits of mens hearts, able to enlighten the darke corners of the little world, and to give satisfaction to staggering spirits. His worke needs not the purple of anothers commendation to adorne it. But because custome, not necessity, for it's truths prorogative to travaile without a passport) I say, because Custome causeth Truth to crave and to carry Epistles Commendatory; know that the worke is weighty, quick and spirituall, and if thine eye be single in perusing it, thou shalt find many precious soule-searching, soule-quickenig, and soule-enriching truths in it: yea, be so warned and awakned, is that thou canst not but blesse God for the man and matter, unlesse thou be possesst with a dumbe devill.

To conclude, Christian Reader, take heed of unthankfulnesse; spirituall mercies should have the quickest and fullest praises. Such is this worke, thou foresawest it not, thou contributedst nothing to the

To the Reader.

the birth of it; It's a preventing mercy. By it and other, of the same nature, God hath made knowledge to abound, the waters of the Sanctuary are daily increased and growne deepe. Let not the waters of the Sanctuary put out the fire of the Sanctuary. If there be no praise, there is no fire. If thy head be like a winters Sunne full of light, and heart like a winters earth without fruit, feare lest thy light end in utter darkenesse, and the tree of knowledge deprive thee of the tree of life. The Lord grant thou mayest finde such benefit by this worke, as that thy heart may be ravished with truth, and raised to praise God to purpose, and made to pray; Lord still send forth thy light and truth, that they may leade us. So prayes,

Thine in Christ,

W. Greenhill.

AN

The Table.

An Introduction to the Worke.

 He knowledge of Divinity is necessary for all sorts of men, both to settle and establish the good, and to convert and fetch in the bad. Gods principles pull downe Satans false Principles set up in mens heads, loved and beleevd with mens hearts, and defended by their Tongues, whilest strong holds remaine unshaken, the Lord J^hs is kept off from conquering of the soule.

Now Spirituall Truths are either such, as tend to enlarge the understanding, or such as may worke chiefly upon the affections. I passe by (in this knowing age) the first of these, and (being among a people whose hearts are hard enough) I being with the latter sort: For the Understanding, although it may literally, yet it never savingly entertaines any truth, untill the Affections be therewith smitten and wrought upon.

I shall therefore here prosecute the unfolding of these Divine Principles.

First,

The principall heads insisted upon.

The Table.

1. First, that there is one most glorious God.
2. Secondly, that this God made all mankind at first in Adam in a most glorious estate.
3. Thirdly, that all mankind is now fallen from that estate, into a bottomlesse gulf of sinne and misery.
4. Fourthly, that the Lord Jesus Christ is the only means of Redemption out of this estate.
5. Fifthly, that those that are saved out of this wofull estate by Christ are very few, and these few are saved with much difficulty.
6. Sixthly, that the greatest cause why so many dye, and perish in this estate, is from themselves: either
 1. By Reason of their bloudy Ignorance, they know not their misery: or
 2. By reason of their Carnall security, they feele not, they groane not under their sinne and misery.
 3. By reason of their Carnall confidence, they seeke to helpe themselves out of their misery by their own duties, when they see or feele it: or
 4. By reason of their false faith, whereby they catch hold upon and trust unto the merits of Christ too soone, when they see and feele they cannot helpe themselves.

The Contents of this Treatise.

T hat there is a God.	Page, 3.4.
That this God is most Glorious.	p. 16.
The happinesse of them, that forsake all for this God.	p. 15.
A Discovery of Atheisme.	p. 10.
whence terrors of Conscience arise.	p. 8.
An Explanation of Gods Attributes,	p. 17.
we should make God to be Our God.	p. 14.
God made all Mankind at first in a glo- rious and happy estate.	p. 25.
wherein this glory or blessednesse of man did appears.	p. 26.
How Adams estate was Ours.	p. 29.
wee are more perfectly righteous in Christ, then we could ever have beene in Adam.	p. 32.
How to get the Image of God, renewed in us.	p. 40.

The Contents,

A Discovery of such as content themselves, with a certaine measure of holinesse. p. 34.

How justly God may require perfect obedience, to all the Law, of every man, and curse him if he cannot performe it. p. 30.

Mans misery in respect of Sin. p. 42.

Every naturall man is dead, while hee lives. p. 48.

The haynousnesse of Adams sin. p. 96.

Sinnes of the Heart, are worse then sins of the Life. p. 55.

Every Action of wicked men is sinfull. p. 57.

Whether good duties ought to be performed by naturall men, seeing their best Actions are sinnes. p. 61.

Mans misery in respect of the Consequents of sinne. p. 63.

Mans fearefull slavery under Sathan. p. 67.

How to prove there will be a day of Iudgement. p. 80.

The time and manner of that day. p. 81.

How Iesus Christ doth redeeme men. p. 98,

The Contents.

VVhom Christ doth redeeme. p. 108.

Upon what conditions Christ may be had. p. 110.

The great evill of rejecting Christ. p. 115.

Who they are, that reject him. p. 114.

The Paucity of true beleevers. p. 122.

The Difficulty of saving Conversion. p. 144.

VVherein a child of God, goes beyond a hypocrite. p. 139.

Every easie way to heaven, is a false way. p. 148.

Nine easie wayes to heaven. p. 150.

Foure streight gates to heavens p. 147.

The grand-cause of mans ruine, is from himselfe. p. 156.

How men do plot their owne ruines. p. 157.

A Discoverie of unsound Professours. p. 158.

Ten false principles, by which men are deceived in their spirituall estates. p. 163.

The

The Contents,

The cause of mens mistake about their eternall condition. p. 164.

How false peace is bred in the soule. p. 195.

whence Carnall Security arises. p. 213.

How Carnall Confidence ruins men. p. 228.

Meanes to get a broken heart. p. 225.

The danger of Resting in holy performances, p. 234.

Wherein mens resting in dutie appears. p. 229.

Why men doe rest in their duties. p. 242.

The insufficiency of all duties to save a man. p. 255.

Sixe signes of a mans resting in duties, p. 247.

we must use good duties, though we cannot be saved by them. p. 259.

How to know whether we make Christ our chiefe ayme, and end in all things. p. 191.

THE SINCERE CONVERT.

CHAP. I

There is one most Glorious God.

EXODUS 33. 18.

I beseech thee, shew me thy Glory.

His is the first Divine Truth, And there are these two parts considerable in it.

1. That there is a God.
2. That this God is most Glorious.

I will beginne with the first part, and prove (omitting many philoso-phicall

B

The Sincere Convert.

Plin. lib.
1. Nat.
Hist.

Rom. 1.

phicall arguments) that there is a God, a true God: for every nation almost in the world, untill Christs coming, had a severall God. Some worshipped the Sunne, some the Moone, called by Ezechiel, the Queene of Heaven, which some made Cakes unto: Some the whole Heavens, as some worshipped the Fire, some the bruit beasts, some Ba'l, some Moloch. The Romans (saith Varro) had 6000 gods: who imprisoning the life of nature, were given up to sinnes against nature, either to worship Idolls of mans invention, as the ignorant: or GOD and Angels in those Idols, as the learned did: but these are all false Gods.

I am now to prove that there is one true God, the being of beings, or the first being. Although the proving of this point seemes needlesse, because every man runs with the cry, and saith there is a God, yet few thoroughly beleieve this point. Many of the children of God, who are best able to know mens hearts, because they only study their hearts hearts, feele this temptation, Is there a God? bitterly assaulting them sometimes. The Devill will sometimes undermine, and seeke to blow up the strongest walls and bulwarks. The light of nature indeed shewes, that there is a God; but how many are there, that, by foule sinnes against their conscience, blow out and extinguish almost all the light of Nature? and hence though they dare not conclude, because they have some light, though dimme; yet if they saw their heart, they might see it secretly suspect, and question whether there bee a God: but grant that none questions this truth, yet we that are builders, must not fall to a worke, without our maine props and pillars: It may appeare therefore that there is a God, from these grounds.

The Sincere Convert.

3

First, From the works of God, Rom. I. 20. when wee see a stately house, although we see not the man that built it, although also we know not the time when it was built, yet wil we conclude, thus, Surely some wise Artificer hath to prove a God.

Groundes

I.

B 2

bee ne

beene working here : can wee when we behold the stately theater of Heaven and Earth, conclude other, but that the finger, armes, and wisdom of God hath beene here, although we see not him that is iavisible, and although we know not the time when he began to build. Every creature in heaven and earth is a loud preacher of this Truth : who set those candles, those torches of heaven on the Table? who hung out those lanthornes in heaven to enlighten a darke world? who can make the stature of a man, but one wiser than the stone out of which it is hewne? could any frame a man, but one wiser and greater than man? who taught the birds to build their nests, and the bees to set up and order their common-wealth? who sends the Sun post from one end of heaven to the other, carrying so many thousand blessings to so many thousands of people and Kingdomes? what power of man or Angels can make the least pile of grasse, or put life into the least fly, if once dead? There is therefore a power

power above all created power, which is God.

2

Secondly, From the Word of God, There is such a Majesty stirring, and such secrets revealed in the word, that if men will not be wilfully blind, they cannot but cry out, the voice of God, and not the voice of man. Hence Calvin undertakes to prove the Scripture to bee the word of God, by reason, against all Atheists under heaven. Hast thou not thought sometimes at a sermon, the Minister hath spoken to none but thee, and that some or other hath told the Minister what thou hast said, what thou hast done, what thou hast thought? now that word which tells thee the thoughts of thy heart, can be nothing else but the word of an alseeing God that searcheth the heart.

Againe, that word which quickneth the dead is certainly Gods word, but the word of God ordinarily preached quickneth the dead; it maketh the blind to see, the dumbe to speake, the deafe to heare, the lame to walke, those that never felt their sinnes to load them, to mourn, those that never could pray to breath out unutterable groanes and sighes for their sinnes.

3

Thirdly, From the Children begotten of God: For wee may reade in mens foreheads, as soone as ever they are borne, the sentence of death; and we may see by mens lives what hellish hearts they have. Now there is a time that some of this monstrous broode of men, are quite changed and made all new; they have new mindes, new opinions, new desires, new joyes, new sorrowes, new speeches, new prayers, new lives: and such a difference there is betwixt these and others, that they are hated by others, who loved them well while they loved their sinnes: and whence came this strange change? Is it from themselves? No; For they hated this new life, and these new men once themselves. Is it because they would be credited thereby? no; It is to be hated of Father, Mother, Friends, and maligned every where. Is it out of simplicity, or are their braines growne crazie? they were indeed deed once fooles, and I can prove them all to bee Salomons fooles: but even simple men have beene known to be more wise for the world, after they have beene made new. But lastly, is it now from a slavish feare of hell, which workes this alteration? Nothing lesse; they abhorre to live like slaves in Bridewell, to do all for feare of the whip.

John 3. 3.

Fourthly, From Gods Register, or notary, which is in every man; I meane the Conscience of man; which telleth them there is a GOD: and although they silence it sometimes, yet in thunder-time, or great plague, as Pharaoh: or at the day of Death, then they are neere Gods Tribunall, when they acknowledge him clearly. The fearefull terrors of Conscience prove this, which like a Bayliffe arrests men for their debts; Ergo, there is some Creditor to set it on; sometimes like a hangman it torments men, ergo, there is some strange Iudge that gave it that command: whence arise these dreadfull terrors in men? of themselves?

No surely, all desire to be in peace, and so to live and sleepe in a whole skin: Comes it frō Melancholy? no, for melancholy comes on by degrees: these terrors of conscience surprise the soule sodainely at a sermon, sodainely after the commission of some secret foule sinne. Aga ine, Melancholy sadnesse may be cured by Physicke, but many Physitians have given such men over to other Physitians. Melancholy sadnesse may bee borne, but a wounded Spirit who can beare? Thus you see that there is a God. But, who ever saw God, that every one is bold to affirme that there is a God? Indced his face never was seene by mortall man, but his back-parts have beene seene, are seene, and may bee seene by all the world, as hath beene proved.

Obj.

Objection. All things are brought to passe by second causes.

Answ.

Answ. 1. What though? Is there no Master in the House, because the servants doe all the worke? This great God maintaines state by doing all

all by the Creatures subjection; yet sometimes we may cry out in beholding some speciall peeces of his administration, here is the finger of God.

2. What though there be such confusion in the world, as that shillings stand for pence, and counters stand for pounds, the best men are bought and sould at a low rate, and worst men prized and preferred; yet if wee had eyes to see and conceive, wee should see an harmony in this discord of things. God is now like a wise Carpenter, but hewing out his worke. There is a lumber and confusion seemingly among us, let us stay till the day of judgement, and then wee shall see infinite wisdom in fitting all this for his owne glory, and for the good of his people.

Object. But if there be a God, why heares hee not his peoples prayers? why doth hee forget them when they have most need of him?

Answer; Noah's Dove returnes not presently with an olive-branch of peace in his mouth. Prayers sometime that

2

obj.

Ans.

that speed well, returne not presently, for want of company enough to fetch away that abundance of mercy which God hath to give. The Lord ever gives them their asking in money or money-worth, in the same thing or a better. The Lord ever gives his importunate beggers their desires, either in pence by little and little, or by pounds; long he is many times before hee gives, but payeth them well for their waiting.

Use I.

A discourse very of Atheisme.

This is a use of reproofe to all Atheists either in opinion or practice.

First, In opinion; such as either conclude, or suspect there is no God. Oh blasphemous thought! Are there any such men & men! nay beasts, nay Devils, nay worse than Devils, for they believe and tremble. Yet the foole hath said in his heart, there is no God, Psal. 18.

1. Men that have little heads, little knowledge, without hearts, as scholars sometimes of weak brains, seeing how things come by second causes, though they might beleieve their bookes, yet cannot raise their dull thoughts thoughts to the beholding of a first cause. Great Politicians are like children alwayes standing on their heads, and shaking their heeles against Heaven; these thinke Religion to bee but a peece of policie, to keepe people in awe: prophane persons desiring to goe on in sinne, without any rubb or checke for sinne, blow out all the light of nature, wishing there were no God to punish, and are willing to suspect that which is nor. Those also that have sinned secretly, though not openly against nature, or the light of Conscience: GOD smites men for incest, sodomy, selfe-pollution, with dismall blindnesse. Those also that are notorious worldlings, that looke no higher than their barnes, no further than their shops: the world is a pearle in their eyes; they cannot see a God.

The Sincere Convert.

11

Lastly, I suspect those men that never found out this thiefe, this sinne, that was bred and born with them nor saw it in their owne hearts, but there it lies still in some darke corner of their soules to cut their throates: these kinde kind of men sometimes suspect there is no God: O this is a grievous sinne; for if no God; no heaven, no hell; no martyrs, no prophets, no Scriptures. Christ was then an horrible lyer, and an Impostor. Other sinnes wrong and grieve God and wound him, but this sinne stabs the very heart of God, it strikes at the life, and is (as much as lies in sinfull man) the death of God: for it saith, there is no God:

2

Secondly, This reproveth Atheists in practice, which say there is a God, and question it not, but in works they deny him. Hee that pluckes the King from his throne, is as vile as hee that saith he is no King. These men are almost as bad as Atheists in opinion. And of such dust-heapes we may finde in every Corner, that in their practice deny God, men that set up other gods in Gods roome, their wealth, their honour, their pleasure, their merits, their backs and bellies to be their gods: men that make bold to do that against this true God, which Idolaters dare not doe against their Idoll

Idoll Gods, and that is, continually to wrong this God; Men that speake not for all they want by prayer, nor returne all backe againe to God by praise.

A second use is, for exhortation. O labour to see and behold this God. Is there a God, and wilt thou not give him a good looke? Oh, passe by all the Rivers, till thou come to the spring head; wade through all creatures, untill thou art drowned, plunged, and swallowed up with God. When thou seest the Heavens, say, where is that great Builder that made this? when thou hearest of mutations of Kingdomes, say, where is the Lord of Hosts, the great Captaine of these armies? when thou tastest sweetnes in the Creature or in Gods ordinances, say, where is sweetnesse it selfe, beauty it selfe? where is the Sea of these drops, the Sun of these beames? Oh that men saw this God; its heaven to behold him: thou art then in a corner of hell, that canst not, dost not see him, and yet what is lesse knowne than God?

Vse 2.

God. Methinks when men heare there is a God about them, they should lye groveling in the dust because of his glory: If men did see him, they would speak of him; who speaks of God? Nay men cannot speake to God; but as beggers have learned to cant, so, many a man to pray. Oh men see not God in prayer, therefore they cannot speake to God by prayer. Men sin, and God frownes, (which makes the devils to quake;) yet mens hearts shake not, because they see him not.

Vse 3.

Vse 3. Oh make choice of this God as thy God. What though there bee a God, if it be not thy God, what art thou the better? Downe with all thy Idoll gods, and set up this God, If there be any creature that ever did thee any good, that God set not a work for thy good, love that, think on that, as thy God. If there be any thing that can give thee any succour on thy death-bed, or when thou art departed from this world, take that to be thy God. Thou mightest have beene borne in India, and never have heard of this true God, but but worshipped the Devill for thy God: O therefore make choyce of him alone to be thy God; give away thy selfe wholly and for ever to him, and he will give away his whole selfe everlastingly unto thee. Seeke him weeping, and thou shalt find him. Binde thy selfe by the strongest oathes and bonds in covenant to be his, and hee will enter into covenant with thee, and so be thine, 1er. 40. 5.

The fourth use is, an use of comfort to them that forsake all for this God: thou hast not lost all for nought; thou hast not cast away substance for shadows, but shadowes for somewhat. Proverbs 8. 18. When all comfort is gone, there is a GOD to comfort thee. When thou hast no rest here, there is a God to rest in: when thou art dead, hee can quicken thee; when thou art weak, he is strong, and when friends are gone, he will bee a sure one to thee.

Thus much of the first part of this Doctrine, or Divine truth, that there is a God: Now it followeth to shew you, you that this God is a most glorious God, and that in foure things hee is glorious.

Use 4.

1. In his ESSENCE.

2. In his ATTRIBUTES.

3. In his PERSONS.

4. In his WORKES.

Gods Essence.

1.

1. Hee is Glorious in his Essence. Now what this Glory is, no man or Angell hath, doth, or ever shall know; their cockle-shell can never comprehend this sea; he must have the wisdom of God, and so bee a God, that comprehendeth the Essence of God: but though it cannot be comprehended, what it is, yet it may be apprehended, that it is incomprehensible and glorious, which makes his glory to be the more admired, as wee admire the lustre of the Sunne the more, in that it is so great we cannot behold it.

2.

2. God is Glorious in his Attributes, which are those Divine perfections whereby he makes himselfe knowne unto us. Which

Which Attributes are not qualities in God, but natures. Gods Wisedome is God Himselfe, and Gods Power is God Himselfe, &c. Neither are they diverse things in God, but they are divers onely in regard of our understanding, and in regard of their different effects, on different objects. God punishing the wicked is the justice of God; God compassionating the miserable is the mercy of God.

Now the Attributes of God, omitting curious divisions, are these.

1. He is a Spirit, or a spirituall God, Iohn 4.24. therefore abhorres all worship and all duties performed without the influence of the spirit; as to confesse thy sins without shame or sorrow, and to say the Lords Prayer without understanding, to heare the word that thou mayest onely know more, and not that thou mayest bee affected more; oh these carkasses of holy duties are most odious sacrifices before God.

2. He is a living God, whereby he liveth of himselfe, and gives life to all other

C

An explanation of Gods Attributes.

1.

2.

other things. Away then with thy dead heart to this principle of life to quicken thee, that his Almighty power may pluck thee out of thy Sepulchre, unloose thy grave-lockes that so thou mayest live.

3. Hee is an infinite God, whereby he is without limits of being, 2 Chron. 6. 18. Horrible then is the least sinne that strikes an infinite great God, and lamentable is the estate of all those with whom this God is angry: thou hast infinite goodnesse to forsake thee, and infinite power and wrath to set against thee.

4. Hee is an Eternall God, without beginning or end of being, Psal. 80. 1. Great therefore is the folly of those men that preferre a little short pleasure before this eternall God, that like Esau sell away an everlasting inheritance for a little portage, for a base lust and the pleasure of it.

5. He is an all-sufficient God, Genesis 17. 1. what lacke you therefore, you that would faine have this God and the love of this God, but you are loath to take the paines to finde him, or to bee at cost to purchase him with the losse of all? Heertes infinite, Eternall, present sweetnesse, goodnesse, grace, glory and mercy to bee found in this G O D. Why post you from mountaine to hill, why spend you your money, your thoughts, time, endeavours, on things that satisfie not? Here 'is thy resting place. Thy cloathes may warme thee, but they cannot feede thee; thy meate may feede thee, but cannot heale thee; thy Physicke may heale thee, but cannot maintaine thee; thy money may maintaine thee, but cannot comfort thee when distresses of Conscience and anguish of heart come upon thee; this G O D is joy in sadnesse, light in darknesse, life in death, Heaven in Hell. Here is all thine eye ever saw, thine heart ever desired, thy tongue ever asked, thy minde ever conceived. Here is all light in this Sunne, and all Water in this Sea, out of whom as out of a Christall fountaine thou shalt drinke downe all the refined sweetnesse of all Creatures in heaven and earth for ever and ever. All the world is now seeking and trying out themselves for rest, here only it can be found.

6. He is an omnipotent God, whereby he can doe what ever he will: yeeld therefore, and stand not out in the sinfull or subtile close maintenance of any one sinne against this God so powerfull who can crush thee at his pleasure.

7. Hee is an all-seeing God; Hee knowes what possibly can bee or may bee knowne: approve thy selfe therefore to this God only in all thy wayes. It's no matter what men say, censure or thinke of thee. It's no matter what thy fellow Actors on this stage of the world imagine. G O D is the great Spectator that beholds thee in every place: God is thy spye, and takes compleate notice of all the actions of thy life; and they are in print in heaven, which that great spectator and Judge will open at the great day, and reade aloud in the eares of all the World. Feare to sinne therefore in secret, unlesse thou canst find out some darke darke hole where the eye of God cannot discern thee. Mourn for thy secret neglect of holy duties, mourn for thy secret hypocrisie, whoredome, prophannesse, and with shame in thy face come before this God for pardon and mercy. Admire and wonder at his patience, that having seene thee hath not damned thee.

8. Hee is a True God; whereby he meanes to doe as he saith. Let every Child of God therefore know to his comfort, that those things which hee hath not under feelings, but under a promise, shall one day be all made good: and let all wicked men know, what ever threatning God hath denounced, whatsoever Arrows are in the bow-string, will one day fly, and hit and strike deepe, and the longer the Lord is a drawing, the deeper wound will Gods arrow, (that is, Gods threatning) make.

9. Hee is an holy God: Be not ashamed therefore of holinesse, which if it ascend above the common straine of honesty, the blind and mad world accounts it madnesse, If the righteous, that is, those that bee most holy bee scarcely saved, where shall the ungodly, and the sinner appeare, 1 Peter 4. 18. Where? Not before Saints and Angels, for holinesse is their trade; Not before the face of the man Christ Iesus, for holinesse was his meate and drinke; Not before the face of a blessed God, for holinesse is his Nature; Not in Heaven, for no uncleane thing crawles there; they shall never see God, Christ, Saints, Angels, or Heaven to their comfort, that are not holy: weare therefore that as thy crowne now, which will be thy glory in Heaven, and if this bee to be vile, be more vile.

The Sincere Convert.

10.

10. He is a just and mercifull God, just in himselfe, and so will punish all sinne: mercifull in the face of Christ, and so will punish no sinne. A just God against an hard-hearted sinner, a mercifull God towards an humble sinner. God is not all Mercy and no Justice, nor all Justice and no Mercy. Submit to him, his mercy embraceth thee. Resist

sist him, his justice pursues thee. When a Child of God is humbled indeed, commonly hee makes God a hard-hearted cruell God, loth to helpe; and saith, can such a sinner bee pardoned? a wicked man that was never humbled makes God a God of clouts, one that (howsoever he speaks heavie words, yet he is a mercifull God, and) will not doe as he saith, and hee findes it no difficult worke to beleeve the greatest sinne may be pardoned: conceive therefore of him as you have heard.

Thirdly, God is glorious in his Persons, which are three; Father begetting, Sonne begotten, and the Holy Ghost the third person proceeding. Here the Father is called the Father of glory, Eph. 1. Christ is called the Lord of glory, 1 Cor. 2. and the Spirit is called the Spirit of glory, 1 Pet. 4. the Father is glorious in his great work of Election; the Son is glorious in his worke of Redemption; the Holy Ghost is glorious in his work of Application: the Father is glorious in choosing the house, the Son is glorious in buying the House, the Spirit is glorious in dwelling in the House, that is, the heart of a poore lost sinner.

III.

IV.

4. He is glorious in his Works, in his works of Creation, and in his workes of providence and government: wonder therefore that he should so vouchsafe to looke upon such wormes, such dunghils, such Lepers as we are, to provide, protect, to slay his Sonne, to call, to strive, to waite, to give away himselfe, and all that he is worth unto us; O feare this God when you come before him. People come before God in Prayer, as before their fellowes, or as before an Idoll. People tremble not at his voyce in the Word. A King or Monarch will bee served in state, yet how rudely, how slovenly do men goe about every holy duty.

Thus much of the first Principall Head, that there is One most glorious God. Now we are to proceede to the second, viz.

CHAP.

CHAP. II.

T*Has this God made all mankind at first in a most glorious and happy estate like unto himselfe.*

For the opening of which Assertion I have chosen this Text, Eccles. 7.29. God made man righteous, which clearly demonstrates; That GOD made all mankind at first in Adam, in a most glorious, happy, and righteous estate; Man when he came first out of Gods mint, shined most glorious. There's a marvellous glory in all Creatures, (the servants and household stuffe of man,) therefore there was a greater glory in man himselfe, the end of them. God calleth a Parliament, and gathers a Councell when man was to bee made; and said, Come, let us make man in our owne Image; as though all the Wisedome of the Trinity should be seene in the creation of man.

Wherein did the glory or blessednesse of man appeare?

In the impression of Gods Image up-

Doct. I.

Quest.

Ans.

upon him, Gen. 1. 26. Can there be any greater glory for a Ioseph, for a subject, than to be like his Prince ?

Quest.
Ans.

What was the Image of God ?

The Schoolmen and Fathers have many curious, (yet some necessary) though difficult questions about this. I will omit all theirs, and tell you only what is the APOSTLES judgement, Colossians 3. 20. out of which this generall description of G O D s Image may bee thus gathered. " It " is mans perfection of Holinesse,
" resembling G O D s admirable holi-
" nesse, whereby onely man pleaseth
" God.

Eph. 4. 23

The Image of God in Man.

For, all other inferiour Creatures did carry the workes and footsteps of G O D s power, wisdom, goodnesse, whereby all these Attributes were seene. Now the most perfect Attributes of God, that is, his Holinesse, that hee would have onely appeare in, and be made manifest by man, his best inferior creature, as a Kings wisdom and bounty appeares in managing the affaires of all his Kingdome ; but his Roy-

Royal, Princely, and most eminent perfections appeare in the face and disposition of his Sonne, next under him; But more particularly this Image of GOD appeared in these foure particulars.

1. In mans understanding : this was like unto Gods. Now Gods Image here chiefly consisted in this particular, viz. As God saw himselfe, and beheld his owne infinite endlesse glory and excellency; so man was privie to Gods excellency, and saw God most gloriously; as Moses, though a sinfull man, saw him face to face, much more Adam, a perfect man; God loving man could doe no lesse than reveale himselfe to man.

2. In his Affections : the image of God chiefly appeared in two things;

First, As God seeing himselfe, loved himselfe : So Adam seeing God loved this God, more than the World, more than himselfe, as Iron put into the fire seemes to bee nothing but fire : So Adam being beloved of God, was turned into a lumpe of love, to love
God

Prov. 8.

G O D againe.

Secondly, As God delighted in himselfe. So did Adam delight in God, tooke sweete repose in the bosome of G O D. Mee thinkes I see Adam wrapt up in continuall extasies in having this God.

3.

3. In his Will: the Image of God chiefly appeared in two things;

First, As G O D onely willed Himselfe, as his last end: So did Adam will G O D, as his last end, not as man doth now.

4.

Secondly, As God willed nothing but good; So did Adam will nothing but good, for Gods Will was his.

4. In his life Gods Image did appeare thus: that even as God, if he had assumed mans Nature, would have lived outwardly; So did Adam: for God would have lived according to his owne Will, Law, and Rule: So did Adam. Adams body was the Lanthorne through which Holinesse like a lampe burning in his heart shined; this was Gods Image; by means of which (as it is said in the description) hee pleased pleased GOD; similitude being the ground of love: and hence God did most dearly love him, and highly honour him to be Lord over all creatures; hence no evill could hurt him; here was no sorrow, no sicknesse, no teares, no feares, no death, no hell, nor ever should have beene if there hee had stood.

Objection. How was this estate ours?

Ans. As Christs righteousness is a Believers by imputation, though hee never performed it himselfe: So Adams righteousness and image was imputed to us and accounted ours; for Adam received our Stocke or Patrimony to keepe it for us, and to convey it to us. Hence hee proving Banquerupt, wee lost it. But we had it in his hands, as an Orphant may have a great estate left him, though he never receive one penie of it from him that was his Guardian, that should have kept it for him, and conveyed it to him.

Here see the horrible nature of Sin, that pluckes man downe by the eares from

obj.

Ans.

vs 1.

The Sincere Convert.

from his Throne, from his Perfection, though never so great. Adam might have pleaded for himselfe, and have said: Although I have sinned, yet it is but one, and the first fault. Lord, behold I am thy first borne: Oh pitie my poore posterity, who are for ever undone, if thou forgivest not. Yet see, one sinne weighs him downe, and all his posterity (as wee shall heare) into eternall ruine.

Vse 2.

Hence learne, how justly God may require perfect Obedience to all the Law, of every man, and curse him if he cannot performe it: because man was at first made in such a glorious estate, wherein hee had power given him to please God perfectly: God may therefore require this debt of perfect obedience. Now man is broke and in prison: in Hell must he lie forever, if hee cannot pay justice every farthing, because God trusted him with a stocke, which if hee had well improved, hee might have payd all.

Vse 3.

See what cause every man hath to lament his miserable estate hee is now fallen fallen into. For beggars children to live Vagrants and poore, is not so lamentable, as for a great Princes children to become such. One never in favour with the Prince grieves not as hee doth, that was once in favour, but now cast out. Man is now rejected of God, that was beloved of God: he is now a runagate up and down the earth, that was once a Prince, and Lord of all the world. This is one aggravation of the damned sorrowes; oh the hopes, the meanes, the mercies that once I had! Can these, doe these lament for the losse of their bare hopes and common mercies? Lord, what hearts then have men that cannot, doe not, that will not lament the losse of such speciall high favours, now gone, which once they had. It is said, that those that saw the glory of the first Temple, wept when they saw the glory of the second, and how inferior it was to the first. You that either have the Temple of GOD begunne to bee repaired in you, or not begun at all, Oh thinke of the Temple burnt, the glory glory of G O D now vanished and lost.

vse 4.

This speakes comfort to all Gods people. If all Adams posterity were perfectly righteous in him, then thou that art of the bloud Royall, and in Christ, art perfectly righteous in him much more, in as much as the righteousness of the second Adam exceeds the first, so art thou more happy, more holy in the second Adam, than ever the first in himselfe was; he might lose all his Righteousnesse; but the second Adam cannot, hath not; so that if Christ may be damned, then thou mayest, else not.

vse 5.

This likewise reproveth three sorts of people.

A threefold re-prehensi-on.

1. Such as are ashamed of holinessse. L O R D, what times are wee fallen into now. The Image of G O D, which was once mens glory, is now their shame; and sinne, which is mens shame, is now their glory. The world hath raised up many false reports of holy courses, calling it folly and precisenesse, pride, hypocrisie, and that what.

whatsoever shews men may make they are as bad as the worst, if their sinnes were writ in their foreheads. Hence it commeth to passe that many a man, who is almost perswaded to bee a new man and to turn over a new leafe, dares not, will not, for shame of the world, enter upon religious courses. What will they think of me then (saith he?) men are ashamed to refuse to drinke healths, & hence maintain them lawfull. Our gallants are asham'd to stay a mile behind the fashion: hence they will defend open and naked breasts and strang apparell as things comely; O time-servers! that have some conscience to desire to be honest and to be reputed so, yet conforme themselves to all companies; if they heare others sweare, they are ashamed to reprove them; they are ashamed to enter the lists of holy discourse in bad company, and they will pretend discretion, and wee must not cast pearles before swine; but the bottome of the businesse is, they are ashamed to bee holy. O fearefull! Is it a shame to bee like God? O sinnefull D wretches!

The Sincere Convert.

wretches. It's a credit to be any thing but Religious, and with many Religion is a shame. I wonder with what face thou darest pray, or with what looke thou wilt behold the Lord of glory at the last day, who art ashamed of him now, that will be admired of all men, Angels and devils then? Dost thou looke for wages from Christ, that art ashamed to own Christ, or to weare his livery?

2. It reproves them that hate holinesse, which is more than to bee ashamed of it.

3. It reproves them that content themselves with a certaine measure of holinesse. Perfect holinesse was ADAMS Image whereby he pleased God, and shall a little holinesse content thee?

Now there are these three sorts of them.

1. The Formalist, who contents himselfe with some holinesse, as much as will credit him.

The forme and name of Religion is honos, honour sometimes; but the power

Men that content themselves with a certaine measure of holinesse and go no further.

power and practice of it, is onus, a burden: hence men take up the first, and shake off the second. And indeed the greatest part take up this course, if they have no goodnesse, they should bee the shame, scorne, and table-talk of the times; therefore every man will for his honours sake, have his forme. Now this forme is according to the mould wherein hee is cast: if his acquaintance bee but civill, hee will be like them; if they be more exact, as to pray, reade, conferre, he will not stay one inch behinde them. If to bee better than his companions, to beare the bell before them will credit him, hee will be so what ever it cost him; but yet he never will be so exact in his course as to bee hated for it, unlesse hee perceives the hatred hee contracts from some men shall be recompenced with the more love and credit by other men. He disguiseth himselfe according to the places, or company hee comes into. King Iosh was a good man so long as Iehoiada the Priest lived. If a little Religion will serve to credit men, that shall serve for that time, if more in another place, you shall then have them commending good men, good sermons, good bookes, and drop forth 2. or 3. good sentences; what will they think of him then? They cover themselves over with these Fig-leaves of common honesty to cover their nakednesse; they baite all their courses over with honesty, that they may catch, for they fish only for credit.

One may trap these people thus: Follow them in their private houses, there is worldlinesse, passion, loosenes, and to their private chambers, there they ordinarily neglect or shuffle over duties to their private vaine thoughts. In this Tying house you shall then see these stage players, their shop-windowes are shut, here no honesty is to be seene scarce, because their gaine, their respect comes not in at this door where none beholds them: Let either Minister or any faithfull friend search, try, discover, accuse and condemne these men, as rotten (though gilded) posts, as unsound, hollow-hearted wretches, their hearts will swell like

like toads, and hiss like snakes, and bark like dogs against thē that thus censure them, because they rob them of their God they served, their gain is gone.

2. The guilty selfe condemned sinner, that goes further than the Formalist, and contents himselfe with so much holiness as will quit him, and hence all the Heathen have had some Religion, because they had some Conscience to trouble them. This man, if he hath lived in foule sinnes, and begins to be wrackt and troubled for them, he will then confesse and forsake those roaring sinnes; but how? as a dogge doth his meate, not because he hates his carrion, but because he feares the cudgell; he performes holy duties, not because he will use them, but because hee must use them, there is no quiet else. If Conscience be still, he omits duties: if Conscience cry and stirre, he falls to duties; and so hath his good moode as conscience hath his fits. They boast and crow over hypocrites, because the holiness they have is not a bare shew; No, but it is to stop thy conscience, and only to quiet the clamors of that. Thou dost bribe, and so quiet (the Bailiffe,) thy conscience, by thy praying, hearing, and sorrowing, but G O D thy Judge hath heavie things to lay to thy charge, before whom thou shalt shortly with dread appeare.

Rom. 2. 13

III.

3. The pinching devout hypocrite, that being pursued with the teare of Hell, goes further, and labours for just so much holinesse as will save him onely, and carry him to heaven at last. Hence the young man in the Gospel came with that great question to Christ, which many unsound hearts come with to Ministers now, what he should doe to inherit eternall life. These people set up such a man in their thoughts to bee a very honest man, and one doubtlesse that shall be saved, and hence they will take him to bee their Copy and Sampler, and labour to doe as he doth, and to live just as hee lives, and to hold opinions as he holds, and so hope to be saved. They will aske very inquisitively what is the least measure of grace, and the least graine of faith, and the best
Ser-

Sermons are not such as humble them most, but such as flatter them, best; wherein they may heare how well good desires are accepted of by God; which if they heare to be of that ver-tue to save them, God shall bee served only with good desires, and the Devill in deed all their life time.

Thus they pinch God; they labour not after so much holinesse as will honour Christ, but after just so much as will beare their charges to heaven, and save themselves. For this is one of the greatest differences betwixt a child of God and an Hypocrite. In their obedience, the one takes up duties out of love to Christ, to have him, and hence he mournes daily, because Christ is no greater gainer by him: the other out of love to himselfe, meerely to save his owne soule; and hence he mournes for his sins, because they may damne him; Remember that place therefore, 1 Cor. 15. ult.

Lastly, labour to get this Image of GOD renewed againe. Honest men will labour to pay their debts; this is

vse 6.

Gods debt. How doe men labour to be in the fashion; better to bee out of the world, then out of the fashion. To be like God is heavens fashion, Angels fashion, and it will bee in fashion one day, when the Lord Iesus shall appeare. Then if thou hast the superscription and Image of the devill, and not the Image of GOD upon thee, GOD and Christ will never own thee at that day. Labour therefore to have Gods image restored againe, and Satans washt out, seeke not, as many do, to purchase such and such a grace first: but.

How to gaine the Image of God.

1. Labour to mortifie and subdue that sinne, which is opposite in thine heart to that grace. First, put off the old man, and then put on the new, Eph. 4.

Röm 6.7.

2. Labour for a melting tender heart for the least sin. Gold is then only fit to receive the impression, when it is tender and is melted; when thine heart is heated therefore at a Sermon, cry out, Lord now strike, now imprint thine Image upon me.

3. Labour to see the Lord Iesus in his glory. For as wicked men looking upon upon the evill example of great ones in the world, that will beare them out, grow like them in villany: so the very beholding the glorious grace in Christ, this great Lord of glory, transformeth men into his Image, 2 Cor. 3. 17, 18. As the Glasse set full against the sunne receives not onely the beames, as all other darke bodies doe, but the image of the sunne: So the understanding with open face beholding Christ, is turned into the Image and likenesse of Christ. Men now adayes looke only to the best mens lives, and see how they walk, and rest here; ô looke higher to this blessed face of God in Christ, as thine owne; As the application of the seale to the waxe imprints the Image, so to view the grace of Christ, as all thine, imprints the same image strongly on the soule. I come now to the third Principall Head, in order, which I shall insist upon, out of Rom. 3. 23. All have sinned, and are deprived of the glory of God. Whence observe.

CHAP. III.

That all mankind is fallen by sin, from that glorious estate he was made in, into a most wofull and miserable condition; The Devill abusing the Serpent, and man abusing his owne free-will, overthrew Adam, and in him all his posterity by sin, Gen. 3. 1, 2, 3, &c.

Now mans misery appears in these two things.

1. His misery in regard of sinne.
2. His misery in regard of the consequents of sinne.

Mans misery in regard of sin

1. His misery in regard of sinne, appears in these particulars.

1. Every man living is borne guilty of Adams sin. Now the justice and equity of God in laying this sin to every mans charge, though none of Adams posterity personally committed it, appears thus.

1.

First, If Adam standing, all mankind kind had stood; then it is equall that he falling, all his posterity should fall. All our estates were ventured in this ship: therefore, if we should have been partakers of his gaines, if he had continued safe, its fit we should be partakers of his losse too.

But secondly, we were all in Adam, as a whole countrey in a Parliament-man, the whole Countrey doth what he doth; And although wee made no particular choyce of Adam to stand for us, yet the Lord made it for us; who being goodnesse it selfe, beares more good will to man, than he can or could beare to himselfe; and being wisdom it selfe, made the wisest choice, and took the wisest course for the good of man; For this made most for mens safety and quiet; for if he had stood, all feare of loosing our happy estate had vanish'd; whereas, if every man had beene left to stand or fall for himselfe, a man would ever have beene in feare of falling.

And again, this was the sure way to have all mens estates preserved; for having having the charge of the estates of all men, that ever should be in the world, hee was the more pressed to looke the more about him, and so to bee more watchfull, that he be not robbed, and so undoe and procure the curses of so many thousands against him. Adam was the Head of mankind, and all mankind naturally are members of that head: and if the Head invent and plot Treason, and the head practise treason against the King or State, the whole body is found guilty, and the whole body must needs suffer. Adam was the poysoned roote and cisterne of all mankind, now the branches and streames being in the root and spring originally, they therefore are tainted with the same poysonous Principles. If these things satisfie not, God hath a day comming wherein he will reveale his owne righteous proceedings before men and Angels, Rom. 2. 4.

Vse

Oh that men would consider this sinne, and that the consideration of it could humble peoples hearts. If any mourne for sinne, it is for the most part for

for other foule actuall finnes, few for this sinne, that first made the breach and began the controversie betwixt God and man. Next unto the sinne against the Holy Ghost, and contempt of the Gospel, this is the greatest sinne that cryeth lowdest in Gods eares for vengeance day and night against a world of men. For now mens finnes are against God in their base and low estates; but this sinne was committed against Iehovah; when man was at the top of his preferment. Rebellion of a Traytor on a dunghill is not so great as of a Favorite in the Court. Little finnes against light are made horrible: no sinne by any man committed was ever against so much light as Adam had. This sin was the first that ever displeased God. Drunkenesse deprives God of the glory of sobriety; whoring of Chastity, but this sinne darkens the very Sunne, defaces all the Image of G O D, the glory of man, and the glory of G O D in man; this is the first sin that ever did thee a mischief. This sinne like a great Captaine hath gathered gathered together all those troops and swarmes of sins that now take hold upon thee. Thanke this sinne for an hard heart, thou so much complaineest of: thank this sinne for that hellish darknesse that overspreads thee. This hath raised Satan, Death, Judgement, Hell and Heaven against thee.

The horrible nature of the first sin.

O consider those fearefull sinnes that are packt up in this one evill.

The hainousnesse of Adams
sinne.

1.

1. Fearefull Apostacie from GOD like a Devill.

2.

2. Horrible Rebellion against GOD in joyning sides with the Devill, and taking GODS greatest enemies part against God.

3.

3. Wofull unbelieve in suspecting Gods threats to be true.

4.

4. Fearefull Blasphemy in conceiving the Devill, (Gods enemy and mans murderer) to be more true in his temptations, then GOD in his threatening.

5

5. Horrible pride in thinking to make this sin of eating the forbidden fruit to bee a step and a stayre to rise higher, and to be like God Himselfe.

6. Feare-

The Sincere Convert.

47

6. Fearfull contempt of God, making bold to rush upon the sword of the threatning secretly, not fearing the plague denounced.

6.

7. Horrible unthankfulness, when God had given him all but one tree, and yet he must be fingring that too.

7.

8. Horrible theft, in taking that w^{ch} was none of his owne.

8.

9. Horrible Idolatry, in doting upon, and loving the creature more than God, the Creator, who is blessed for ever.

9.

You therefore that now say, no man can say blacke is your eye, you have lived civilly all your dayes, looke upon this one grievous sin, take a full view of it, which thou hast never shed one teare for as yet, and see thy misery by it, and wonder at Gods patience. He hath spared thee who wast borne branded with it, and hast lived guilty of it, and must perish for ever for it, if the Lord from Heaven pity thee not.

But here is not all, consider secondly, every man is borne stark dead in sinne, Ephes. 2. 1. he is borne empty of every inward principle of life, voyde of all graces,

Secondly dead in sin

graces, and hath no more good in him (whatsoever hee thinkes,) then a dead Carrion hath. And hence he is under the power of sin, as a dead man is under the power of death, and cannot performe any act of life: their bodies are living coffins to carry a dead soule up and downe in.

'Tis true (I confesse) many wicked men do many good actions, as praying, hearing, almesdeeds, but it is not from any inward principle of life: Externall motives like plummetts on a dead (yet artificiall) clock, set them a running. Iehu was zealous, but it was only for a kingdome: the Pharisees gave alms only to be seene of men. If one write a Will with a dead mans hand deceased, that Will can hold no Law, it was not his Will, because it was not writ by him, by any inward principle of life of his own. Pride makes a man preach, pride makes a man heare, and pray sometimes. Selfe-love stirs up strang desires in men, so that wee may say, this is none of Gods Act by his grace in the soule, but Pride and selfe-love. Bring a dead man to the fire, and chafe him, and rubbe him, you may produce some heate by this externall working upon him : but take him from the fire againe, and he is soone cold : so many a man that lives under a sound Minister, under the lashes and knockes of a chiding, striving Conscience, he hath some heate in him, some affections, some teares, some desires, some sorrowes stirred, yet take him from the Minister, and his chafing conscience, and he grows cold again presently, because he wants an inward principle of life.

Best actions of the wicked, how sinfull.

Which point might make us to take up a bitter lamentation for every naturall man. It is said, Exod. 12. 30. that there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not an house wherein there was not one found dead. Oh Lord, in some townes and families what a world of these are there ? Dead Husband, dead wife, dead servants, dead children, walking up and downe with their finnes (as Fame saith some men doe after death) with their grave-cloathes about them, and God onely knowes

Vsc. 2.

How every Naturall man is dead while he lives.

whether ever they shall live againe or not. How doe men lament the losse of their dead friends ! O thou hast a precious soule in thy bosome stark dead, therefore lament thine estate, and consider it seriously.

First, a dead man cannot stir, nor offer to stir. A wicked man cannot speake one good word, or do any good action, if heaven it selfe did lye at stake for doing of it, nor offer to shake off his sins, nor thinke one good thought. Indeed he may speak and think of good things, but he cannot have good speeches, nor good thoughts ; as an holy man may thinke of evill things, as of the finnes of the times, yet the thought of those evill things is good, not evill, so, & contra.

2

Secondly, A dead man feares no dangers, though never so great, though never so neare. Let Ministers bring a naturall man tidings of the approach of the devouring plagues of God denounced, he feares them not.

3

Thirdly, A dead man cannot bee drawne to accept of the best offers.

Let

The Sincere Convert.

49

Let Christ come out of Heaven and fall about the necke of a naturall man; and with tears in his eyes beseech him to take his blood himselte, his Kingdome, and leave his sinnes; hee cannot receive this offer.

Fourthly, A dead man is starke blinde and can see nothing, and starke deafe and heares nothing, hee cannot taste any thing: so a naturall man is starke blind, he sees no God, no Christ, no wrath of the Almighty, no glory of Heaven. He heares the voyce of a man, but he heares not the voyce of God in a Sermon; hee savoureth not the things of Gods Spirit.

4
Mar. 23.
37-38.

Fifthly, A dead man is senselesse, and feeles nothing: so, cast mounraines of sinne upon a wicked man, he feeles no hurt, untill the flames of hell break out upon him.

5.

Sixtly, A dead man is a speechlesse man, he cannot speake unlesse it be like a Parret.

6.

Seventhly, he is a breathlesse man; A naturall man may say a Prayer, or devise a prayer out of his memory and 7.

wit, or hee may have a few short-winded wishes; but to powre out his soule in prayer, in the bosome of God, with groanes unutterable he cannot. I wonder not to see so many families without family prayer; Why? They are dead men, and lie rotting in their sinnes.

Eightly. A dead man hath lost all beaurie: So a meere naturall man hath lost all glorie: Hee is an ugly creature in the sight of God, good men and Angels, and shall one day be an abhorring to all flesh.

9

Ninthly. A dead man hath his wormes gnawing him. So naturall men have the worme of conscience breeding now, which will be gnawing them shortly.

10

Lastly. Dead men want nothing but casting into the grave. So there wants nothing but casting into hell for a naturall man. So that as Abraham loved Sarah well while living, yet when shee was dead; he seekes for a burying place for her to carry her out of his sight: so God may let some fearefull judgement loose, and say to it, take this dead soule soule out of my sight, &c. It was a wonder that Lazarus, though lying but foure dayes in the grave, should live againe: O wonder thou, that ever God should let thee live, that hast beene rotting in thy sin 20. 30. perhaps 60. years together.

III. Every naturall man and woman is borne full of all sin, Rom. 1. 29. as full as a Toade is full of poison, as full as ever his skin can hold; Minde, Will, Eyes, Mouth, every limbe of his body, end every piece of his soul is full of sin; their hearts are bundles of sin: hence Salomon saith, foolishnesse is bound up in the heart of a child; whole treasures of sinne, An evill man (saith Christ) out of the evill treasure of his heart, bringeth forth evill things; nay raging seas of sinne, Isaiab 20. nay worlds of sinne. The tongue is a World of mischief; what is the heart then? for out of the abundance of the heart the tongue speaketh: so that looke about thee and see, what ever sinne is broached and runnes out of any mans heart into his life through the whole world.

Fulnesse
of sinne.

James 3. 6

The Sincere Convert.

all those finnes are in thine heart ; thy minde is a nest of all the foule opinions, heresies, that ever were vented by any man; thy heart is a stinking sink-hole of all Atheisme, Sodomy, Blasphemy, Murther, Whoredome, Adultery, Witchcraft, Buggery ; so that if thou hast any good thing in thee, it is but as a drop of Rosewater in a bowle of poison, where fallen, it is all corrupted.

It is true, thou feelest not all these things stirring in thee, at one time, no more than Hazael thought he was or should be such a blood sucker, when he asked the Prophet Elisab if he were a dog ; but they are in thee like a nest of snakes in an old hedge. Although they break not out into thy life, they lie lurking in thy heart, they are there as a filthy puddle in a barrell, which runs not out, because thou happily wantest the temptation or occasion to broach and tappe thine heart, or because of Gods restraining Grace by Fear and Shame, Educaion, good Company, thou art restrained and builded up : and therefore fore when one came to comfort that famous picture, patterne and monument of Gods justice by seven yeares horreur and grievous distresse of conscience: when one told him hee never had committed such sins as Manasses, and therefore hee was not the greatest sinner since the Creation, as he conceived; hee replied that hee should have beene worse than ever Manasses was if he had lived in his time, and been on his throne.

*Francis
Spira.*

Master Bradford would never looke upon any ones lewd life with one eye, but he would presently returne within his owne breast with the other eye, and say, In this my vile heart remains that sinne, which without Gods speciall grace I should have committed as well as hee. O mee thinkes this might pull downe mens proud conceits of themselves, especially such as beare up and comfort themselves in their smooth, honest, civill life; such as through education have beene washed from all foule sinnes, they were never tainted with whoredome, swearing, drunkennes, or prophanenesse; and here they think themselves so safe, that God cannot finde in his heart to have a thought of damming them.

Oh consider of this point, which may make thee pull thine haire from thine head, and turn thy cloaths to sackcloth, and run up and down with amazement and palenes in thy face, and horreur in thy conscience, and teares in thine eyes. What though thy life bee smooth, what though thy outside, thy sepulcher be painted? oh thou art full of rottennes of sin within. Guilty not before men as the finnes of thy life make thee, but before God, of all the finnes that swarme and roar in the whole world at this day, for God lookes to the heart; guilty thou art therfore of heart-whor-dom, heart-sodomy, heart-blasphemy, heart-drunkennes, heart-buggery, heart-oppression, heart-idolatry; and these are the finnes that terribly provoke the wrath of almighty God against thee, Isay 57. 16. for the iniquitie of his covetousnesse (saith our Translation,) I smote him, but the Hebrew renders it better,
for

the iniquitie of his conscience (which is the sin of the heart and nature,) I smote him. As a King is angry and musters up his army against rebels, not only which brings his souldiers out to fight, but who keepe souldiers in their trenches ready for to fight. These sins of thine heart are al ready arm'd to fight against God at the watchword or alarum of any temptation. Nay I dare affirme, and will prove it, that these sinnes provoke God to anger, and are as bad, if not worse, than the sinnes of thy life. for

1. The sin of thine heart or nature, its the cause, the wombe that containes, breeds, brings forth, suckles all the bitter, all the troope of sins that are in the life, and therefore giving life and being to all other, its the greatest sin.

2. Sinne is more abundantly in the heart than in the life. An actuall sinne is but a little breach made by the sea of sinne in thine heart, where all sinne, all poison is met and mingled together. Every actuall sinne is but as a shred broken off from the great bottome of sinne in the heart, and hence Christ saith

Sins of the heart worse than the sins of the life.

1

2

faith, out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh, and out of the evill treasure of the heart wee bring forth evill things. A mans spending mony (I meane sinne in the life) is nothing to his treasure of sin in the heart.

3. 3 Sinne is continually in the heart.

Actuall sinnes of the life flie out like sparkes and vanish, but this brand is alwaies glowing within : the roade spits poison sometimes, but it retaines and keepes a poysonfull nature alwayes.

Rom. 7.

Hence the Apostle calls it, sinne that dwells in mee, that is, which alwaies lies and remaines in mee. So that in regard of the sins of thy heart thou doest rend in peeces and breake,
 1 All the lawes of God. 2 At one clap, 3. Every moment of thy life. Oh ! mee thinkes the thought of this might rend an heart of Rocke in peeces, to thinke I am alwayes grieving God, at all times, whatsoever I do.

4.

4. Actuall sinnes are onely in the life and outward porch ; sinnes of the heart are within the inward house. One enemy within the City is worse than than many without; A traytor on the throne is worse than a traitor in the open field. The heart is Christs Throne. A swine in the best roome is worse than in the outward house. More I might say, but thus you see, sinnes of the life are not so bad, nor provoke Gods wrath so fiercely against thee, as the sinnes of thine heart. Mourn therefore not so much, that thou hast not beene so bad as others are, but look upon thy blacke feete, looke within thine owne heart, and lament that in regard of the sins there thou art as bad as any, mourn not so much meerly that thou hast sinned, as that thou hast a nature so sinfull, that it is thy nature to be proud, and thy nature to be vain and deceitfull, and loath, not only thy sins but thy selfe for sin, being brimfull of unrighteousnesse. But here is not all, consider fourthly.

4. That what ever a naturall man doth is sinne; as the inside is full, so the outside is nothing else but sinne, at least in the sight of an holy God, though not in the sight of blind sinfull men;
In-

4. Every action is sinfull as comming from a Naturall Man.

Lu. 16. 15

Indeed hee may doe many things, which for the matter of them are good, as he may give Almes, pray, fast, come to Church, but as they come from him they are sinne; as a man may speak good words, but we cannot endure to heare him speake because of his stinking breath which defiles them: some actions indeed from their generall nature are indifferent, for all indifferences lye in generals; but every deliberate action considered in Individuo, with all its circumstances, as time, place, motive, end, is either morally good, or morally evill, as may be proved easily; morally good in good men, morally evill in unregenerate and bad men: For let us see particular actions of wicked men.

1

1. All their thoughts are only evill, and that continually, Gen. 6. 5.

2

2. All their words are sinnes, Psal. 50. 16. their mouthes are open Sepulchers which smell filthy when they bee opened.

Rom. 3. 13

3

3. All their civill actions are sin, as their eating, drinking, buying, selling, sleeping and ploughing, Prov. 21. 4.

4. All

The Sincere Convert.

59

4. All their religious actions are sins, as comming to Church. Praying. Pro. 15. 8, 9, 28. 9. Fasting and mourning roare and cry out of thy self till dooms day, they are sins, Isa. 58.

4

Isa. 13. 14

5. All their most Zealous Actions are finnes, as Iehu who killed all Baals Priests, because his action was outwardly and materially good, therefore God rewarded him with temporall favours; but because hee had a Hawkes eye to get and settle a Kingdome to himselfe by this meanes, and so was Theologically evill, therefore God threatens to bee revenged upon him. 2. King. 10.

5

6. Their wisedome is sinne. Oh, men are often commended for their wisdom, wit, and parts, yet those wits, and that wisdom of theirs is sinne, Rom. 8. The wisdom of the flesh is enmity against God.

6

Thus, all they have or doe are sins, For, how can hee doe any good action whose person is filthy? A corrupt Tree cannot bring forth good fruit; thou art out of Christ, therefore all thy thy good things, all thy kindneses done unto the Lord & for the Lord, as thou thinkest, are most odious to him. Let a woman seeke to give all the content to her Husband that may be, not out of any love to him, but only out of love to another man, he abhorres all that shee doth. Every wicked man wants an inward principle of love to God and Christ, and therefore, though hee seekes to honour God never so much, all that hee doth, being done out of love to himselfe, God abhorres all that hee performes. All the good things a wicked man doth, are for himselfe, either for selfe-credit, or selfe-ease, or selfe-contentment, or selfe-safety: Hee sleepe, prayes, heares, speakes, professeth for himselfe alone; hence, acting alwayes for himselfe, hee committeth the highest degree of idolatry, hee pluckes God out of his throne, and makes himselfe a God, because hee makes himselfe his last end in every Action; for a man puts himselfe in the roome of God as well by making himselfe his finis ultimus ultimus, as if he should make himself primum principium. Sin is a forsaking or departing from God. Now every naturall man remaining alwayes in a state of separation from God, because hee alwayes wants the bond of union which is Faith, is alwaies sinning, Gods curse lyes upon him, therefore hee brings out nothing but briers and thornes.

Ier. 20. 13.

Deut. 28.

Object. But thou wilt say, if our praying and hearing bee sinne, why should we doe these duties? wee must not sinne.

obj.

Answer, 1. Good duties are good in themselves, although comming from thy vile heart they are sinnes.

2. It is lesse sinne to doe them, than to omit them, therefore if thou wilt go to hell, goe in the fairest path thou canst in thither.

3. Venture and try, it may be God may heare, not for thy prayers sake, but for his names sake. The unjust Iudge holpe the poore widow, not because hee loved her or her suite, but because of her importunitie; and so be sure thou shalt

Ans.
Why good duties must bee performed though we sin in doin g
them.

thalt have nothing if thou doest not seeke : what though thou beest a dog, yet thou art alive, and art for the present under the Table. Catch not at Christ, snatch not at his bread, but waite till God give thee him ; it may be thou maiest have him one day. Oh wonder then at Gods patience, that thou livest one day longer, who hast all thy lifetime like a filthy Toade spet thy venome in the face of God, that hee hath never beene quiet for thee : oh looke upon that black bill that will one day be put in against thee, at the great day of account, where thou must answer with flames of fire about thine eares, not only for thy drunkenesse, thy bloody oathes, and whoring, but for all the actions of thy short life, and just so many actions so many sins.

Thou hast painted thy face over now with good duties, and good desires; and a little honesty amongst some men, is of that worth and raritie, that they thinke God is beholding to them, if hee can get any good action from them. But when thy painted ted face shall be brought before the fire of Gods wrath, then thy vilenesse shall appeare before men and Angels. Oh know it, that as thou doest nothing else but sinne, so God heapes up wrath against the dreadfull day of wrath.

Thus much for mans misery in regard of sinne.

Now followeth his misery in regard of the consequents or miseries that follow upon sinne. And these are,

1. Present.

2. Future.

First, Mans present miseries, that already lie on him for sinne, are these seven, that is,

Mans present miseries.

First, God is his dreadfull enemy,

I.

Psal. 54. 5.

Quest. How may one know another to be his enemy?

Ans. 1. By their looks. 2. By their threats. 3. By their blowes. So God,

1. Hides his face from every naturall man, and will not looke upon him,

Isay 59. 2.

F

2. God

2. God threatens, nay curseth every naturall man, Gal. 3. 10.

3. God gives them heauey bloudie lasses on their soules and bodies.

Never tell me therefore, that God blesseth thee in thine outward estate; no greater signe of Gods wrath, then for the Lord to give thee thy swinge, as a Father never looks after a desperate Sonne, but lets him run where he pleases. And if God be thine enemy, then every creature is so too, both in Heaven and Earth.

II.

Isai. 55. 6.

Secondly, God hath forsaken them, and they have lost God, Ephes. 2. 12. It's said, that in the grievous famine of Samarita, Doves dung was sold at a large price, because they wanted bread. Oh! men live and pine away without God, without bread, and therefore the dung of worldly contentments are esteemed so much of. Thou hast lost the sight of God, and the favour of God, and the speciall protection of God, and the government of God. Dauid's punishment lyes upon thee in thy naturall estate, thou art a Runagate from the face

The Sincere Convert.

63

face of God, and from his face thou art hid. Many have growne madde to see their houses burnt, and all their goods lost. Oh, but God the greatest good is lost: This losse made Saul cry out in distresse of conscience, in Sam. 28. 15. The Philistians make warre against me, and God is departed from me; the losse of the sweetnesse of whose presence, for a little while onely, made the Lord Jesus himselfe cry out, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? whereas thou hast lost God all thy life time. Oh, thou hast an heart of brasse that canst not mourne for his absence so long. The damned in hell have lost God, and know it, and so the plague of desperate horror lyceth upon them; thou hast lost God here, but knowest it not, and the plague of an hard heart lyceth upon thee, that thou canst not mourne for this losse.

Thirdly; They are condemned men, condemned in the court of Gods justice, by the law which they have sinned against the most high God, & condemned by justice & mercy by the Gospel,

which

F 2

which 1111

12. 31. 3A

III.

which cries murder murder against the sonne of God, Iohn 3. 18. so that every naturall man is damned in Heaven, and damned on earth. God is thy all-seeing terrible Iudge: Conscience is thine accuser; an heavie witnesse: His word is thy Iayle: thy lusts are thy Fetters. In this Bible is pronounced and writ thy doome, thy sentence: Death is thy hangman, and that fire that shall never goe out, thy torment: The Lord hath in his infinite patience reprimed thee for a time; O take heed and get a pardon before the day of execution come.

IIII.

Act. 28. 21

Fourthly, being condemned take him thy Iaylor, he is a bondslave to Satan, Eph. 2. 2. for his servants yee are whom ye obey, saith Christ. Now every naturall man doth the Devills drudgery, and carries the Devills pack, and howsoever he saith he defyeth the Devill, yet he sinnes, and so doth his worke. Satan hath overcome and conquered all men in Adam, and therefore, under his bondage and dominion: And though he cannot compell a man to sin against against his will, yet he hath, i Power.

First, to present and allure a mans heart by a sinfull temptation.

Secondly, to follow him with it, if at first he be something like of it.

Thirdly, to disquiet and wrack him if he will not yeeld, as might be made to appeare in many instances.

Fourthly, besides he knowes mens humours, as poore wandering beggerly Gentlemen doe their friends, in necessitie (yet in seeming courtesie) he visits and applies himselfe unto them, and so gaine them as his owne. Oh he is in a fearefull slavery who is under Satans dominion, who is,

Mans fearefull slavery under Sathan

1. A secret enemy to thee.

2. A deceitfull enemy to thee, that will make a man beleeve (as he did Eva) even in her integrity, that he is in a faire way, yet most miserable.

3. He is a cruell enemy to Lord over them that be his slaves, 2 Cor. 4. 3. he gaggs them, so that they cannot speake, as that man that had a dumbe devill, neither for God, nor to God in prayer; he starves them, so as no Ser-

1.

2.

3.

4.

1.

2.

3.

mon shall ever doe them good; hee robs them of all they get in Gods ordinances, within three houres after the market; the Sermon is ended.

4. He is a strong enemy, Luk. 11. 21. So that if all the devills in hell are able to keepe men from comming out of their sinnes, he will: so strong an enemy, that he keepe men from so much as fighting or groaning under their burthens and bondage, Luke 11. 21. When the strong man keepes the palace, his goods are in peace.

Fifthly, He is cast into utter darknesse, as cruell Jaylor's put their prisoners into the worst dungeons; so Sathan doth naturall men, 2 Cor. 4. 3, 4. they see no God, no Christ, they see not the happinesse of the Saints in light, they see not these dreadfull torments that should now in this day of grace awaken them and humble them. Oh those by-paths which thousands wander from God in, they have no lamp to their feet to shew them where they erre. Thou that art in thy naturall estate art borne blind, and the Devill hath

V.

1 Pet. 2. 9

nom

2 H

hath

hath blinded thine eyes more by sin, and God in justice hath blinded them worse for sinne, so that thou art in a corner of hell, because thou art in utter darknesse, where thou hast not a glimpse of any saving Truth.

VI.

Sixty, They are bound hand and foote in this estate, and cannot come out. Rom. 5, 6. 1 Cor. 2. 14. for all kind of sinnes like chaines have bound every part and faculty of man, so that he is sure for stirring; and those are very strong in him, they being as deare as his members, nay his life, Col. 3. 7. so that when a man begins to forsake his vile courses, and purposeth to become a new man, Devils fetch him back, world enticeth him, and locketh him up, and flesh saith, oh, it is too strict a course, and then farewell merry dayes, and good fellowship. Oh thou mayest wish and desire to come out sometime, but canst not put strength to thy desire, nor indure to doe it. Thou mayest hang downe thy head like a bulrush for sin, but thou canst not repent of sinne, thou mayest presume, but thou canst not be-bscrlj F 4 leeve,

leeve; thou mayest come halfe way and forsake some sinnes, not all sinnes, thou mayest come and knocke at heaven gate as the foolish virgins did, but not enter in and passe through the gate; thou mayest see the land of Canaan, and take much paines to goe into Canaan, and thou mayst taste of the bunches of grapes of that good land, but never enter into Canaan, into heaven, but thou lyest bound hand and foot in this woefull estate, and here thou must lye & rot like a dead carkasse in his grave, unrill the Lord come and rowle away the stone, and bid thee come out and live.

VII.

Lastly, They are ready every moment to drop into hell. God is a consuming fire against thee, and there is but one paper wall of thy body betweene thy soule and eternall flames. How soone may God stop thy breath, there is nothing but that betweene thee and hell; if that were gone, then farewell all. Thou art condemned, and the muller is before thine eyes, God knowes how soone the ladder may be turned, thou hangest but by one rotten twined thread

The Sincere Convert.

71

thread of thy life over the flames of hell every houre.

Thus much of mans present miseries.

Now followeth his future miseries, which are to come upon him hereafter.

They must die, either by a suddaine, sudden or desperate death, Psal. 89. 48. which though it is to a childe of God a sweet sleepe, yet to the wicked it is a fearefull curse proceeding from Gods wrath, whence like a Lyon he reares body and soule asunder, death cometh hissing upon them like a fiery Dragon with the sting of vengeance in the mouth of it, it puts a period to all their worldly contentments, which then they must forsake, and carry nothing away with them, but a rotten winding sheet. It's the beginning of all their woe, it's the captaine that first strikes the stroke, and then armies of endlesse woes follow after, Rev. 6. 2. Oh thou hadst better be a toade, or a dogge then a man, for there's an end of their troubles, when they are dead and gone, they fall now as men from a Mans future Miseries.

I.

sleepe

sleeps, they know not where they shall goe; now Repentance is too late; s-specially if thou hast lived under meanes before, it's either a cold Repentance, when the body is weake and the heart sicke, or an hypocriticall repentance, onely for feare of Hell, and therefore thou sayest, Lord Iesus receive my soule. Nay commonly then mens hearts are most hard, and therefore men dye like Lambes, and cry not out; Then it's hard plucking thy soule from the Devils hands, to whom thou hast given it all thy life by sinne, and if thou dost get it back, dost thou thinke that God will take the devils leavings? Now thy day is past, and darknesse begins to over-spread thy soule; now flocks of Devils come into thy chamber, waiting for thy soul, to flye upon it as a Mastive Dog when the doore is opened. And this is the reason why most men dye quietly that lived wickedly, because Satan then hath them as his own prey, like Pirates that let a Ship passe by, that is empty of goods, they both commonly get them that

that are richly loaden. The Christians in some parts of the Primitive Church tooke the Sacrament every day, because they did looke to die every day. But these times wherein we live, are so poysoned and glutted with their ease, that it is a rare thing to see the man that lookes death stedfastly in the face one houre together, but Death will lay a bitter stroke on these one day.

II. After death they appeare before the Lord to judgement, Heb. 9. 27. their bodies indeed rot in their graves, but their soules returne before the Lord to judgement, Eccles. 12. 7. The generall judgement is at the end of the world, when both body and soule appeares before God and all the world to an account. But there is a particular judgement that every man meets with after this life, immediately at the end of his life, where the soule is condemned onely before the Lord.

You may perceive what this particular judgement is, thus, by these 4. conclusions.

1. That

II.

1. 1. That every man should dye the first day he was borne, is cleare; for the wages of sinne is death; in justice therefore it should be paid a sinfull creature as soone as he is borne.
2. 2. That it should be thus with wicked men, but that Christ begs their lives for a season, 1 Tim. 4. He is the Saviour of all men, that is, not a Saviour of eternall preservation out of hell, but a Saviour of temporall reservation from dropping into Hell.
3. 3. That this space of time thus begged by Christ, is that season wherein onely a man can make his peace with a displeased God, 2 Cor. 6. 2.
4. 4. That if men doe not thus within this cut of time, when Death hath dispatched them, judgement onely remaines for them; that is, when their doome is read, their date of repentance is out, then their sentence of everlasting death is passed upon them, that never can be recalled againe. And this is judgement after death. Hee that judgeth him selfe (saith the Apostle, 1 Cor. 11. 31.) shall not be judged of the

The Sincere Convert.

75

the Lord. Now wicked men will not judge and condemne themselves in this life, therefore at the end of it, God will judge them. All naturall men are lost in this life, but they may be found and recovered againe; but a mans losse by death is irrecoverable, because there is no meanes after death to restore them, there is no Friend to persuade, no Minister to preach, by which Faith is wrought, and men get Christ; There is no power of returning or repenting then, for night is come and the day is past; Againe, the punishment is so heavy, that they can onely beare wrath, so that all their thoughts and affections are taken up with the burden. And therefore Dives cries out, I am tormented. Oh that the consideration of this point might awaken every secure sinner. What will become of thine immortall soule when thou art dead? thou sayest, I know not, I hope well. I tell thee therefore that which may send thee mourning to thy house, and quaking to thy grave, if thou dyest in this estate, thou shalt not dye

The terrour of mans particular judgement.

dye like a Dogge, nor yet like a Toad;
but after death comes judgement, then farewell Friends, when dying; and farewell God for ever when thou art dead.

Now the Lord open your eyes to see the terrors of this particular judgement; which if you could see, unlesse you were mad, it would make you spend whole nights and dayes in seeking to see all even with God.

I will shew you briefly the manner and nature of it in these particulars.

1.

1. Thy soule shall be dragged out of thy body, as out of a stinking prison, by the Devill the Jaylor, into some place within the bowels of the third Heavens, and there thou shalt stand stript of all Friends, all comfort, all creatures, before the presence of God, Luk. 19. 27. as at the Assizes first the Jaylor brings the prisoners out.

2.

2. Then thy soule shall have a new light put into it, wherby it shall see the glorious presence of God, as prisoners brought with gully eyes; looke with terror terror upon the Judge. Now, thou seest no God abroad in the world; but then thou shalt see the Almighty Jehovah, which sight shall strike thee with that Hellish terror and dreadfull horrour, that thou shalt call to the moun-taines to cover thee; O Rocks, Rocks, hide me from the face of the Lambe,

 Rev. 6. 16. as an hevil godd hide w Hos. 1. Then all the finnes that ever thou hast or shalt commit, shall come fresh to thy minde; as when the prisoner is come before the face of the Judge, then his accusers bring in their evidence; thy sleepey Conscience then will be instead of a thousand witnesses; and every sinne then with all the circumstances of it, shall be set in order, armed with Gods wrath round about thee, Psal. 50. 21. as letters writ with iuice of Oranges cannot be read untill it be brought unto the fire, and then they appeare; thou canst not read that bloody bill of indictment thy conscience hath against thee now; but when thou shalt stand neere unto God a consuming fire, then what a heavy reckoning

3.

4

reckoning will appere. It may bee thou hast left many finnes now, and goest so farre, and profiteest so much, that no Christian can discerne thee, nay, thou thinkest thy selfe in a safe estate; but yet there is one leake in thy Ship that will sink thee; there is one secret hidden sinne in thine heart, which thou livest in, as all unsound people doe, that will damne thee. I tell thee, as soone as ever thou art dead and gone, then thou shalt see where the knot did bind thee, where thy sin was that now hath spoiled thee for ever, and then thou shalt grow mad to thinke, that I never saw this sinne I loved, lived in, plotted, perfected mine owne eternall ruine by, untill now, when it is too late to amend.

4.

Then the Lord shall take his everlasting farewell of thee, and make thee know it too. Now God is departed from thee in this life, but he may returne in mercy to thee againe; but then the Lord departs with all his patience to wait for thee more, nor Christ shall be offered thee any more,

no spirit to strive with thee any more,
and so shall passe sentence, though happily not vocally, yet effectually upon thy soule; and say, Depart thou cursed.
Thou shalt see indeede the glory of God that others finde, but to thy greater sorrow shalt never taste the same, Luke 13. 28.

9. Then shall God surrender up thy forsaken soule into the hands of Devils, who being thy Iaylors must keep thee till the great day of account; so that as thy friends are scrambling for thy goods, and wormes for thy body, so Devils shall scramble for thy soule.
For as soone as ever a wicked man is dead, he is either in heaven or in hell.
Not in heaven, for no uncleane thing comes there: if in hell, then among Devills, there shall bee thine eternall lodging, 1 Pet. 3. 19. and hence thy forlorne soule shall lie mourning for the time past ~~now~~ too late, amazed at the enormity of sorrow that is to come, waiting for that fearefull houre when the last trump shall blow, and then body and soule meete to beare that prount G wrath,

wrath, that fire that shall never goe out: Oh therefore suspect and feare the worst of thy selfe now, thou hast seldome or never or very little troubled thine head about this matter, whether Christ will save thee or not, thou hast such strong hopes and confidences already that he will; know, that it is possible, thou mayest be deceived; and if so, when thou shalt know thy doome after death, thou canst not get an houre more to make thy peace in with God, although thou shouldest weepe teares of blood. If either the muffler of ignorance shall be before thine eyes, like an handkercher about the face of one condemned, or if thou art pinioned with any lust, or if thou makest thine owne pardon, proclaimest (because thou art sorry a little for thy sinnes, and resolvest never to doe the like againe) peace to thy soule, thou art one that after death shalt appeare before the Lord to judgement; thou that art thus condemned now, dying so, shalt come to thy fearefull execution after death.

There

The Sincere Convert.

81

There shall be a generall Iudgement of soule and body at the end of the world, wherein they shall be arraigned and condemned before the great Tribunall seat of Iesus Christ, Jude 14, 15. 2 Cor. 5. 10. The hearing of Iudgement to come made Felix to tremble; nothing of more efficacy to awaken a secure sinner, then sad thoughts of this fiery day.

But thou wilt aske me how it may bee proved that there will be such a day.

Obj.

I answer, Gods justice calls for it, this world is the stage where Gods patience and bountie act their parts, and hence every man wil professe and conceive, because he feesles it, that God is mercifull; But Gods justice is questioned, men thinke God to be all mercy and no justice; all honey and no sting; now the wicked prosper in all their waies, are never punished, but live and die in peace, whereas the godly are daily afflicted and reviled. Therefore because this Attribute suffers a totall eclipse almost now, there must come a

Ans.

Why there must be a day of Iudgement.

day wherein it must shine out before all the world in the glory of it, Rom. 2. 5.

The second reason is from the glory of Christ: he was accused, arraigned, condemned by men, therefore he shall be the Iudge of men, John 5. 27. for this is an ordinary piece of Gods providence towards his people, the same evill he casts them into now, he exalts them into the contrary good in his time. As the Lord hath a purpose to make Joseph Ruler over all Egypt, but first he maketh him a slave. God had a meaning to make Christ Iudge of men, therefore first he suffers him to be judged of men.

Quest.

Quest. But when shall this Iudgement day be?

Ans.

Ans. Though we cannot tell the day and houre particularly, yet this we are sure of, that when all the Elect are called, for whose sake the world stands, Isa. 1. 9. when these pillars are taken away, then woe to the world, as when Lot was taken out of Sodom, then Sodom was burnt. Now it is not probable that this time will come as yet:

yet: for first Antichrist must be consumed, and not onely the scattered visible Jewes, but the whole body of the Israelites must first be called, and have a glorious Church here upon earth, Ezech. 37. This glorious Church Scripture and reason will inforce, which when it is called, shall not be expired as soone as 'tis borne, but shall continue many a yeare.

Quest. But how shall this Iudgement be?

Answer. The Apostle describes it 1 Thes. 4. 16, 17.

1. Christ shall breake out of the third heaven, and be seene in the aire, before any dead arise, and this shall be with an admirable shout, as when a King commeth to triumph over his subjects and enemies.

2. Then shall the voyce of the Arch-angell be heard: now this Arch-angell is Iesus Christ himselfe, as the Scripture expounds, being in the Clouds of heaven, hee shall with an audible Heaven-shaking shout say, Rise you dead, and come to Iudgement, even as he Quest.

Ans.

The manner of the last judgement.

1.

2.

called to Lazarus, Lazarus arise.

3. Then the Trump shall blow, and even as at the giving of the Law, Exod. 19. it's said the trumpet sounded, much more lowder shall it now sound when he comes to judge men that have broken the Law.

4. Then shall the dead arise. 1. The bodies of them that have dyed in the Lord shall rise first, then the others that live, shall, like Enoch, be translated and changed, 1 Cor. 15.

5. When thus the Iudge and Iustices are upon their Bench at Christs right hand on their thrones, then shall the guilty prisoners be brought forth, and come out of their graves like filthy toades against this terrible storme: Then shall all the wicked that ever were or ever shall be, stand quaking before this glorious Iudge, with the same bodyes, feete, hands, to receive their doome.

Oh consider of this day thou that livest in thy sinnes now, and yet art safe, there is a day comming wherein thou mayest and shalt be judged.

1.

1. Consider who shall be thy Judge: why, mercy, pity, goodnesse, in selfe; even Iesus Christ that many times held out his bowels of compassion towards thee. A child of God may say, yonder is my brother, friend, husband. But thou mayest say, yonder is mine enemy. He may say at that day, yonder is he that shed his blood to save me; thou mayest say, yonder hee comes whose heart I have pierced with my sinnes, whose blood I have despised. They may say, O come Lord Iesus, and cover me under thy wings: But thou shalt then cry out, O Rocks fall upon mee and hide mee from the face of the Lambe.

2.

2. Consider the manner of his coming, 1 Thess 1. 7. He shall come in flaming fire, the heavens shall be on a flame, the elements shall melt like melting lead upon thee: when a house is on fire at midnight in a Towne, what a fearefull cry is there made? When all the world shall cry fire, fire, & run up and down for shelter to hide themselves, but cannot finde it, but say, O

.1

now the gloomy day of blood and fire is come, here's for my pride, here is for my vanities, and the wages for my drunkenness, security, and neglect of duties.

3.

3. In regard of the heave accusations that shall come against thee at that day. There's never a wicked man almost in the world, as faire a face as he carries, but he hath at some time or other committed some such secret villany, that he would be ready to hang himselfe for shame, if others did know of it; as secret whoredome, selfe-pollution, speculative wantonness, men with men, women with women, as the Apostle speaks Rom. 1. Why, at this day, all the world shall see and heare these privie pranks, then the books shall be opened. Men will not take up a foule businesse, nor end it in private, therefore there shall be a day of publique hearing; things shall not be suddenly shuffled up, as carnall thoughts imagine, viz. That at this day, first Christ shall raise the dead, and then the separation shall be made, and then the sentence

Ecclef.
ult. ult.

rente past, and then suddenly the Iudgement day is done: No, no, it must take up some large quantitie of time, that all the world may see the secret finnes of wicked men in the world, and therefore it may be made evident from all Scripture and Reason, that this day of Christs Kingly office in Judging the world, shall last happily longer than his private administration now (wherein he is lesse glorious) in governing the world. Tremble thou time-server, tremble thou Hypocrite, tremble thou that livest in any secret sinne under the all-seeing eye of this Iudge, thine owne conscience indeed shall be a sufficient witness against thee, to discover all thy finnes at thy particular judgement, but all the world shall openly see thine hidden close courses of darknesse, to thine everlasting shame at this day.

4. In regard of the fearfull sentence that then shall be passed upon thee, Depart thou cursed creature into everlasting fire prepared for the Devill and his Angels. Then shall thou cry out, now the gloomy day of blood and fire is come, here's for my pride, here is for my vanities, and the wages for my drunkenness, security, and neglect of duties.

4.

3.

3. In regard of the heaue acculations that shall come against thee at that day. There's never a wicked man almost in the world, as faire a face as he carries, but he hath at some time or other committed some such secret villany, that he would be ready to hang himselfe for shame, if others did know of it; as secret whoredome, selfe-pollution, speculative wantonness, men with men, women with women, as the Apostle speakes Rom. 1. Why, at this day, all the world shall see and heare these privie pranks, then the books shall be opened. Men will not take up a foule businessse, nor end it in private, therefore there shall be a day of publique hearing; things shall not be suddenly shuffed up, as carnall thoughts imagine, vis. That at this day, first Christ shall raise the dead, and then the separation shall be made, and then the sentence

Ecclef.
ult. ult.

rence past, and then suddenly the Judgement day is done: No, no, it must take up some large quantitie of time, that all the world may see the secret sinnes of wicked men in the world, and therefore it may be made evident from all Scripture and Reason, that this day of Christs Kingly office in Judging the world, shall last happily longer than his private administration now (wherein he is lesse glorious) in governing the world. Tremble thou time server, tremble thou Hypocrite, tremble thou that livest in any secret sinne under the all-seeing eye of this Iudge, thine owne conscience indeed shall be a sufficient witness against thee, to discover all thy sinnes at thy particular judgement, but all the world shall openly see thine hidden close courses of darknesse, to thine everlasting shame at this day.

4. In regard of the fearfull sentence that then shall be passed upon thee; Depart thou curst creature into everlasting fire prepared for the Devill and his Angels. Thou shalt then cry out,

4.

O mercy, Lord, O a little mercy? No, will the Lord Iesus say, I did indeed once offer it you, but you refused, therefore Depart. Then thou shalt plead againe, Lord, if I must depart, yet blesse me before I goe: No, no, Depart thou cursed. Oh but, Lord, if I must depart cursed, let me goe to some good place; no, Depart thou cursed into hell fire. Oh Lord, that's a torment I cannot beare, but if it must be so, Lord, let me come out againe quickly. No, depart thou cursed into everlasting fire. Oh Lord, if this be thy pleasure, that here I must abide, let mee have good company with me: No, Depart thou cursed into everlasting fire prepared for the Devill and his Angels. This shall be thy sentence. The hearing of which may make the rocks to rent, so that, goe on in thy sinne, and prosper, despise and scoffe at Gods Ministers, and prosper, abhorre the power and practise of Religion as a too precise course, and prosper, yet knowing, there will a day come, when thou shalt meet with a dreadfull Judge, a dolefull sentence.

tence. Now is thy day of sinning, but God will have shortly his day of condemning.

When the Iudgement day is done, then the fearefull wrath of God shall be poured out and piled upon their bodies and soules, and the breath of the Lord like a streame of brimstone shall kindle it, and here thou shalt lye burning, and none shall ever quench it. This is the execution of a sinner after judgement, Revel. 21. 8.

Now this wrath of God consists in these things.

1. Thy soule shall be banished from the face and blessed sweet presence of God and Christ, and thou shalt never see the face of God more. It is said, Acts 20. that they wept sore, because they should see Pauls face no more. Oh, thou shalt never see the face of God, Christ, Saints, and Angels more. O heavie doome to famish and pine away for ever without one bit of bread to comfort thee, one smile of God to refresh thee. Men that have their sores running upon them must be shut up from the

IV.

Wherein consists the wrath of God.

The Sincere Convert.

the presence of men sound and whole. Oh, thy sinnes like plague-sores runne on thee, therefore thou must be shut out like a dogge from the presence of God, and all his people, 2 Thes. 1. 9.

2.

2. God shall set himselfe like a consuming infinite fire against thee, and tread thee under his feet, who hast by sinne trod him and his glory under foot all thy life. A man may devise exquisite torments for another, and great power, may make a little sticke to lay on heaue strokes : but great power stirred up to strike from great fury and wrath, makes the stroke deadly. I tell thee, all the wisdom of God shall then be set against thee to devise torments for thee, Mich. 1. 3. there was never such wrath felt or conceived as the Lord hath devised against thee that livest and dyest in thy naturall estate : Hence it is called wrath to come, 1 Thes. 1. ult. The torment which wisdom shall devise, the almighty power of God shall inflict upon thee, so as there was never such power scene in making the world, as
in

in holding a poore creature under the wrath, that holds up the soule in being with one hand, and beats it with the other, ever burning like fire against a creature, and yet that creature never burnt up, Rom. 9. 22. Thinke not this cruelty, it's justice; what cares God for a vile wretch whom nothing can make good while it lives. If wee have been long in hewing a block, and we can make no meet vessell of it, put it to no good use for our selves, wee cast it into the fire: God heweth thee by Sermons, sicknesse, losses, and crosses, sudden death, mercies, and miseries, yet nothing makes thee better; what should God doe with thee, but cast thee hence? Oh consider of this wrath before you feele it. I had rather have all the world burning about mine eares, than to have one blasting frowne from the blessed face of an infinite and dreadfull God. Thou canst not indure the torment of a little kitchin fire on the tip of thy finger, not one halfe houre together: how wilt thou beare the fury of this infinite endlesse consuming suming fire in body and soule throughout all eternity?

3. 3. The never-dying worme of a guilty conscience shall torment thee, as if thou hadst swallowed downe a living poysonfull snake, which shall lie gnawing and biting thine heart for sin past, day & night. And this worm shall torment by shewing the cause of thy misery, that is, that thou didst never care for him that should have saved thee. By shewing thee also thy sins against the Law, by shewing thee thy sloth, whereby thy happinesse is lost. Then shall thy conscience gnaw to thinke, so many nights I went to bed without prayer, and so many dayes and houres I spent in feasting and foolish sporting. Oh if I had spent halfe that time now mis-spent, in praying, in mourning, in meditation, yonder in heaven had I beene. By shewing thee also the means that thou once hadst to avoid this misery; such a Minister I heard once, that told me of my particular sinnes, as if he had been told of me: such a friend perswaded me once to turne over a new leafe:

leave: I remember so many knocks God gave at this iron heart of mine, so many mercies the Lord sent, but oh no meanes could prevaile with me. Lastly, by shewing thee how easily thou mightest have avoided all these miseries. Oh, once I was almost perswaded to be a Christian, but I suffered my heart to grow dead, & fell to loose company, and so lost all. The Lord Iesus came unto my doore and knocked, and if I had done that for Christ, which I did for the Devill many a time, to open at his knocks, I had beene saved. A thousand such bites will this worme give at thine heart, which shall make thee cry out, O time, time, O sermons, sermons; O my hopes and my helps are now lost, that once I had to save my lost soule.

4. Thou shalt take up thy lodging for ever with Devills, and they shall be thy companions: Him thou hast served here, with him must thou dwell there. It scares men out of their wits almost to see the Devill, as they think, when they be alone; but what horreur shall shall fill thy soule when thou shalt be banished from Angels societie, and come into the fellowship of Devills for ever?

4.

Mat. 25.
41.

5. Thou shalt be filled with finall despaire. If a man be grievously sicke, it comforts him to thinke it will not last long. But if the Physitian tell him he must live all his life time in this extremitie, he thinkes the poorest begger in a better estate than himselfe. Oh to thinke when thou hast been millions of yeares in thy sorrowes, then thou art no neerer thy end of bearing thy misery, then at the first comming in; Oh I might once have had mercy and Christ, but no hope now ever to have one glimpse of his face, or one good looke from him any more.

6. Thou shalt vomit out blasphemous oathes & curses in the face of God the father for ever, & curse God that never elected thee, and curse the Lord Iesus that never shed one drop of blood to redeeme thee, and curse God the holy Ghost that passed by thee, and never called thee, Rev. 10. 9. And here thou shalt shalt lie and weepe and gnash thy teeth in spight against God and thy selfe, and roare and stamp and grow madde, that there thou must lie under the curse of God for ever. Thus I say thou shalt lie blaspheming, with Gods wrath like a pile of fire on thy soule burning, and floods, nay seas, nay more, seas of teares (for thou shalt for ever lie weeping) shall never quench it. And here which way so ever thou lookest thou shalt see matter of everlasting griefe.

Look up to heaven, & there thou shalt see (oh) that God is for ever gone.
Looke about thee, thou shalt see De-vills quaking, cursing God; and thousands, nay millions of sinfull damned creatures crying and roaring out with dolefull shriekings: Oh the day that ever I was borne. Looke within thee, there is a guilty conscience gnawing.
Looke to time past, oh those golden dayes of grace, and sweet seasons of mercy are quite lost and gone. Looke to time to come, there thou shalt behold evils, troupes and swarmes of sorrowes, and woës, and raging waves,

193

H

and

and billowes of wrath comming roaring upon thee. Looke to time present, O not one houre or moment of ease or refreshing, but all curses meet together, and feeding upon one poore lost immortall soule, that never can be recovered againe. No God, no Christ, no Spirit to comfort thee, no Minister to preach unto thee, no friend to wipe away thy continuall teares, no Sunne to shine upon thee, not a bit of bread, not one drop of water to coole thy tongue.

This is the misery of every naturall man. Now doe not thou shift it from thy selfe, and say; God is mercifull. True, But it is to very few, as shall be proved. Tis a thousand to one if ever thou bee one of that small number whom God hath picked out to escape this wrath to come. If thou doe not get the Lord Jesus to beare this wrath, farewell God, Christ and Gods mercy for ever. And I am sure that it's no common evill which God gives to every wicked man; if Christ had shed seas of bloud, set thine heart at rest, there there is not one drop of it for thee, untill thou comest to see, and feele, and groane under this miserable estate. I tell thee, Christ is so farre from saving thee, that he is thine enemy. If Christ were here and should say, here is my blood for thee, if thou wilt but lye downe and mourne under the burden of thy misery, and yet for all his speeches, thy dry eyes weepe not, thy stout heart yeelds not, thy hard heart mournes not, as to say; oh ! I am a sinfull, lost, condemned, cursed, dead creature: what shall I doe ? dost not thinke but he would turne away his face from thee, and say, oh ! thou stony hard-hearted creature, wouldst thou have mee save thee from thy misery, and yet thou wilt not groane, sigh, and mourne for deliverance to me, out of thy misery ? if thou likest thine estate so well, and prizest me so little, perish in thy misery for ever.

Oh labour to be humbled day and night under this thy woefull estate. Thou art guilty of Adams grievous sin;
H 2 will

The scope of knowing our miseries is to be humbled.

will this breake thine heart? No, Thou art dead in sinne, and top-full of all sinne, will this breake thine heart? No, Whatsoever thou dost, hast done, shalt doe, remaining in this estate, is sinne, will this breake thine heart? No. God is thine enemy, and thou hast lost him, will this breake thine heart? No. Thou art condemned to die eternally; Sathan is thy laylor, thou art bound hand and foote in the bolts of thy finnes, and cast into utter darknesse, and ready every moment to drop into hell, will this breake thine heart? No. Thou must dye, and after that appeare before the Lord to judgement; and then beare Gods everlasting insupportable wrath, which rents the rocks, and burnes downe to the bottome of hell; will this breake thine hard heart man? No. Then fare well Christ for ever, never look to see a Christ, untill thou dost come to feele thy misery out of Christ. Labour therefore for this, and the Lord will reveale the brazen Serpent, pent, when thou art in thine owne sense and feeling stung to death with thy fiery Serpents.

So I come to open the Fourth Principall point, v. 2.

H3

CHAP.

C H A P. IIII.

THat the Lord Jesus Christ is the onely means of Redemption and deliverance out of this estate, Eph. i. 7. In whom wee have redemption through his blood: which plainly demonstrates, that

Doct.

Jesus Christ is the onely means of mans Redemption and deliverance out of his bondage and miserable estate. And this is the Doctrine I shall now insist upon.

When the Israelites were in bondage and misery, he sends Moses to deliver them. When they were in Babylon, he stirreth up Cyrus to open the prison-gates to them. But when man is in misery, he sends the Lord Jesus, God and man, to redeeme him, Act. 4. 12.

Quest.

Quest. How doth Christ redeeme men out of this misery?

Answ.

I.

Answ. By paying a price for them. 1 Cor. 6. ult. Gods mercy will be manifested in saving some, and his justice must must be satisfied by having satisfaction or price made and paid for mans sinne.

Hence Christ satisfieth Gods Justice.

First, by standing in the roome of all them whom mercy decreeth to save. A Surety standeth in the roome of a debtor, Heb. 7. 22. As the first Adam stood in the roome of all mankind fallen: So Christ standeth in the roome of all men rising, or to be restored againe.

Secondly, by taking from them, in whose roome he stood, the eternall guilt of all their sinnes; and by assuming the guilt of all those sinnes unto himselfe, 2 Cor. 5. 21. Hence Luther said, Christ was the greatest sinner by imputation.

Thirdly, by bearing the curse and wrath of God kindled against sinne: God is so holy, that when he seeth sin sticking onely by imputation to his owne Sonne, he will not spare him, but his wrath and curse must he beare, Gal. 3. 13. Christ drinks up the cup of

I.
How men are redeemed.

2.

3.

all the Elect at one draught, which they should have been sipping, and drinking, and swilling, and tormented with millions of yeares.

4.

.1
nom wola
-99801 vir bom

Dan. 9. 14

Fourthly, by bringing into the presence of God perfect righteousness, Rom. 5. 11 for this also Gods Justice required perfection, conformity to the Law, as well as (perfect satisfaction) suffering for the wrong offered to the Law-giver. Justice thus requiring these foure things, Christ satisfies Justice by performing them, and so payes the price.

II.

I. I. Christ is a Redeemer by strong hand. The first Redemption by price is finished in Christs person, at his resurrection: the second is begun by the Spirit in mans vocation, and ended at the day of Judgement; as money is first paid for a Captive in Turkey, and then because he cannot come to his owne Prince himselfe, he is fetcht away by strong hand.

Pse 1.

Here is incouragement to the vilest sinner, and comfort to the selfe-succourlesse and lost sinner, who have spent

The Sincere Convert.

ION

Spent all their money, their time and endeavours upon these duties and strivings, that have bene but poore Physicians to them: Oh looke up here to the Lord Jesus, who can doe that cure for thee in a moment, which all creatures cannot doe in many yeares.
What bolts, what strong fetters, what unruly lusts, temptations and miseries art thou lockt into? Behold the Deliverer is come out of Sion, having satisfied Justice, and paid a price to ransome some poore Captives, Luce. 4. 18. with the Keyes of Heaven, Hell, and thy unruly heart, in his hand, to fetch thee out with great mercy and strong hand, who knowes but thou poore prisoner of Hell, thou poore Captive of the Devill, thou poore shackled sinner mayst be one whom he is come for.
Oh looke up to him, sigh to Heaven for deliverance from him, and be glad and rejoyce at his coming.

This strikes terrour to them, that though there is a meane of deliverance, yet they lye in their misery, never groane, never sigh to the Lord Jesus.

Vse 2.

sus for deliverance; nay, that rejoyce in their bondage, and dance to Hell in their bolts; nay, that are weary of deliverance, that sit in the stocks, when they are at prayers, that come out of the Church, when the tedious Sermon runs somewhat beyond the houre, like prisoners out of a Jail, that despise the Lord Jesus, when he offers to open the doores, and so let them out of that miserable estate. Oh poore creatures! is there a meanes of deliverance? and dost thou neglect, nay despise it. Know it, that this will cut thine heart one day, when thou art hanging in thy gibbets in Hell, to see others standing at Gods right hand, redeemed by Christ; thou mightst have had share in their honour, for there was a Deliverer come to save thee, but thou wouldst have none of him. Oh thou wilt lye yelling in those everlasting burnings, and teare thy haire, and curse thy selfe: from hence might I have been delivered, but I would not. Hath Christ delivered thee from Hell, and hath he not delivered thee from thine Ale-

Althowse ^{he} hath Christ delivered thee from Sathans societie, when he hath not delivered thee from thy loose company yet? Hath Christ delivered thee from burning, when thy faggots, thy sins, grow in thee? Is Christs bloud thine, that mak'st no more account of it, nor feelest no more vertue from it than in the bloud of a chicken? Art thou redeemed, dost thou hope by Christ to be saved, that didst never see, nor feele, nor sigh under thy bondage? O, the devils will keepe holiday (as it were) in hell, in respect of thee, who shalt mourne under Gods wrath, and lament. Oh there was a meanes to deliver us out of it, but thou shalt mourne for ever for thy misery. And this will bee a bodkin at thine heart one day, to thinke there was a deliverer, but I wretch would none of him.

Here likewise is matter of Reproofe, to such as seeke to come out of this misery from and by themselves. If they be ignorant, they hope to be saved by their good meaning and prayers.

Vse 3.

The Sincere Convert.

ers. If Civill, by paying all they owe, and doing as they would be done by, and by doing no body any harme. If they be troubled about their estates, then they lick themselves whole by their mourning, repenting, and reforming. Oh poore stubble, canst thou stand before this consuming fire without sin? Canst thou make thy selfe a Christ for thy selfe? Canst thou beare & come from under an infinite wrath? canst thou bring in perfect righteousness into the presence of God? This Christ must doe, else he could not satisfie and redeeme. And if thou canst not doe this, and hast no Christ, desol and pray, that heaven and earth shake, till thou hast worne thy tongue to the stubbs, endeavour as much as thou canst, and others commend thee for a diligent Christian; mourne in some Wildernesse till doomes day, digge thy grave there with thy nayles, weepe buckets full of houely teares, till thou canst weepe no more. Fast and Pray till thy skin and bones cleave together; Promise and Purpose, with full

The Sincere Convert.

105

full resolution to be better; nay re- forme thy head, heart, life, & tongue, & some, nay all finnes, live like an Angell, shine like a sunne, walke up and downe
the world like a distressed Pilgrim going to another Countrey, so that all Christians commend and admire thee.
Die ten thousand deaths, lie at the firebacke in Hell so many millions of yeares as there be piles of grasse on the earth, or sands upon the Sea-shore, or starres in heaven, or motes in the Sun:
I tell thee, not one sparke of Gods wrath against thy sinne shall be, can be quenched by all these duties, nor by any of these sorrowes, or teares; for, these are not the blood of Christ. Nay if all the Angels and Saints in heaven and earth should pray for thee, these cannot deliver thee, for they are not the blood of Christ. Nay, God as a Creator having made a law, will not forgive one sinne without the blood of Christ; Nay, Christs blood will not doe it neither, if thou doest joyne never so little, that thou hast or doest, unto Jesus Christ, and makest thy selfe

Gal. 3.2.

or.

or any of thy duties copartners with Christ in that great worke of saving thee. Cry out therefore as that blessed Martyr did, None but Christ, none but Christ.

Vse 4. Take heed of neglecting or rejecting so great salvation by Jesus Christ. Take heede of spilling this potion, that onely can cure thee.

Ob. But thou wilt say, this meanes of redemption is onely appointed for some, it is not intended for all, therefore not for mee, therefore how can I reject Christ?

Ans. It is true, Christ spent not his breath to pray for all, John 17. 9. much lesse his blood for all; therefore he was never intended as a Redeemer of all; But that he is not intended as a Deliver of thee. How doth this follow? How dost thou know this?

But secondly, I say; Though Christ be not intended for all, yet he is offered unto all, and therefore unto thee. And the ground is this chiefly.

The offer
of Christ
universall, and why.

The universall offer of Christ ariseth

seth not from Christs Priestly office immediately, but from his Kingly office, whereby the Father having given him all power and dominion in heaven & earth, he hereupon commands all men to stoop unto him, and likewise bids all his Disciples and all their successours to goe and preach the Gospel to every creature under Heaven, Mat. 28. 18, 19 For, Christ doth not immediately offer himselfe to all men as a Saviour, whereby they may be encouraged to serve him as a King: but first as a King commanding them to cast away their weapons, and stoop unto his Scepter, and depend upon his free mercy, acknowledging, if ever he lave me, I will blesse him; if he damne me, his name is righteous in so dealing with me.

But that I may fasten this exhortation, I will shew these foure things.

I. The Lord Jesus is offered to every particular person: which I will shew thus. What hast thou to say against it, that thou doest doubt of it? It may be thou wilt plead.

Oh, I am so ignorant of my selfe, God, Christ, or his will, that surely the Lord offers no Christ to me.

Yes, but he doth, though thou lyeest in utter darknesse. Our blessed Saviour glorified his Father, for revealing the mystery of the Gospel to simple men, neglecting those that

I

Mark. 16.
15.

I.
The offer
of Christ
universall, & wherein.

Ob.

Ans.

Prov. 9 4.

2 Cor. 5.
20.

that carried the chiefe reputation of wisdom in the world. The parts of none are so low, as that they are beneath the gracious regard of Christ. God bestoweth the best fruits of his love upon meane and weak persons here, that he might confound the pride of flesh the more. Where it pleaseth him to make his choice, and to exalt his mercy, he passeth by no degree of wit, though never so incapable.

Pro. 1. 21,
23.

Obj.

But thou wilt say ; I am an enemy to God, and have a heart so stubborne and loath to yeeld ; I have vexed him to the very heart by my transgressions.

Ans.

Yet he beseecheth thee to be reconciled. Put case thou hast been a sinner, and rebellious against God, yet so long as thou art not found amongst malicious opposers, and underminers of his truth, never give way to despaying thoughts, thou hast a mercifull Saviour.

Obj.

But I have despised the meanes of Reconciliation and rejected mercy.

Ans.

Yet God calls thee to returne ; Thou hast played the Harlot with many lovers, yet turne againe to me, sayth the Lord, Jer. 3. 1. Cast thy selfe into the armes of Christ, and if thou perishest, perish there ; if thou doest not, thou art sure to perish. If mercy be to be had any where, it is by seeking to Christ, not by running from him. Herein appears Christ

Christs love to thee, that he hath given thee a heart in some degree sensible; hee might have given thee up to hardnesse, securitie, and prophanenesse; of all spirituall judgements the greatest. But he that dyed for his enemies, will in no wise refuse those the desire of whose soule is towards him. When the Prodigall set himselfe to returne to his Father, his Father stayes not for him but meets him in the way. If our sinnes displease us, they shall never hurt us; but wee shall be esteemed of God to be, that which wee desire and labour to be, Psal. 145. 19.

But can the Lord offer Christ to mee, so poore, that have no strength, no faith, no grace, nor sense of my povertie.

Yes, even to thee; why should wee except our selves, when Christ doth not except us. Come unto mee all yee that are weary and heavy laden. Wee are therefore poore, because we know not our riches. We can never be in such a condition, wherein there will be just cause of utter despayre. He that sits in darknesse, and seeth no light, no light of comfort, no light of Gods counteratice, yet let him trust in the Name of the Lord. Weakneses doe not debarre us from mercy, nay, they incline God the more. The Husband is bound to beare with the wife, as being the weaker vessell; and shall we think God will exempt himselfe from his owne

Obj.

Ans.

Jer 9.

The Sincere Convert.

Rule, and not beare with his weak Spouse ?

Obj.

But is this offer made to me that cannot love, prize, nor desire the Lord Jesus,

Ans.

Yes, to thee, Christ knows how to pity us in this case. We are weak, but we are his. A Father looks not so much at the blemishes of his childe, as at his owne nature in him; So Christ finds matter of love from any thing of his owne in us. A Christians carriage towards Christ may in many things be very offensive, & cause much strangeness, yet (so long as he resolves not upon any knowne evill) Christ will owne him, and he Christ.

Obj.

Oh ! but I have fallen from God oft, since he hath inlightned me; And doth he tender Christ to me.

Ans.

Thou must know that Christ hath married every beleeving Soule to himselfe, and that where the worke of grace is begun, sin looses strength by every new fall. If there be a spring of sinne in thee, there is a spring of mercy in God, and a fountaine daily opened to wash thy uncleanness in. Adam (indeed) lost all by once sinning; but we are under a better Covenant, a Covenant of Mercy, and are encouraged by the Sonne to goe to the Father every day for the finnes of that day.

Obj.

If I was willing to receive Christ, I might have Christ offered to me. But will the

The Sincere Convert.

111

the Lord offer him to such a one as desires not to have Christ ?

Yes, (sayth our Saviour) I would have gathered you, as the henne gathereth her chickens under her wings, and you would not. Wee must know, a creating power cannot onely bring something out of nothing, but contrary out of contrary; of unwilling, God can make us a willing people. There is a promise of pouring cleane water upon us, and Christ hath taken upon him to purge his Spouse, and make her fit for himselfe.

Ans.

What hast thou now to plead against this strange kindnesse of the Lord in offering Christ to thee ? Thou wilt say, it may be :

O ! I feare time is past, Oh time is past. I might once have had Christ, but now mine heart is sealed downe with hardnesse, blindnesse, unbeliefe ; oh ! time is now gone.

Obj.

No, not so, see Isai. 65. 1, 2, 3. All the day long God holdeth out his hands to a back-sliding and rebellious people. Thy day of grace, thy day of meanes, thy day of life, thy day of Gods striving with thee, and stirring of thee, still lasts.

Ans.

But if God be so willing to save, and so prodigall of his Christ, why doth he not give me Christ, or draw me to Christ ?

Obj.

Ans.

I answer. What command dost thou looke for to draw thee to Christ, but this word, Come; Oh come thou poore, forlorne, lost, blind, cursed, nothing. I will save thee, I will enrich thee, I will forgive thee, I will enlighten thee, I will blesse thee, I will be all things unto thee, doe all things for thee. May not this winne and melt the heart of a Devill?

Quest.

II. Upon what conditions may Christ be had?

Ans.

Make an exchange of what thou art or hast with Christ, for what Christ is or hath; and so taking him, (like the wise Merchant the Pearle) thou shalt have Salvation with him.

On what resumes Christ
may be had,

Now this Exchange lyeth in these foute things chiefly.

1.

First, give away thy selfe to him, head, heart, tongue, body, soule, and he will give away himselfe unto thee, Cant. 6. 3. yea he will stand in thy roome in Heaven, that thou maist triumph and say, I am already in Heaven, glorified in him. I see Gods blessed face in Christ; I have conquered Death, Hell, and the Devill in him.

2.

Secondly, Give away all thy sinnes to Christ, confesse them, leave them, cast them upon the Lord Jesus, so as to receive power from him to forsake them. And he will be made sinne for thee, to take them away from thee, 1 Ioh. 1. 9.

Third-

The Sincere Convert.

113

Thirdly, give away thine honour, pleasure, profit, life, for him; he will give away his Crowne and honour, life and all to thee, Luk. 18. Let nothing be sweet unto thee but him, and nothing shall be sweet unto him but thee.

Fourthly, give away thy Rags, forsake thine own Righteousnesse for him; he will give away all his Robes and Righteousnesse to thee, Phil. 3. 8, 9. Thou shalt stand as glorious in the sight of God, howsoever thou art a poore sneake in thy selfe, as an Angel, nay, as all the Angels, because cloathed with his Sonne Christ Jesus his Righteousnesse.

Now tell me, will you have Christ? He is offered to you. Yes, you will all say: Yea, with all mine heart. But will you have him on these termes? upon these IIII. conditions?

Now because men will flatter themselves, and say, Yes.

III. I will shew you foure sorts of people that reject Christ thus offered.

First, The sleighty unbeliever; that when he heares of an offer of Christ, and should wonder at the love of the Lord in doing this; he makes nothing of it, but goes from the Church, and sayes, Wee must give Ministers the wall in the Pulpit; and, poore men, they must have somewhat to say and preach

I 4

3

4.

III.

Fouresorts of people that reject Christ.

1.

preach for their living : There was a good plaine Sermon to day, the man seemes to meane well, but I thinke he be no great Scholler ; and so makes no more of the offer of Christ, then of the offer of a straw at their feet. If a good bargaine be offered them, they will forget all their businesse to accomplish that; yet they make light of this offer, Matth. 22. 5.

2. Secondly, The desperate unbeliever : that seeing his sinnes to be so great, and feeling his heart so hard, and finding but little good from God, since he sought for helpe, (like Gair;) flyeth from the presence of the Lord; like a mad Lion he breaks his chaines of restraining grace, and runneth roaring after his prey, after his cups, queanes, lusts, &c. and so will not honour Christ with such a great cure of such great sinnes, that he shall never have the credit of it, nor will be beholding to him for such a kindnesse.

3. Thirdly, The presumptuous unbeliever : that seeing what sinnes he hath committed, and it may be having a little touch and some sorrow for his sinnes, catcheth at Christ, hoping to be saved by him before ever he come to be loaden with sinne as the greatest evill, or Gods wrath kindled against him as his greatest curse ; and so catching at Christ, hopes he hath Christ, and hoping he hath Christ already, shuts out Christ for the future, and so rejects him. Mich. 3. 11. You shall have these men and women complaine never of the want, but onely of the weaknesse of their Faith, & they will not be beaten off from thence; let them heare never so much of their misery, nor see never so much of their sinnes, yet they will not be beaten off from trusting to Christ.
out

Fourthly, The tottering doubtfull unbeliever, one that is in a question whether he had best have Christ or no. He seeth some good in Christ that he would gladly have him for, as, there I shall have Heaven, and pardon, and grace, and peace, and yet he seeth many things he dislikes with Christ; as, namely, then farewell merry meetings, pastimes, Cards and Dice, pleasure and sinfull games; and hence they totter this way and that way, not knowing whether they had best have Christ or no, Iam. 1. 6, 7. these people reject Jesus Christ.

IV. And now come and see the greatness of this sinne.

1. It's a most bloudy sinne, it's a trampling under foot the bloud of the Sonne of God, Heb. 10. 21.

2. It's a most dishonouring sinne; for, as by the first act of Faith, a man glorifieth God by obeying all the Law at an instant in Christ: so, by rejecting him thou dost breake

4.

IV.

The great evill in rejecting Christ.

1.

2.

break all those Lawes of God in an instant, and so doest dishonour him.

3.

3. It's a most ungratefull sinne, it's despising Gods greatest love, which the Lord takes most heavily.

4.

4. It is a most inexcusable sinne; for what have you to cast against Iesus Christ? Oh, my sinnes are so great, thou wilt say. But take Christ, his Bloud will wash thee from all thy sinnes.

Obj.

Oh! but mine heart is hard, and my minde blind.

Ans.

Yea, but take me, and I will breake thine heart, open thine eyes. A new heart is Gods gift, and he hath promised to create it in us.

Obj.

Oh! but then I must forsake all my pleasures.

Ans.

Thou shalt have them fully, continually, infinitely in Christ.

Obj.

Oh! but I cannot take Christ.

Ans.

Oh! but Christ can give thee an hand to receive him, as well as give away himselfe.

5.

5. It is a most heavy sinne. What sinne will gripe so in Hell, as this? Ioh. 3. 19. God the Father shall strike the Devils for breaking the Law of the Creation, but God the Sonne shall strike thee, and the Comforter himselfe shall set himselfe against thee, for despising the meanes and offers of Redemption. The Devils might never have had mercy, but thou shalt think with anguish, and vexation, and madnesse of heart, I might have had a Christ, he was offered unto me; mercy wooed this stubborn proud heart to yeeld. But, O Rocke of Adamant that I was, it did not affect me. Oh fly speedily to this Citie of Refuge, least the pursuer of blood overtake thee.

Re-

Away then out of your selves to the Lord Jesus. Heaven and earth leave thee, and have forsaken thee; now there is but one more that can doe thee good, and deliver thy soule from endlesse sorrow: goe to him, and take hold on him, not with the hand of presumption and love to thy selfe to save thy selfe, but with the hand of faith, and love to him to honour him.

I am well enough already, what tell you me of Christ?

This is the damning sinne of these times, when men have Christ offered unto them, foretelling them else of wrath to come, they say they are well; hence feeling no judgement here, they feare no wrath hereafter; hence being well, they feelee no need of Christ; hence till they dye, they never seeke out for a Saviour. Men will not come into the Arke already made for them, before the flood arise. The world makes so much

Vse 3.

Ob.

Answ.

much of those it nurseth up, that they are unwilling to come to heaven, when they are called to come home.

Obj.

But it may be Christ hath not redeemed me, nor shed his blood for me, therefore why should I goe to him?

Ans.

It may be it is true, may be not, yet doe thou venture as those, Joel 2. who knowes but the Lord may returne? It is true, God hath elected but few, and so the Sonne hath shed his blood, and dyed but for a few, yet this is no excuse for thee, to lie downe and say, what should I seeke out of my selfe for succour? Thou must in this case venture and try, as many men amongst us do now, who hearing of one good living fallen, twenty of them will goe and seeke for it, although they know onely one shall have it. Therefore say as those Lepers in Samaria; if I stay here in my sinnes, I die: if I goe out to the Campe of the Syrians, wee may live, wee can but die however: if I goe out to Christ, I may get mercy, how ever I can but dye, and it is better to dye at Christs feete, than in thine owne puddle. Content not your selves therefore with your bare reformation and amending your lives, this is but to crosse the debt in thine owne booke, it remaineth uncanceled in the Creditors booke still: but goe, take, offer up this eternall sacrifice before the eyes eyes of God the Father, and cry guilty at his barre, and looke for mercy from him; sigh under thy bondage, that as Moses was sent unto the Israelites, so may Christ be sent into thy soule. Rest not therefore in the sight or sense of a helpelesse condition; saying, I cannot helpe my selfe unlesse Christ doth: sigh unto the Lord Jesus in Heaven for succour, and admire the Lord for ever, that when there was no helpe, and when he might have raised out of the stones children to praise him; yet he should send his Sonne out of his bosome to save thee. So much for this particular; The fifth Divine Principle followes to be handled.

C H A P. V.

THat those that are saved out of this estate, are very few, and that those that are saved, are saved with very much difficulty, Marth. 7. 14. Straight is the gate, and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that finde it.

Here are two parts.

1. The paucity of them that shall be saved; few finde the way thither.
2. The difficulty of being saved, straight and narrow is the way and gate unto life.

Hence

much of those it nurseth up, that they are unwilling to come to heaven, when they are called to come home.

Obj.

But it may be Christ hath not redeemed me, nor shed his blood for me, therefore why should I goe to him?

Ans.

It may be it is true, may be not, yet doe thou venture as those, Ios 2. who knowes but the Lord may returne? It is true, God hath elected but few, and so the Sonne hath shed his blood, and dyed but for a few, yet this is no excuse for thee, to lie downe and say, what should I seeke out of my selfe for succour? Thou must in this case venture and try, as many men amongst us do now, who hearing of one good living fallen, twenty of them will goe and seeke for it, although they know onely one shall have it. Therefore say as those Lepers in Samaria; if I stay here in my sinnes, I die: if I goe out to the Campe of the Syrians, wee may live, wee can but die however: if I goe out to Christ, I may get mercy, how ever I can but dye, and it is better to dye at Christs feete, than in thine owne puddle. Content not your selves therefore with your bare reformation and amending your lives, this is but to crosse the debt in thine owne booke, it remaineth uncanceled in the Creditors booke still: but goe, take, offer up this eternall sacrifice before the eyes eyes of God the Father, and cry guilty at his barre, and looke for mercy from him; sigh under thy bondage, that as Moses was sent unto the Israelites, so may Christ be sent into thy soule. Rest not therefore in the sight or sense of a helpless condition; saying, I cannot helpe my selfe unlesse Christ doth: sigh unto the Lord Jesus in Heaven for succour, and admire the Lord for ever, that when there was no helpe, and when he might have raised out of the stones children to praise him; yet he should send his Sonne out of his bosome to save thee. So much for this particular; The fifth Divine Principle followes to be handled.

C H A P. V.

THAT those that are saved out of this estate, are very few, and that those that are saved, are saved with very much difficulty, Matth. 7. 14. Straight is the gate, and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that finde it.

Here are two parts.

1. The paucity of them that shall be saved; few finde the way thither.
2. The difficulty of being saved, Straight and narrow is the way and gate unto life.

Hence

Doct. 1.

Hence arise two Doctrines.

Luk. 12.

32.

1. That the number of them that shall be saved is very small, Luk. 13. 24. the devill hath his drove and swarmes that goe to hell; as fast as bees to their hive; Christ hath his flock; and that is but a little flock; hence Gods children are called jewells, Mal. 3. 17. which commonly are kept secret, in respect of the other lumber in the house; hence they are called strangers and pilgrims, which are very few in respect of the inhabitants of the Countrey, through which they passe: hence they are called Sonnes of God, 1 John 3. 2. of the blond royall, which are few in respect of common subjects.

But see the truth of this point in these two things.

Few saved
in all ages

First, Looke to all ages and times of the world. Secondly, to all places and persons in the world, and wee shall see few men were saved.

I.

1. Looke to all ages, and we shall finde but a handfull saved. As soone as ever the Lord began to keepe house, and there were but two families in it, there was a bloudy Cain living, and a good Abel slaine. And as the world increased in number, so in wickednesse, Gen. 6. 12. it is said, All flesh had corrupted their wayes, and amongst so many thousand men, not one righteous but

The Sincere Convert.

121

but Noah, and his family ; and yet in the Arke there crept in a cursed Cham.

Afterwards, as Abrahams posteritie increased, so we see their sinne abounded. When his posteritie was in Egypt, where one would thinke if ever men were good, now it would appeare, being so heavily afflicted by Pharaoh, being by so many miracles miraculously delivered by the hand of Moses ; yet most of these God was wroth with, Heb. 3. 12. and onely two of them, Caleb and Josua went into Canaan, a type of Heaven. Looke into Solomons time, what glorious times ! what great profession was there then ! yet after his death, ten Tribes fell to the odious sin of Idolatry, following the command of Jeroboam their King. Looke further into Isaias time, when there were multitudes of sacrifices and prayers, Isay 1. 11. yet then there was but a remnant, nay a very little remnant, that should be saved. And looke to the time of Christs comming in the flesh (for I pick out the best times of all) when one would thinke by such Sermons he preached, such miracles he wrought, such a life as he led, all the Jewes should have entertained him, yet 'tis said, He came unto his owne, and they received him not. So few, that Christ himselfe admires at one good Nathaniel, Behold an Israelite in whom there is

Ish. 8. 9.

Ioh. 1. 12.

Revel. 3. 4.

Act. 20. 28
29. 30.

no guile. In the Apostles time, many indeed were converted, but few comparatively, and amongst the best Churches many bad: as that at Philippi, Phil. 3. 18. many had a name to live, but were dead, and few onely kept their garments unspotted. And presently after the Apostles time, many grievous wolves came and devoured the sheepe; and so in succeeding ages, Revel. 12. 9. all the earth wondered at the whore in Scarlet.

And in Luthers time, when the light began to arise againe, he saw so many carnall Gospellers, that he breaks out in one Sermon into these speeches; God grant I may never live to see those bloody dayes that are comming upon an ungodly world. Latimer saw so much prophaneesse in his time, that he thought verily Doomes day was just at hand. And have not our eyes seene in the Palatinate, where scarce one man in twenty that stood out, but fell from their glorious profession to Popery, as fast as leaves fall in Autumne. Who would have thought there had lurked such hearts under such a shew of detesting Popery, as was among them before. And at Christs coming, shall he finde faith on the earth?

Few shall
be saved
in all places.

2. Let us looke into all places and persons, and see how few shall be saved. The world is now split into foure parts, Europe, Asia, Africa, and America: and the three biggest biggest parts are drowned in a deluge of prophanenesse and superstition; they doe not so much as professe Christ, you may see the sentence of death writ on these mens foreheads, 1st. 19. ult. But let us look upo the best part of the world, and that is Europe, how few shall be saved there. First, The Grecian Church, howsoever now in these dayes, their good Patriarch of Constantinople is about a generall Reformation among them, and hath done much good, yet are they for the present, and have been for the most part of them without the saving meanes of knowledge. They content themselves with their old superstitions, having little or no Preaching at all. And for the other parts, as Italy, Spaine, France, Germany, for the most part they are Popish; and see the end of these men, 2Ths. 1. 9. And now amongst them that carry the badge of honesty, I will not speake what mine eares have heard, & my heart beleeves concerning other Churches. I will come into our owne Church of England, which is the most flourishing

K

Church

Few shall be saved in England.

1 Cor. i.
29.

Luk. 19.
24, 25.

Church in the world: never had Church such Preachers, such meanes, yet have we not some Chappels and Churches stand as dark lanthornes without light, where people are led with blind, or idle, or licentious Ministers, and so both fall into the ditch?

Nay, even amongst them that have the meanes of grace, but few shall be saved. It may be sometimes amongst ninerie nine in a Parish, Christ sends a Minister to call some one lost Sheepe, Matth. 13. Three grounds were bad where the seede was sowne, and onely one ground good. It's a strange speech of Chrysostome in his fourth Sermon to the people of Antioch, where he was much beloved, and did much good.
“How many doe you thinke (saith he) “shall be saved in this Citie? It will “be an hard speech to you, but I will “speake it; though here be so many “thousands of you, yet there cannot “be found a hundred that shall be sa“ved, and I doubt of them too; for “what villany is there among youth, “what sloth in old men? and so he goes
on:

on : So say I, never tell me, we are baptized, and are Christians, and trust to Christ ; let us but separate the Goates from the Sheepe, and exclude none, but such as the Scripture doth, and sets a crosse upon their dores, with, Lord have mercy upon them, and we shall see, onely few in the Citie shall be saved.

1. Cast out all the Prophane people among us, as drunkards, swearers, whores, lyers, which the Scripture brands for blacke sheepe, and condemnes them in a hundred places.

1.

2. Set by all Civill men, that are but wolves chained up, tame devills, swine in a faire meadow, that pay all they owe, and doe no body any harme, yet do none any great good, that plead for themselves and say, who can say black is mine eye? These are righteous men, whom Christ never came to call, for he came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

3. Cast by all Hypocrites, that like stage players in the sight of others, act the parts of Kings and honest men ; when looke upon them in their ry-ring house, they are but base varlets.

4. Formall Professors, and Garnall Gospellers, that have a thing like faith, and like sorrow, and like true repentance, and like good desires, but yet they be but pictures, they deceive others and themselves too, 2 Tim. 3. 5.

2.

Set by these foure sorts, how few there are to be saved, even among them that are hatcht in the bosome of the Church?

Vse 1.

First, Here then is an use of incouragement. Be not discouraged by the name of singularitye. What? doe you thinke your selfe wiser than others? and shall none be saved but such as are so precise as Ministers prate? are you wiser then others, that you thinke none shall goe to heaven but your self? I tell you, if you would be saved, you must be singular men, not out of fashion, but out of conscience, Act. 24. 16.

Tit. 2. 14.

Vse 2.

Secondly, here is matter of terroure to all those that be of opinion, that few shall be saved, and therefore when they are convinced of the danger of sinne by the Word, thy fly to this shelter, if I be be damned, it will be woe to many more besides me then; as though most should not be damned. Oh yes, the most of them that live in the Church shall perish. And this made an Hermit, which Theodore mentions, to live fifteen yeares in a Cell in a desolate wilderness, with nothing but bread and water, and yet doubted after all his sorrow, whether he should be saved or no. Oh, Gods wrath is heavie which thou shalt one day beare.

Thirdly, this ministreth exhortation to all confident people, that think they beleeve, and say, they doubt not but to be saved, and hence doe not much feare death. Oh, learne hence to suspect and feare your estates, and feare it so much, that thou canst not be quiet, untill thou hast got some assurance thou shalt be saved. When Christ told his Disciples that one of them should betray him, they all said, Master, is it I? but if he had said, eleven of them should betray him, all except one, would they not all conclude, Surely it is I: If the Lord had said, onely few shall be dam- ned, every man might feare, it may be it is I; but now he saith, most shall, every man may cry out and say, Surely it is I. No humble heart, but is driven to and fro with many stinging feares this way, yet there is a generation of presumptuous, brazen-faced, bold people, that confidently thinke of themselves, as the Jewes of the Pharisees, (being so holy and strict) that if God save but two in the world, they shall make one.

Vse 3.

The child of God indeed is bold as a Lion; but he hath Gods Spirit and promise, assuring him of his eternall welfare. But I speake of divers that have no sound ground to prove this point, (which they pertinaciously defend) that they shall be saved. This confident humour rageth most of all in our old Professors at large, who thinke, that's a jest indeed, that having beene of a good beliefe so long, that they now should be so farre behind hand, as to begin the worke, and lay the foundation a-new. And not onely among these, but amongst divers sorts of people, ple, whom the Devill never troubles, because he is sure of them already, and therefore cryes peace in their eares, whose consciencences never trouble them, because that hath shut it's eyes ; and hence they sleepe, and sleeping dreame that God is mercifull unto them, and will be so, yet never see they are deceived, untill they awake with the flames of hell about their eares ; and the world troubles them not, they have their hearts desire here, because they are friends to it, and so enemies to God. And Ministers never trouble them, for they have none such as are fit for that worke neere them ; or if they have, they can sit and sleepe in the Church, or chuse whether they will beleieve him. And their friends never trouble them, because they are afraide to displease them. And God himselfe never troubles them, because that time is to come hereafter. This one truth well pondered and thought on, may damp thine heart, and make thy conscience fly in thy face, and say, thou art the man ; it may be there are better in hell than thy selfe that art so confident ; and therefore tell me what hast thou to say for thy selfe, that thou shalt be saved ; in what thing hast thou gone beyond them that thinke they are rich, and want nothing, who yet are poore, blinde, miserable, and naked?

The Sincere Convert.

Obj. 1. Thou wilt say happily, first, I have left my sinnes I once lived in, and am now no drunkard, no swearer, no lyer, &c.

Ans. I answer, thou mayest be washt from thy mire, (the pollution of the world,) and yet be a swine in Gods account, 2 Pet. 2. 20. thou mayest live a blamelesse, innocent, honest, smooth life, and yet be a miserable creature still, Phil. 3. 6.

Obj. 2. But I pray, and that often.

Ans. This thou mayest doe, and yet never be saved, Isay 1. 11. To what purpose doe your multitude of sacrifices? Nay, thou mayest pray with much affection, with a good heart, as thou thinkest, yet a thousand miles off from being saved, Prov. 1. 28.

Obj. 3. But I fast sometimes as well as pray.
So

The Sincere Convert.

133

So did the Scribes and Pharisees, even twice a week, which could not be publike but private fasts. And yet this righteoufnesse could never save them.

Ans.

But I heare the word of God, and like the best Preachers.

Obj. 4.

This thou mayest doe too, and yet never be saved. Nay, thou mayest so heare, as to receive much joy and comfort in hearing, nay to beleieve and catch hold on Christ, and so say and thinke he is thine, and yet not be saved; as the stony ground did, Mat. 13. who heard the word with joy, and for a season beleived.

Ans.
Ezek. 33.
21, 32.

I reade the Scriptures often.

Obj. 5.
Ans.

This you may doe too, and yett never be saved; as the Pharisees, who were so perfect in reading the Bible, that Christ needed but onely say, It hath been said of old time, for they knew the text and place well enough without intimation.

But I am grieved, and am sorrowfull, and repent for my finnes past.

Obj. 6.

Judas did thus, Matth. 27. 3. he repents himselfe with a legall repentance for

Ans.

for feare of hell, and with a naturall sorrow for dealing so unkindly with Christ, in betraying not onely of bloud, but innocent bloud. True humiliation is ever accompanied with hearty reformation.

Obj. 7. Oh ! but I love good men, and their company.

Ans. So did the five foolish Virgins love the company, and (at the time of extremitie) the very oyle and grace of the wife, yet they were locked out of the gates of mercy.

Obj. 8. But God hath given me more knowledge then others, or then I my selfe had once.

Ans. This thou mayest have, and be able to teach others, and thinke so of thy selfe too, and yet never be saved.

Rom. 2.18

Obj. 9. But I keepe the Lords day strictly.

Ans. So did the Jewes, whom yet Christ condemned, and were never saved.

Obj. 10. I have very many good desires and endeavours to get Heaven.

Ans. These thou & thousands may have, and yet misse of Heaven.

Many

The Sincere Convert.

Many shall seeke to enter in at that narrow gate, and not be able.

True, thou wilt say ; many men doe many duties, but without any life or zeale. I am zealous.

So thou mayest be, and yet never saved ; as Iehu ; Paul, was zealous when he was a Pharisee, and if he was so for a false Religion and a bad cause, why much more mayest thou be for a good cause ; so zealous, as not onely to cry out against prophanenesse in the wicked, but civill honesty of others, and hypocrisie of others, yea, even of the coldnesse of the best of Gods people: thou mayest be the forehorse in the teame, and the ringleader of good exercises amongst the best men, (as Ioa/b a wicked King was the first that complained of the negligence of his best Officers in not repairing the Temple) and so stirre them up unto it: Nay, thou mayest be so forward as to bee persecuted, and not yeeld an inch, nor shrink in the wetting, but mayest manfully and couragiously stand it out in time of persecution,

139

Luk. 13.
24.

Obj. 11.

Ans^r.

Phil. 3. 6.
11.

2 Chron.
44. 4, 5, 6.

The Sincere Convert.

as the thorny ground did : so zealous thou mayst be, as to like best of, and to flock most unto the most zealous preachers that search mens consciences best, as the whole Countrey of Judea came flocking to Johns ministry, and delighted to heare him for a season, nay thou mayst be zealous, as to take sweet delight in doing of all these things, Isa. 58 2, 3. they delight in approaching neare unto God, yet come short of heaven.

Obj. 12.

But thou wilt say ; True, many a man rides post, that breaks his neck at last : many a man is zealous, but his fire is soone quench'd, & his zeale is soone spent ; they hold not out. Whereas I am constant, and persevere in godly courses.

Ans.

So did that young man, yet he was a gracelesse man, Matth. 19. 20. All these things have I done from my youth : what lack I yet ?

Obj. 13.

It is true, Hypocrites may persevere, but they know themselves to be naught all the while, and so deceive others : but I am perswaded that I am in Gods favour, and in a safe and happy estate, since since I doe all with a good heart for God.

This thou mayst verily think of thy selfe, and yet be deceived, and damned, and goe to the Devill at last.

There is a way (saith Salomon) that seemeth right to a man, but the end thereof is the way of death. For he is an hypocrite, not onely that makes a seeming outward shew of what he hath not, but also that hath a true shew of what indeed there is nor. The first sort of Hypocrites deceive others onely, the latter, having some inward, yet common worke, deceive themselves too. Iam. 1.

26. If any man seeme to be religious (so many are, and so deceive the world) but it is added, deceiving his owne soule.

Nay, thou mayst goe so fairely, and live so honestly, that all the best Christians about thee may thinke well of thee, & never suspect thee, and so mayst passe through the world, and dye with a deluded comfort, that thou shalt goe to heaven, and be canonized for a Saint in thy funerall sermon, and never know thou art counterfeite, till the Lord brings

Ans.

Pro. 14. 12.

Mat. 25.

brings thee to thy strict and last examination, and so thou receivest that dreadfull sentence, Goe yee cursed: so it was with the Five foolish Virgins that were never discovered by the wise, nor by themselves, untill the gate of grace was shut upon them; If thou hast therefore no better evidences to shew for thy selfe, that thine estate is good; then these, Ile not give a pinnes point for all thy flattering false hopes of being saved: but it may be, thou hast never yet come so farre as to this pitch; and if not, Lord, what will become of thee? Suspect thy selfe much, and when in this Ship-wracke of soules thou seest so many thousands sinke; cry out, and conclude, It's a wonder of wonders, and a thousand, and a thousand to one, if ever thou comdest safe to shoare.

Vse 4.

Oh! strive then to be one of them that shall be saved, though it cost thee thy bloud, and the losse of all that thou hast; labour to goe beyond all those that goe so farre, and yet perish at the last. Doe not say, that seeing so few shall

The Sincere Convert.

139

shall be saved, therefore this discourageth me from seeking, because, all my labour may be in vaine. Consider that Christ here makes another and a better use of it, Luk. 13. 24. Seeing that many shall seeke, and not enter, therefore (saith he) strive to enter in at the straight gate; venture at least, and try what the Lord will doe for thee.

Wherein doth a childe of God, (and so how may I) goe beyond these Hypocrites that goe so farre?

In three things principally.

First, no unregenerate man, though he goe never so farre, let him doe never so much, but he lives in some one sinne or other, secret or open, little or great. Judas went farre, but he was covetous. Herod went farre, but hee loved his Herodias. Every dogge hath his kennell, every swine hath his swill, and every wicked man his lust, for no unregenerate man hath fruition of God to content him, and there is no mans heart, but it must have some good to content it; which good is to be found onely in the Fountaine of all good, and that Quest.

Ans.

I.

Wherein a childe of God goeth beyond an Hypocrite.

that is God; or in the cisterne, and that is in the creatures: hence a man having lost full content in God, he seekes for, and feeds upō contentment in the creature, which he makes a God to him, and here lyes his lust or sinne, which he must needs live in. Hence, aske those men that goe very farre, and take their penny for good silver, and commend themselves for their good desires: I say, aske them, if they have no sinne. Yes, say they, who can live without sinne? and so they give way to sinne, and therefore live in sinne; Nay, commonly, all the duties, prayers, care, and zeale of the best Hypocrites, are to hide a lust; as the whore in the Proverbes, that wipes her mouth, and goes to the Temple, and payes her vowes; or to feed their lusts, as Jehu his zeale against Baal was to get a Kingdome. There remaines a root of bitterness in the best Hypocrites, which howsoever it be lott off sometimes by sicknesse, or horror of conscience, and a man hath purposes never to commit it againe, yet there it secretly lurkes, and though

The Sincere Convert.

141

though it seemeth to be bound and conquered by the Word, or by prayer, or by outward crosses, or while the hand of God is upon a man, yet the inward strength and power of it remains still; and therefore when Temptations, like strong Philistines, are upon this man againe, he breakes all vowes, promises, bonds of God, and will save the life of his sinne.

Secondly, no unregenerate man or woman ever came to be poore in spirit, and so to be carried out of all duties unto Christ: if it were possible for them to forsake and breake loose for ever from all sinne, yet here they sticke as the Scribes and Pharisees, and so like zealous Paul before his conversion, they fasted, and prayed, and kept the Sabbath, but they rested in their legall righteousness, and in the performance of these and the like duties. Take the best Hypocrite that hath the most strong perswasions of Gods love to him, and aske him, why he hopes to be saved. He will answer, I pray, reade, heare, love good men, cry out of the finnes of the time. And tell him againe, that an Hypocrite may climbe these staires, and goe as farre. Hee will reply, True indeed, but they doe not what they doe with a sound heart, but to be seene of men. Marke now, how these men feelee a good heart in themselves, and in all things they doe, and therefore feelee not a want of all good, which is poverty of spirit, and therefore here they fall short, Isa. 66.

2.

L

the

2. there were divers Hypocrites forward for the worship of God in the Temple, but God loathes these, because not poore in Spirit, to them onely it is said, the Lord will looke. I have seene many Professors very forward for all good duties, but as ignorant of Christ, when they are sifted, as blocks. And if a man (as few doe) know not Christ, he must rest in his duties, because he knowes not Christ, to whom he must goe and be carried if ever he be saved. I have heard of a man that being condemned to dye, thought to be saved from the Gallowes, and to save himselfe from hanging by a certaine raine gift he said he had of whittling; so men seeke to save themselves by their gifts of knowledge, gifts of memory, gifts of prayer, and when they see they must dye for their sinnes; this is the ruine of many a soule; that though he forsake Egypt and his sinnes, and flesh-pots there, and will never be so as he hath beene, yet he never cometh into Canaan, but loseth himselfe and his soule in a wilderness of many duties, and there perisheth.

3.

Thirdly, if any unregenerate man come unto Christ, he never gets into Christ; that is, never takes up his eternall rest and lodging in any thing else but Jesus Christ, Heb. 4. 4. Judas followed Christ for the bagge, he would have the bagge and Christ too; The Young man came unto Christ to be his Disciple, but he would have Christ and the world too; they will not content themselves with Christ alone, nor with the world alone, but make their markets out of both, like whorish wives, that will please their husbands and others too. Men in distresse of conscience, if they have comfort from Christ, they are contented; if they have salvation from hell by Christ, they are contented: but Christ himselfe contents them not. Thus farre an Hypocrite goes not. So much for the first Doctrine, observed out of the Text. I come now to the second.

Doct. 2.

Doct. 2. That those that are saved, are saved with much difficulty: or it is a wonderfull hard thing to be saved.

The gate is straight, and therefore a man must sweat and strive to enter; both the entrance is difficult, and the progresse of salvation too. Jesus Christ is not got with a wet finger. It is not wishing and desiring to be saved, will bring men to heaven; hells mouth is full of good wishes. It is not shedding a teare at a Sermon, or blubbering now and then in a corner, and saying over thy prayers, and crying God mercy for thy finnes, will save thee. It is not Lord have mercy upon us, will doe thee good. It is not comming constantly to Church; these are easie matters. But it is a tough work, a wonderfull full hard matter to be saved, 1 Pet. 4. 18. Hence the way to Heaven is compared to a race, where a man must put forth all his strength, and stretch every limbe, and all to get forward. Hence a Christians life is compared to wrestling, Ephe. 6. 12. All the policy and power of hell buckle together against a Christian, therefore he must looke to himselfe, or else he falls. Hence it is compared to fighting, 2 Tim. 4. 7. a man must fight against the Devill, the world, himselfe, who shoot poysoned bullets in the soule, where a man must kill or be killed. God hath not lined the way to Christ with velvet, nor strewed it with rushes; He will never feed a slothfull humour in man, who will be saved, if Christ and Heaven would drop in their mouthes, and if any would beare their charges thither: If Christ might be bought for a few cold wishes and lazy desires, he would be of small reckoning amongst men, who would say, lightly come, lightly goe. Indeed Christs yoke is easie in it selfe, and when a man is got into Christ

The Sincere Convert.

4 Straight gates to be passed through before we can enter into heaven.

I.

nothing is so sweet ; but for a carnall dull heart, it is hard to draw in it ; for,
There are foure straight gates which every one must passe through before he can enter into Heaven.

There is 1. the straight gate of Humiliation : God saveth none but first he humbleth them ; now it is hard to passe through the gates and flames of hell, for a heart as stiffe as a stake to bow, as hard as stone to bleed for the least prick, not to mourne for one sin, but all sinnes, and not for a fir, but all a mans life time ; Oh it is hard for a man to suffer himselfe to be loaden with sin, and preist to death for sinne, so as never to love sinne more, but to spit in the face of that which he once loved as dearly as his life. It is easie to drop a teare or two, and be sermon sick, but to have a heart rent for sinne and from sinne, this is true humiliation, and this is hard

2.

2. The straight gate of Faith, Eph.
1. 19. its an easie matter to presume, but hard to beleieve in Christ. It is ea-sie for a man that was never humbled

to

to beleeve and say, 'tis but beleeving : but it is an hard matter for a man humbled, when he seeth all his sinnes in order before him, the devill and conscience roaring upon him, and crying out against him, and God frowning upon him, now to call God Father, is an hard worke. Judas had rather be hanged than beleeve. It is hard to see a Christ, as a rocke to stand upon, when wee are overwhelmed with sorrow of heart for sin. It is hard to prize Christ above ten thousand worlds of pearle : 'tis hard to desire Christ, and nothing but Christ ; hard to follow Christ all the day long, and never to be quiet till he is got in thine armes, and then with Simeon to say, Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace.

3. The straight gate of Repentance. It is an easie matter for a man to confesse a mans selfe to be a sinner, and to cry God forgivenessse untill next time : but to have a bitter sorrow, and so to turne from all sinne, and to returne to God, and all the wayes of God, which is true repentance indeed ; this is hard.

4.

4. The straight gate of opposition of Devills, the world, and a mans owne selfe, who knock a man downe when he begins to looke towards Christ and Heaven.

Use.

Hence learne, that every easie way to Heaven is a false way, although Ministers should preach it out of their Pulpits, and Angels should publish it out of Heaven.

The false wayes to Heaven discovered.

Now there are nine easie waies to Heaven (as men thinke) all which leade to Hell.

1.

1. The common broad way, wherein a whole parish may all goe a breadth in it ; tell these people they shall bee damned, their answer is, then woe to many more besides me.

2.

2. The way of civill education, whereby many wilde natures are by little and little tamed, and like wolves are chained up easily while they are young.

3.

3. Balam's way of good wishes, whereby many people will confesse their ignorance, forgetfulnesse, and that they cannot make such shews as others doe, but

but they thanke God their hearts are as good, and God for his part accepts (they say) the will for the deed; And, My sonne give me thine heart, the heart is all in all, and so long they hope to doe well enough. Poore deluded creatures thus thinke to breake through armies of sinnes, devils, temptations, and to breake open the very gates of Heaven with a few good wishes; they think to come to their journeys end without legs, because their hearts are good to God.

4. The way of formalitie, whereby men rest in the performance of most or of all externall duties without inward life, Mark. 1. 14. Every man must have some Religion, some fig-leaves to hide their nakednesse. Now this Religion must be either true Religion, or the false one; if the true, he must either take up the power of it, but that hee will not, because it is burdensome: or the forme of it, and this being easie, men embrace it as their God, and will rather lose their lives, than their Religion thus taken up. This forme of Religion

4.

The Sincere Convert.

Religion is the easiest Religion in the world; partly because it easeth men of trouble of conscience, quieting that: Thou hast sinned, saith conscience, and God is offended; take a book and pray, keepe thy conscience better, and bring thy Bible with thee. Now conscience is silent, being charmed downe with the forme of Religion, as the devill is driven away (as they say) with holy water; partly also because the forme of Religion credits a man, partly because it is easie in it selfe, it's of a light carriage, being but the shadow and picture of the substance of Religion: as now, what an easie matter is it, to come to Church? They heare (at least outwardly) very attentively an houre and more, and then to turne to a prooffe, and to turne downe a leafe, here's the forme. But now to spend saturday at night, and all the whole Sabbath day morning in trimming the Lampe, and in getting oyle in the heart, to meete the bridegroom the next day, and so meete him in the word, and there to tremble at the voice of God, and suck the the brest while it is open, and when the word is done, to goe aside privately, and there to chew upon the word, there to lament with teares all the vaine thoughts in duties, deadnesse in hearing, this is hard, because this is the power of godlinesse, and this men will not take up: so for private prayer, what an easie matter it is for a man to say o-ver a few prayers out of some devout booke, or to repeate some old prayer got by heart since a childe, or to have two or three short-winded wishes for Gods mercy in the morning and at night; this forme is easie: but now to prepare the heart by serious meditation of God and mans selfe before he prayes, then to come to God with a bleeding hunger-starved heart, not only with a desire, but with a warrant, I must have such or such a mercy, and thereto wrastle with God, although it be an houre or two together for a blessing, this is too hard; men thinke none doe thus, and therefore they will not.

Fifthly, the way of presumption, whereby men having seene their sins, carch

catch hold easily upon Gods mercy, and snatch comforts, before they are reached out unto them. There is no word of comfort in the Booke of God intended for such as regard iniquitie in their hearts, though they doe not act it in their lives. Their onely comfort is, that the sentence of damnation is not yet executed upon them.

6. Sixthly, the way of sloth, whereby men lye still, and say, God must doe all; If the Lord would set up a Pulpit at the Ale-house doore, it may be they would heare oftner. If God will alwaies thunder, they will alwaies pray; if strike them now and then with sickness, God shall be payed with good words and promises enow, that they will be better if they live; but as long as peace lasts, they will run to Hell as fast as they can; and if God will not catch them, they care not, they will not returne.

7. Seventhly, The way of carelesnesse, when men feeling many difficulties, passe through some of them, but not all, and what they cannot get now, they they feed themselves with a false hope they shall hereafter : they are content to be called Precisians, and fooles, and crazie braines, but they want brokennesse of heart, and they will pray (it may be) for it, and passe by that difficultie; but to keep the wound alwayes open, this they will not doe, to be alwayes fighting for helpe, and never to give themselves rest, till their hearts are humbled; that they will not; these have a name to live, yet are dead.

Eighthly, The way of moderation or honest discretion, Rev. 3. 16. which indeed is nothing but luke-warmenesse of the soule, and that is, when a man contrives and cuts out such a way to Heaven, as he may be hated of none, but please all, and so doe any thing for a quiet life, and so sleepe in a whole skin. The Lord saith, He that will live godly, must suffer persecution: No, not so, Lord. Surely (thinke they) if men were discreet and wise, it would prevent a great deale of trouble and opposition in good courses; this man will commend those that are most zealous, if

if they were but wise, if he meet with a black-mouth'd swearer, he will not reprove him, lest hee be displeased with him; if he meet with an honest man, hee'l yeeld to all he saith; that so he may commend him; and when he meets them both together, they shall be both alike welcome (what ever he thiukes) to his house and Table, because he would faine be at peace with all men.

9.

Ninthly, and lastly, The way of selfe-love, whereby a man fearing terribly he shall be damned, useth diligently all meanes whereby he shall be saved. Here is the strongest difficultie of all, to row against the streame, and to hate a mans selfe, and then to follow Christ fully.

The way of selfelove.

I now come to the sixth Generall Head proposed in order to be considered.

CHAP.

C H A P. VI.

T*Hat the grand cause of mans eternall ruine, or why so many are damned, and so few saved by Christ, it is from themselves, Ezek. 33. 11. Why will you dye?*

The great cause why so many people dye, and perish everlastingly, is because they will; every man that perisheth, is his owne Butcher, or murderer, Matth. 23. 27. Hos. 13. 9. this is the Point we purpose to prosecute at the present.

The question here will be, how men plot and perfect their owne ruine.

By these foure principall meanes, which are the foure great Rocks that most men are split upon; and great necessity lyeth upon every man to know them; for when a powder-plot is discovered, the danger is almost past. I say, there are these foure causes of mans eternall overthrow, which I shall handle largely, and make use of every Quest.

Answ.
How men plot their own ruin.

every particular reason when it is opened and finished.

1.

First, by reason of that bloody black ignorance of men, whereby thousands remaine woefully ignorant of their spirituall estate; not knowing how the case stands betweene God and their soules; but thinking themselves to be well enough already, they never seeke to come out of their misery, till they perish in it.

2.

Secondly, by reason of mens carnall securitie, putting the evill day farre from them, whereby they feelee not their fearefull thraldome, and so never groane to come out of the slavish bondage of sinne and Sathan.

3.

Thirdly, By reason of mans carnall confidence, whereby they shift to save themselves by their owne duties and performances when they seeke it.

4.

Fourthly, By reason of mans bold presumption, whereby men scramble to save themselves by their own seeming faith, when they see an insufficiency in duties, and an unworthinesse in themselves for God to save them.

Ignorance the first Generall Reason of mans ruine.

I will begin with the first Reason, and discover the first traine, whereby men blow up themselves, which is this: They know not their misery, nor that fearefull accursed forlorne estate wherein they lye, but thinke and say, they shall doe as well as others; and therefore when any friend perswadeth them to come out of it, and shewes them the danger of remaining in such a condition; what's their answer? I “pray yon save your breath to coole
“your broth. Every Fat shall stand “on his owne bottome; let me alone,
“I hope. J have a soule to save as well
“as you, and shall be as carefull of it “as you shall or can be; you shall “not answer for my soule, J hope I “shall doe as well as the precisest of “you all. Hence likewise, if the Minister come home to them, they goe home with hearts full of out-cries against the man, and their tongue dipt in gall against the Sermon. God be mercifull unto us, if all this be true; here's harsh doctrine, enough to make a man run out of his wits, and to drive me to despaire. Thus they know not their misery, and not knowing (they are lost and condemned Creatures under the everlasting vvrath of God) They never seeke, pray, strive or follow the meanes whereby they may come out of it, and so perish in it, and never know it, till they awake with the flames of Hell about their eares. They will acknowledge indeed many of them, that all men are borne in a most miserable estate, but they never apply particularly that generall truth to themselves; saying, I am the man, I am now under Gods wrath, and may be snatcht away by death every houre, and then I am undone and lost for ever.

Now there are two sorts of people that are ignorant of this their misery.

First, the common sort of prophane, blockish, ignorant people.

Secondly, the finer sort of unsound hollow professors, that have a Peacocks pride, that thinke themselves faire, and in a very good estate; though they have but one feather on their crest to boast of.

I will begin with the first sort, and shew you the reasons why they are ignorant of their misery, that is for these 4. Reasons.

First, Sometimes because they want the saving means of knowledge. Ther's no faithfull Minister, no compassionate Lot to tell them of fire and brimstone from heaven for their crying sinnes; there's no Noah to forwarne them of a flood; there's no messenger to bring them tidings of those Armies of Gods devouring plagues and wrath, that are approaching neare unto them; they have no pilots, poore forsaken creatures to shew them their rockes; they have either no Minister at all to teach them, either because the Parish is too poore, or the Church living too great to maintaine a faithfull man (the strongest Asses carrying the greatest burdens commonly) O woefull Physitians! sometimes they be prophane, and cannot heale themselves, and sometimes they be ignorant, and know not what to preach, unlesse they should follow

The 1. sort.

I.
Reason.

the steps of Master Latimers Fryer ; or at the best, they shoot off a few pot-gunnes against grosse sinnes ; or if they doe shew men their misery, they licke them whole againe with some comfortable ill applyed sentences (but I hope better things of you , my brethren) the mans Patron may happily storme else. Or else they say commonly, thou hast sinned, but comfort thy selfe, despaire not, Christ hath suffered, and thus skin over the wound, and let it fester within for want of cutting it deeper : I say therefore, because they want a faithfull watch-man to cry fire, fire, in that sleepey estate of sinne and darknesse wherein they lye ; therefore whole Townes, Parishes, generations of men, are burnt up , and perish miserably, Lam. 2. 14.

2.
Reason. Secondly, because they have no leisure to consider of their misery, when they have the meanes of revealing it unto them, as Foelix, Acts 24, 25. Many a man hath many a bitter pill given him at a Sermon, but he hath no leisure sure to chew upon it. One man is taken up with suites in Law, and another almost eaten up with suretiship, and carking cares how to pay his debts, and provide for his owne ; another hath a great charge and few friends, and hee saith the world is hard, and hence, like a Mole, rootes in the earth, week-dayes and Sabath-dayes ; the world thus calling them on one side, and lusts on another, and the Devill on the other side, they have no leisure to consider of Death, Devill, God, nor themselves, Hell nor Heaven. The Minister cries and knockes without, but there is such a noise and lumber of tumultuous lusts and vaine thoughts in their hearts and heads, that all good thoughts are sad unwelcome guests, and are knockt downe presently.

Thirdly, because if they have leisure, they are afraid to know it. Hence people cry out of Ministers, that they damne all, and will heare them no more, and they vwill not bee such fooles as to beleeeve all that such say ; the reason is, they are afraid to know the worst of themselves ; they are afraid to be cur, and therefore cannot indure the Chirurgion ; they thinke, to be troubled in mind as others are, is the very high-rode to despaire ; and therefore if they doe heare a tale, how one after hearing of a Sermon grew distracted, or drowned, or hanged himselfe, it shall be an item; and a warning to them, as long as they live, for troubling their heads about such matters. Men of guilty consciences (hence) flie from the face of God, as prisoners from the Iudge, as debtors from the Creditor. But if the Lord of Hosts can catch you, you must and shall feelee with horroure of heart that which you feare a little now.

Reas. 4.

Fourthly, because if they be free from this foolish feare, they cannot see their misery, by reason that they looke upon their estates through false glasses, and by vertue of many false principles in their minds, they cheat themselves.

Which false Princip'es are these principally ; I vwill but name them.

First,

The Sincere Convert.

163

First, They conceive, God that made them will not be so cruell as to damne them.

1.

Secondly, because they feele no misery (but are very well) therefore they feare none.

2.

Thirdly, because God blesteth the in their outward estates, in their Corne, childrē, calling, friends, &c. would God blesse them so if he did not love them.

3.

Fourthly, because they thinke sinne to be no great evill for all are sinners, so this cannot mischieve them.

4.

Fifthly, because they thinke Gods mercy is above all his workes, though sinne be vile, yet conceiving God to be all mercy, all honey, and no justice, they thinke they are well.

5.

Sixthly, because they thinke Christ dyed for all sinners, and they confesse themselves to be great ones.

6.

Seventhly, because they hope well, and so thinke to have vvell.

7.

Eightly, because they do as most do, who never crying out of their sinnes while they lived, & dying like Lambs, at last they doubt not for their parts, doing as such doe, they shall dye happily as others have done.

8.

9. Ninthly, because their desires and hearts are good, as they thinko.

10. Tenthly, because they doe as vwell as God will give them grace, and so God is in the fault onely, if they perish.

These are the reasons and grounds upon which profane people are deceived.

Nowv it followveth to shew the grounds on which the finer sort mis-carry.

2. Sort.

Secondly, Hollow Professors cheat and cozen their ovvne soules. It is in our Church, as it is in an old Wood, where there are many tall Trees, yet cut them and search them deeply, they prove pithlesse, saplesse, hollow, unsound creatures. These men twist their ovvne ruine vvith a finer thread, and can juggle better then the common sort, and cast mists before their owne eyes, and so cheat their ovvne soules.

It's

It's Ministers first work to turne men from darknesse into this light. Ab. 26. 18. and the Spirits first worke to convince men of sinne, Joh. 16. 9. and therefore it's peoples maine worke to know the worst at first of themselves.

Nowv the cause of these mens mistaking is three-fold.

First, the spirituall madnesse and drunkennesse of their Understanding.

Secondly, the false bastard peace begot and nourished in the Conscience.

Thirdly, the sly and secret distempers of the will.

First, There are these seven drunken distempers in the understanding or minde of man, whereby he cometh to be most miserably deceived.

First, the understandings Arrogancie. You shall never see a man meane and vile in his owne eyes deceived Psal. 25. 9. but a proud man or woman is often cheated; Hence proud Haman thought surely hee was the man whom
the

Now men come to be deceived about their spirituall estates.

1.

2.

3.

1.

Ezech. 6. 6.

the King would honour, vvhhen in truth it was intended for poore Mordecai: For, pride-having once overspread the mind, it ever hath this property, it makes a penny stand for a pound, a sparke is blown up to a flame, it makes a great matter of a little seeming grace, and therefore the proud Pharisee, when hee came to reckon with himselfe, hee takes his poore counter, that is, I am not as other men, nor as this Publican, and sets it downe for 1000. pound, that is, hee esteemes of himselfe, as a very rich man for it: So many a man because hee hath some good thing in himselfe, as, hee is pittifull to the poore, hee is a true man though a poore man, hee was never given to wine, or women. Hee magnifieth himselfe for this title, and so deceives and over-reckons himselfe. There are your Bristow-stones like Diamonds, and many cheaters cozen Countrey folkes with them, that desire to bee fine, and know not what Diamonds are. So many men are desirous to be honest and and to be reputed so, not knowing what true grace meanes, therefore Bristow-stones are pearles in their eyes. A little seeming grace shines so bright in their eyes, that they are halfe bewitched by it, to thinke highly of themselves, although they be but glittering seeming jewels in a swines snout. A cab of Doves dung was sould in Samarita's time of famine at a great rate; a man living in such a place, where all about him are either ignorant, or prophane, or civill, a little morall honesty (dung in respect of true grace) goes a great way, and is esteemed highly of, and he is as honest a man as ever lived. A man that looks through a red glasse, all things appeare red; a man looking upon himselfe through some faire spectacles, through some one good thing that hee hath in himselfe, appeares faire to him. It is said, Luke 20. ult. the Pharisees devoured widowes houses. Might not this racking of Rents make them question their estates? No. Why? They for pretence made long prayers: so, many men are drunke now and then, but they are sorry ; they cannot but sinne, but their desires are good; they talke idly, but they live honestly ; they doe ill sometimes, but they meane well. Thus when some good things are seene in themselves, pride puffs them with an overweening conceit of it, and so they cozen their owne soules.

and

2. Secondly, the understandings Obstinacy : whereby the minde having been long rooted in this opinion, that I am in a good estate, will not suffer this conceit to be pluckt out of it. Now, your old rooted, yet rotten professors, having growne long in a good conceit of themselves, will not beleeeve that they have beene fooles all their life-time, and therefore now must pull downe, and lay the foundation againe ; and hence you shall have many say of a faithfull Minister, that doth convince and condemne them and their estate to be most woefull ; vvhath shall such an upstart teach me ? doth hee think to make me dance after his pipe, and to think that all my good prayers, my

my faith, my charity, have beene so long abominable and vile before God? No silver can bribe a man to cast away his old traditionall opinions and conceits whereby he cheats himselfe, till Christs blood doe it, 1 Pet. 1. 18. And hence the woman of Samaria objected this against Iesus Christ, that their old Fathers worshipped in that Mountaine, and therefore it was as good a place as Ierusalem, the place of Gods true worship, Ioh. 4. 20. Men grow crooked and aged with good opinions of themselves, and can seldome or never be set straight againe. Hence such kinde of people though they would faine bee taken for honest religious Christians, yet will never suspect their estates to be bad themselves, neither can they endure, that any other should search or suspect them to be yet rotten at the heart: And are not those wares and commodities much to bee suspected, nay concluded to be starke naught which the seller vwill needs put upon the chapman without seeing or looking on them first? It's a strong argument ment we produce against the Papists Religion to be suspected to be bad, because they obtrude their opinions on their followers to be beleevd without any hesitation or dispute about them, either before or after they have embraced them: certainly thy old faith, thy old prayers, thy old honesty or forme of piety are counterfeite wares, that canot endure searching, because thou wilt not be driven from this conceit, I am in a good estate, I have beene so long of this good mind and therefore will not begin to doubt now. It's to be feared, that such kind of people, (as I have much observed) are either notoriously ignorant, or have sometime or other fallen into some horrible secret grievous sinnes, as whoredome, oppression, or the like, the guilt of which lying yet secretly on them, makes them fly from the light of Gods truth, which would find them out, quarrelling both against it, and the Ministers that preach it, Rom. 2.8. And therefore as it is with theeves when they have any stollen goods brought within doores, they will not be searched or suspected, but say, they are as honest men as themselves that come to search, for they feare if they be found out, that they shall be troubled before the judge, and may hardly escape with their lives: so many old Professors, when the Minister comes to search them, they clap to the doores upon the man and truth too, and say they hope to be saved as well as the best of them all. The reason is, they are guilty, they are loath to bee troubled and cast downe by seeing the worst of themselves, and thinke it's hard for them to goe to heaven, and be saved, if they have beene in a wrong way all their life-time. An honest heart will cry after the best meanes, Lord search me, John 3. 20. and open all the doores to the entertainment of the straightest, strictest truths.

not

Thirdly, the understandings Obscurity or ignorance of the infinite exactnesse, glorious purity, and absolute perfection of the Law of God; whence it cometh to passe, that this burning Lamp or bright sunne of Gods Law, being being set in their mindes, rotten grounds of their owne righteousnesse, doing some things according to the Law of God, shines and glisters gloriously in their eyes, in the darke night time of dismall darknesse, by doing of which they thinke they please GOD, and their estates are very good, I was alive, saith Paul, Rom. 7. 9. without the Law, and he gives the reason of it, because sin did but sleepe in him like a cut-throat in an house, where all is quiet. Before the Law came, hee saw not that deadly secret core of corruption, and that litter of Rebellion that was lurking in his heart, and therefore thought highly of himselfe for his owne Righteousnesse. The Gospell is a glasse to shew men the face of God in Christ, 2 Cor. 2. ult. The Law is that glasse that sheweth a man his owne face, and what hee himselfe is. Now if this glasse be taken away, and not set before a deformed heart, how can a man but thinke himselfe faire? And this is the reason why civill men, formalists, almost every one, thinke better better of themselves then indeed they are, because they reckon without their hoast, that is, they judge of the number, nature, and greatnesse of their sins by their owne bookes, by their owne reason, they look not Gods debt-book, Gods exact lawes over, and compare themselves therewith; If they did, it would amaze the stoutest heart, and plucke downe mens plumes, and make them say, is there any mercy so great as to passe by such sinnes, and to put up such wrongs, and to forgive such sinnes and debts, one of which alone may undoe me, much more so many?

Fourthly, the understandings Security or sleepinesse, whereby men never reflect upon their owne actions, nor compare them with the rule; although they have knowledg of the law of God, yet it is with them, as it is with men that have a faire glasse before them, but never beholding themselves in the glasse, they never see their spots. This is the woe of most unregenerate men; they want a reflecting power & light to judg of themselves by, Jer. 8. 6. you shall have

N

4.

have them thinke on a Sermon, Here's for such an one, and such an one is touched here; when it may be the same Sermon principally speakes of them; But they never say, this concerneth me, I was found out through the goodnesse of the Lord to day, and surely the man spake unto none but unto me, as if some body had told him what I have done. And hence you shall find out many lame Christians, that will yeeld to all the truthes delivered in a Sermon, and commend it too, but goe away, and shake off all truthes that serve to convince them. And hence many men, when they examine themselves in generall, whether they have grace or no, whether they love Christ or no, they think yes, that they doe withall their hearts; yet, they neither have this grace or any other, what ever they thinke, because they want a reflecting light to judge of generalls by their owne particular courses. For, tell these men, that he that loves another truely, will often thinke of him, speake of him, rejoyce in his company, pany, will not wrong him willingly in the least thing: Now aske them if they love Christ thus; If they have any reflecting of light, they will see, where they have one thought of Christ, they have 1000. on other things. Rejoyce? may they are weary of his company in word, in prayer. And that they doe not onely wrong him, but make a light matter of it, when it is done, all are sinners, and no man can live without sin. Like a sleepey man (fire burning in his bed-straw) he cryes not out, when others haply lament his estate, that see a farre off, but cannot helpe him, Isay, 42.25. A man that is to be hanged the next day, may dreame overnight, hee shall be a King; why? because hee is asleepe, hee reflects not on himselfe. Thou mayest goe to the Devill and be damned, and yet ever thinke and dreame, that all is well with thee. Thou hast no reflecting light to judge of thy selfe. Pray, pray therefore that the Lord would turne your eyes inward, and doe not let the Devill and delusion shut you out of your owne house house from seeing what Court is kept there every day.

5. Fifthly, the understandings impiety; whereby it lessens and vilifies the glorious grace of God in another: whence it comes to passe, that this deluded soule seeing none much better then himselfe, concludes, if any be saved, I shall no doubt be one, Isay 26. 10, 11. Men will not behold the Majesty of God in the lives of his people; many a man being too light, yet desirous to goe and passe for current, weighs himselfe with the best people, and thinkes, what have they that I have not? what doe they that I doe not? and if he see they goe beyond him, he then turnes his owne ballance with his finger, and makes them too light, that so he himselfe may passe for weight.

And this vilifying of them and their grace, judging them to be of no other mettall then other men, appears in three particulars.

First, they raise up false reports, of Gods people, and nourish a kennell of evill suspicions of them: if they know any

any sin committed by them, they will conclude, they be all such; if they see no offensive sinne in any of them, they are then reputed a pack of Hypocrites: If they are not so uncharitable (having no grounds) they prophesy they will hereafter be as bad as others, though they carry a faire flourish now.

Secondly, if they judge well of them, then they compare themselves to them, by taking a scantling onely by their outside, and by what they see in them, and so, like children, seeing stars a great way off, think them no bigger nor brighter then winking candles. They stand a far off from seeing the inside of a child of God, they see not the glory of God filling that temple, they see not the sweet influence they receive from heaven, and that fellowship they have with their God; and hence they judge but meanly of them, because the outside of a Christian is the worst part of him, and his glory shines chiefly within.

Thirdly, if they see, Gods people doe excell them, that they have better lives, and better hearts, & better knowledge, yet they will not conclude that they have no grace, because it hath not that stamp that honest mens money hath. But this prank they play, they think such and such good men have a greater measure, and a higher degree of grace than themselves, yet they dare be bold to thinke and say, their hearts are as upright, though they be not so perfect as others are; And so vilifie the grace that shines in the best men, by making this gold to differ from their owne copper, not essentially but gradually, and hence they deceive themselves miserably, not but that one (starre or) sincere Christian differs from another in glory: I speake of those men onely, that never were fixt in so high a sphere, as true honesty dwells, yet falsely farther this bad conclusion, that they are upright for their measure, that they have not the like measure of grace received as others have.

6. Sixthly, the understandings idolatry: whereby the mind sets up, and bowes bowes down to a false image of grace; that is, the minde being ignorant of the height and excellence of true grace, takes a false scantling of it, and so imagins and fancies within it selfe, such a measure of common grace to be true grace, which the soule easily having attained unto, conceives it is in the state of grace, and so deceives it selfe miserably, Rom. 10. 3.

And the minde comes to set up her image thus.

First, the minde is haunted and pursued with troublesome feares of Hell. Conscience tells him, hee hath sinned, and the Law tells him he shall die, and Death appeares and tells him, he must shortly meete with him; And if he be taken away in his finnes, then comes a black day of reckoning for all his privie pranks, a day of bloud, horror, judgement and fire, where no creature can comfort him. Hence saith hee, Lord, keepe my soule from these miseries; hee hopeth it shall not prove so evill with him, but feares it will.

2.

Secondly, Hereupon hee desireth peace and ease, and some assurance of freedome from these evils. For it is an Hell above ground, ever to be on the wrack of tormenting feares.

3.

Thirdly, That he may have ease, he will not swagger his trouble away, nor drowne it in the bottome of the cup, nor throw it away with his Dice, nor play it away at Cards, but desires some grace, (and commonly it's the least measure of it too:) Hereupon he desires to heare such Sermons, and read such Bookes as may best satisfie him concerning the least measure of grace; for, sinne onely troubling him, grace onely can comfort him soundly: And so, Grace, which is meate and drinke to an holy heart, is but Physicke to this kinde of men, to ease them of their feares and troubles,

4.

Hereupon being ignorant of the height of true grace, he fancieth to himselfe such a measure of common grace to be true grace. As, if he feeles himselfe ignorant of that which troubles him:

him : so much knowledge will I then get, saith he. If some foule sinnes in his practise trouble him, these he will cast away, and so reformes : If omission of good duties molests him, he will heare better, and buy some good Prayer-booke, and pray oftner. And if he be perswaded such a man is a very honest man, then he will strive to doe as he doth ; and now he is quieted.

When he hath attained unto this pitch of his ovvne, now he thinks himselfe a young beginner, and a good one too, so that if he dyeth, he thinks hee shall doe well ; if he liveth, he thinks and hopes he shall grow better ; and vwhen he is come to his ovvne pitch, here he sets downe his state fully satisfied. And now, if he be prest to get into the estate of grace, his answer is, That is not to be done now, he thanks God, that care is past. The truth is (beloved) 'tis too high for him ; his owne legges could never carry him thither, all his grace, coming by his owne working, not by God Almightyes power. Let a man have false vweights,

weights, he is cheated grievously with light gold ; why ? because his weights are too light : So these men have too light weights to judge of the weight of true grace ; therefore light, clipt, crackt pieces cheat them. Hence you shall have those men commend pithlesse, saplesse men for very honest men as ever brake bread ; why ? they are just answerable to their weights. Hence I have not much wondered at them, who maintaine that a man may fall away from true grace : The reason lyeth here : They set up to themselves such a common worke of grace to bee true grace ; from which, no wonder that a man may fall. Hence Bellarmino saith, That which is true Grace, veritate essentie onely, may be lost, not that grace which is true, veritate firme soliditatis ; which latter, being rightly understood, may be called speciall, as the other, common grace. Hence also you shall have many Professors hearing a hundred Sermons, never moved to grow better. Hence likewise you shall see our common Preachers comfort every one almost, that they see troubled in minde, because they thinke presently, they have true grace : Now they begin to be sorrowfull for their sinnes. 'Tis just according to their owne light weights.

For the Lords sake take heed of this deceit. True grace (I tell you) it's a rare pearle, a glorious Sun clouded from the eyes of all but them that have it, Rev. 2. 18. a strange admirable, almighty worke of God upon the soule, vvhich no created power can produce, as far different in the least measure of it, from the highest degree of common grace, as a Devill is from an Angell ; for 'tis Christ living, breathing, raigning, fighting, conquering in the soule. Downe therefore with your Idoll grace, your Idoll honesty : true Grace never aimes at a pitch, it aspires onely to perfection, Phil. 3. 12, 13. And therefore Chrysostome calls Saint Paul, insatiabilis Dei cultor : A greedy, insatiable, devouring worshipper of the Lord Almighty.

Seventhly, The Understandings er-your your is another cause of mans ruine.

 And that is seene principally in these five things, these five errors or false conceits.

I.

First, In judging some trouble of minde, some light sorrow for sinne to be true Repentance; and so thinking they doe repent, hope they shall bee saved; for sinne is like sweet poyson, while a man is drinking it downe by committing of it, ther's much pleasure in it, but after the committing of it, there is a sting in it, Prov. 23. 31.
32. then the time commeth when this poyson workes, making the heart swell vwith griefe, sorry they are at the heart, they say, for it; and the eyes drop,
and the man that committed sin vwith delight, now cryes out vwith griefe in the bitternesse of his soule; O that I, beast that I am, had never committed it,
Lord, mercy, mercy, Prov. 5. 3, 4. 11.
12. Nay, it may be they vwill fast, and humble, and afflict their soules voluntarily for sinne, and now they think they have repented, Isai. 58: 3. and hereupon, when they heare, that all that

that sinne shall dye, they grant this is true indeed, except a man repent, and so they thinke they have done already. This is true, At what time soever a sinner repents, the Lord will blot out his iniquities. But this Repentance is not when a man is troubled somewhat in mind for sinne, but when he commeth to mourne for sinne as his greatest evil, as if he should see all his goods and estate on a light fire before him ; and that not for some sinnes, but all sinnes, little and great ; and that not for a time, for a fit and away (a Land-floud of sorrow) but alwaies like a Spring never dry, but ever running all a mans life-time.

Secondly, In judging the striving of conscience against sinne, to be the striving of the flesh against the Spirit, and hence come these speeches from carnall blacke mouthes ? The Spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak : and hence men thinke, they being thus compounded of flesh and spirit, are regenerate, and in no worse estate then the Children of God themselves : as some-

sometime I once spake with a man that did verily thinke, that Pilate was an honest man, because he was so unwilling to crucifie Christ; which unwillingnesse did arise onely from the restraint of conscience against the Fact. So many men judge honestly, yet simply upon such a ground of themselves, they say, they strive against their finnes, but Lord be mercifull unto them, they say the flesh is fraile; and hence Arminius gives a diverse interpretation of the seventh Chapter of the Romans from ordinary Divines; concerning which, Paul speakes in the person of an unregenerate man, because he observed divers gracelesse persons (as hee saith himselfe) having fallen, and falling commonly into finnes against conscience, to bring that chapter in their owne defence and comfort, because they did that which they allowed not, vers. 15. and so it was not they, but sinne that dwelled in them.

And so, many among us know, they should be better, and strive that they may grow better, but through the power, of sin, cannot ; conscience telleth them they must not sinne, their hearts and lusts say they must sinne; and here forsooth is flesh and spirit: Oh no, here is, conscience and lust onely by the cares together. Which striving, Herod, Balaam, Pilate, or the vilest Reprobate in the World may have. Such a vvarre argueth not any grace in the heart, but rather more strength of corruption, and more power of sinne in the heart ; as, it's no vvonder if a horse run avway vvhen he is loose ; but when his bit and bridle is in his mouth, now to bee wilde, argueth he is altogether untamed and subdued. Take need therefore of judging your estate to bee good, because of some backwardnesse of your hearts to commit some sinnes, though little sinnes ; for thy sinnes may be, and, it is most certaine, are more powerfull in thee, then in others that have not the like strugglings , because they have not such checks as thou hast to restrain thee. Know therefore that the striving of the Spirit against the Flesh, is against sinne, sinne, because it is sinne; as a man hates a Toad, though he be never poisoned by it; But the striving of thy conscience against sinne, is onely againe sin, because it is a troubling, or a damning sinne; The striving of the spirit against the flesh, is from a deadly hatred of sinne, Rom. 7. 15. But thy striving of conscience against sinne, is onely from a feare of the danger of sinne; for Balaam had a mind to curse the Israelites for his monies sake, but if he might have had an house full of silver and gold (which is a goodly thing in a covetous eye) it is said, hee durst not curse them.

3. Thirdly, In judging of the sincerity of the heart by some good affection in the heart. Hence many a deluded soule reasons the case out thus with himselfe: Either I must be a prophane man, or an Hypocrite, or an upright man. Not profane, I thanke God, for I am not given to whoring, drinking, oppression, swearing: Nor Hypocrite, for I hate these shewes, I cannot indure to appeare better without then I am within there.

therefore I am upright. Why? Oh, because mine heart is good, mine affections & desires within are better then my life without, and what ever others judge of me, I know mine own heart, & the heart is all that God desires. And thus they foole themselves, Prov. 28. 26. This is one of the greatest causes and grounds of mistake amongst men that thinke best of themselves: they are not able to put a difference between the good desires and strong affections that arise from the love of Jesus Christ.

Selfe-love will make a man seeke his own good and safety; hence it will pull a man out of his bed betimes in the morning, and call him up to pray; it will take him and cary him into his chamber towards evening, and there privately make him seeke, and pray, and tug hard for pardon, for Christ, for mercy, Lord evermore give us a soft brend! But the love of Christ makes a man desire Christ and his honour for himselfe, & all other things for Christ. It is true, the desires of Sonnes in Christ by faith are accepted ever, but the desire of servants, men that worke onely for their wages out of Christ, are not.

4.

a King. 10
18.

Fourthly, In judging of Gods love to them, by aiming sometimes at the glory of God. Is this possible, that a man should aime at Gods glory, and yet perish? Yes, and ordinary too. A man may be liberall to the poore, maintaine the Ministry, be forward and stand for good things, whence he may not doubt but that God loves him: But here is the difference, though a wicked man may make Gods glory in some particular things his end, yet he never makes it in his generall course his utmost and last end: A subtle Apprentice may doe all his Masters work, but he may take the gaine to himselfe, or divide it betwixt his Master and himselfe, and so may be but a Knave, as observant as he seemes to be: So a subtle heart, (yet a vile villanous heart) may forsake all the world, as Judas did, may binde himselfe Apprentice to all the duties God requireth outwardly ly at his hands, and so doe good works, but what's his last end? It's that hee might gaine respect or place, or that Christ may have some part of the glory, and he another. Simon Magus would give any money sometimes that he could pray so well, know so much, and doe as others doe, and yet his last end is for himselfe; but how can you beleeve, if you seeke not that glory that comes from God, sayes Christ? there's many seeke the honour of Christ, but doe you seeke his honour onely; Is it your last end, where you rest and seeke no more but that? If thou wouldest know whether thou makest Christs glory thy last end; observe this Rule:

If thou art more grieved for the eclipse of thine owne honour, and for thine owne losses, then for the losse of Gods honour, it is an evident signe thou lovest it not, desirest it not as thy chiefest good, as the last end, for thy summum bonum, and therefore dost not seeke Gods honour, in the prime and chiefest place. Sinne troubled Paul more than all the plagues and miseries of the world; Indeed, if thy name be dashed with disgrace, and thy will be crossed, thy heart is grieved and disquieted, but the Lord may lose his honour daily by thine owne sinnes, and those that be round about thee, but not a teare, not a sigh, not a groane, to behold such a spectacle. As sure as the Lord lives, thou seekest not the Lords name, or honour, as thy greatest good.

5. Fifthly, In judging the power of sinne to be but infirmities, for if any thing trouble an unregenerate man, and makes him call his estate into question, it is sinne either in the being or power of it. Now sinne in the being ought not, must not, make a man question his estate, because the best have that left in them, that will humble them, and make them live by faith; therefore the power of sinne onely can trouble a man. Now if a man doe judge of this to be onely but infirmities, which the best are compassed about withall, hee cannot but lie downe securely, and thinke himselfe well. And if this er-rour

rour be settled in one that lives in no one knowne sinne, it is very difficult to remove : for let the Minister cast the sparkes of hell in their faces, and denounce the terrour of God against them, they are never stirred : why ?
 because they thinke, here's for you that live in sinne, but as for themselves, although they have sinnes, yet they strive against them, and so cannot leave them ; for, we must have sinne as long as we live here, they say. Now marke it, there's no surer signe of a man under the bloody raigne, and dominion of his lusts and sinnes, than this ; that is, to give way to sinne, (though never so little and common) nor to be greatly troubled for sinne (for they may be a little troubled) because they cannot overcome sinne ; I deny not, but the best doe sinne daily ; yet this is the disposition of Paul, and every child of God, he mourneth not the lesse, but the more for sinne ; though he cannot quite subdue them, cast them out and overcome them. As a prisoner mournes the more that he is bound with such fetters he cannot breake; so doth every one truly sensible of his woefull captivitie by sinne; This is the great difference between a raging sinne a man will part with all, and a sinne of infirmity a man cannot part withall; a sinne of infirmity is such a sinne as a man would, but cannot part with it, and hence he mournes the more for it. A raging sinne is such a sinne, as a man happily by vertue of his lashing conscience, would sometimes part withall, but cannot, and hence mournes the lesse for it, and gives way unto it. Now for the Lords sake take heede of this deceit; for I tell you, those sinnes you cannot part withall, if you groane not day and night under them, (saying, O Lord, helpe me, for I am weary of my selfe) and my life, will certainly undoe you. You say, you cannot but speake idely, and thinke vainely, and deceit, as all doe sometimes; I tell you, those sinnes shall be everlasting chaines to hold you fast in the power of the devill untill the Judgement of the great day.

And

And thus much of the understandings corruption, whereby men are commonly deluded; Now followeth the second.

Secondly, in regard of the false bastard peace begot in the conscience. Why should the Campe tremble when Scouts are asleepe, or give a false report, when the enemies are neare them? Most men thinke they are in a safe estate, because they were never in a troubled estate, or if they have beene troubled, because they have got some peace and comfort after it.

Now this false peace is begot in the heart, by these foure meanes.

How false peace is bred in the soule.

1. By Sathan.
2. By false teachers.
3. By a false spirit.
4. By a false application of true promises.

I. By Sathan, whose kingdome shall fall if it should be divided, and be alwayes in a combustion: hence he labour

I.

bouresth for peace, Luke XI. 21. When the strong man keepeth the palace, his goods be in peace; that is, when Sathan armed with abundance of shifts and carnall reasonings possesseth mens soules, they are at peace.

Now looke as Masters give their servants peace, even so the devill.

1. By removing all things that may trouble them: and

2. By giving unto them all things that may quiet and comfort them, as meate, drinke, rest, lodging, &c. so doth Sathan deale with his slaves and servants.

First, by removing those sins which trouble the conscience; for a man may live in a sinne, and yet never be troubled for that sinne; for sinne against the light of conscience onely troubles the conscience; as children that are tumbling and playing in the dust, they are not troubled with all the dust, nay, they take pleasure to wallow in it; but onely with that (whether it be small or great) that lights in their eyes. And hence that young man came boasting to Christ, that hee had kept all the commandements from his youth, but went away sorrowfull, because that dust, that sinne he lived in with delight before, fell into his eyes, and therefore was troubled: Now marke the plot of the Devill, when he can make a man live, and wallow, and delight in his sinnes, and so serve him, and yet will not suffer him to live in any sinne against conscience, whereby he should be troubled, and so seeke to come out of his woefull estate, he is sure this man is his owne; and now a poore deluded man himselfe goes up and downe, not doubting but he shall be saved; why? because their conscience (they thanke God) is cleare, and they know of no one sinne they live in, they know nothing by themselves, that may make them so much as suspect their estate is bad, Matth. 9. 13. I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance, that is, such an one as in his owne opinion, is fish whole, every sinne being a child of Gods sicknesse, he is never without some kinde of sorrow: but some sins

to

onely

onely being a naturall mans sicknesse, they being removed, he recovers out of his former sorrow, and growes well againe, and thinkes himselfe sound: but, the Lord Jesus never came to save such, therefore Satan keepes possession of them. For the Lords sake looke to this subtilty, many thinke themselves in a good estate, because they know not the particular sinne they live in, whereas Satan may have stronger possession of such as are bound with his invisible fetters and chaines, when those that have their pinching bolts on them may sooner escape.

2. Secondly, By giving the soule liberty to recreate it selfe in any sinfull course, wherein the eye of conscience may not be pricked and wounded. Servants when they are put alwayes to worke, and never can goe abroad, are weary both of work and Master: that Master pleaseth them, that giveth them most liberty. To be pent up all the day long in doing Gods worke, matching, praying, fighting against every sinne, this is a burden, this is too strict, strict, and because that they cannot endure it, they thinke the Lord lookes not for it at their hands. Now Satan gives men libertie in their sinfull courses, and this libertie begets peace, and this peace makes them thinke well of themselves, 2 Pet. 2. 19. There's many rotten professors in these dayes, that indeed will not open their mouthes against the sincere hearted people of God, yet they walke loosely, and take too much liberty in their speeches, liberty in their thoughts, liberty in their desires and delights, liberty in their company, in their pastimes, and that somerimes under a pretence of Christian liberty, and never trouble themselves with these needlesse controversies, to what end, or in what manner doe I use these things? whereas the righteous man feareth alway, considering there is a snare for him in every lawfull liberty. May not I sinne in my mirth, in my speaking, in my sleeping? Oh! this liberty that the Devill gives, and the world takes, besots most men with a foolish opinion, that all is well with them.

Third-

3.

Thirdly, by giving the soule good dyer, meate and drinke enough; what dish he likes best. Let a Master give liberty, yet his servant is not pleased, unlesse he hath meate and drinke and food: so there's no wicked man under Heaven, but as he takes too much liberty in the use of lawfull things, so he feedeth his heart with some unlawfull secret lust, though all the time they live in it, it may be, it is unknown to them, Luk. 16. Dives had his dish, his good things, and so sang himselfe a sleepe, and bad his soule take his ease and rest: yea observe, this dyer is poysoned in it selfe, but ever commended to the soule as wholsome, good, and lawfull. They christen sinne with a new name, as Popes are at their election; if he be bad, they call him sometimes Pius, if a coward, Leo, &c. So covetousnesse is good husbandry; company keeping, good neighbourhoode; lying, to save their credit from crack- ing, but a handsome excuse: and hence the soule goes peaceably on, and beleeves he is in a good estate.

Fourth.

Fourthly, by giving the soule rest and sleepe, that is, cessation sometimes from the act of sinne; hence they are hardly perswaded that they live in sin, because they cease sometimes from the act of sinne, as no man doth alwayes sweare, nor is he alwayes drunk, nor alwayes angry. They think, onely their falls in these or the like sinnes, are slips and falls, which the best man may have sometimes, and yet be a deare child of God. Oh! Satan will not alwayes set men at his worke; for if men should alwayes have their cups in their hands, and their queanes in their armes, if a coverous man should alwayes root in the earth, and never pray, never have good thoughts, never keepe any Sabbath, if a man should alwayes speake idely, and never good word drop from him, a mans conscience would never be quiet, but shaking him up for what he doth; but by giving men respite from sinning for a time, Satan getteth stronger possession afterwards, as Matth. 12. 43. When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, it returns turnes worse. Sampsons strength alwayes remained, and so doth finnes strength in a naturall man, but it never appeares untill temptation come.

5. Fifthly, By giving the soule faire promises of Heaven and eternall life, and fastning them upon the heart. Most men are confident their estate is good, and though God kills them, yet will they trust in him, and cannot be beaten from this. Why? oh! Satan bewitcheth them: For as he told Eva by the Serpent, shee should not dye, so doth he insinuate his perswasions to the soule, though it live in sinne, he shall not dye, but doe well enough, as the precisest. Satan gives thus good words, but wofull wages, the eternall flashes of Hell.

- II. II. By false Teachers. Who partly by their loose examples, partly by their flattering doctrines in publike, and their large charitie in private, dawbing up every one (especially that is a good friend unto them) for honest and religious people, and if they be but a little troubled, applying comfort fort presently, and so healing them that should be wounded, and not telling them roundly of their Herodias, as John Baptist did Hered. Hereupon they judge themselves honest, because the Minister will give them the beggerly passport, and so they goe out of the world, and dye like Lambes, being wofully cheated, Matth. 24. 11. Looke abroad in the world, and see what is the reason so many feed their hearts with confidence they shall be saved, yet their lives condemne them, and their hearts acquit them; the reason is, such and such a Minister will goe to the Ale-house, and he never prayes in his Family, and he is none of these precise hot people, and yet as honest a man as ever lives, and a good Divine too. Abab was miserably cheated by foure hundred false Prophets. Whilst the Minister is of a loose life himselfe, he will winke at others and their faults, least in reprovng them, he should condemne himselfe, and others should say unto him, Physitian, heale thy selfe. Theeves of the same com-

company will not steale from one another, least they trouble thereby themselves ; and hence they give others false Cards to saile by , false Rules to live by ; their unconscionable large charitie, is like a gulfe that swalloweth Ships (soules I meane) tossed with tempests, and not comforted, Isa. 54. 7, 8. and hence all being fish that cometh to their net, all men thinke so of themselves.

III.

III. A false spirit. This is a third cause that begets a false peace ; as there is a true Spirit that witnesseth to our spirits , that wee are Sonnes of God, Rom. 8. 16. So there is a false spirit, just like the true one, witnessing that they are the Sonnes of God, 1 John 4. 1. we are bid to try the spirits : now, if these spirits were not like Gods true Spirit, what need tryall ? As, what need one try whether dirt be gold, which are so unlike to each other. And this spirit I take to be set downe, Matth. 24. 23. Now looke as the true Spirit witnesseth, so the false spirit, being like it, witnesseth also.

First,

First, The Spirit of God humbles the soule : So before men have the witnesse of the false spirit, they are mightily cast downe and dejected in spirit, and hereupon they pray for ease, and purpose to lead new lives, and cast away the weapons, and submit, Psal. 66. 3.

1.

Secondly, the Spirit of God in the Gospel reveales Jesus Christ, and his willingnesse to save ; so the false spirit discovereth Christs excellency and willingnesse to receive him , if he will but come in. It fareth with this soule as with Surveyors of Lands, that take an exact compasse of other mens grounds, of which they shall never enjoy a Foot. So did Balaam, Num. 24. 5, 6. this false spirit sheweth them the glory of Heaven and Gods people.

2.

Thirdly, Hereupon the soule cometh to be affected, and to taste the goodnesse and sweetnesse of Jesus Christ, as those did, Heb. 6. and the soule breakes out into a passionate admiration: Oh ! that ever there should be any hope for such a vile wretch as I am and have been, and so joyes exceedingly, like a man halfe way wrapt up into Heaven.

3.

4.

Fourthly, Hereupon the soule being comforted after it was wounded, now calleth God, my God, and Christ, my sweet Saviour, and now it doubts not but it shall be saved; why? because I have received much comfort after much sorrow, and doubting, Hos. 8. 2, 3. and yet remains a deluded miserable creature still. But here marke the difference betweene the witnesse of each spirit. The false spirit makes a man beleeve he is in the state of grace, and shall be saved, because he hath tasted of Christ, and so hath been comforted, and that abundantly: But the true Spirit perswades a man, his estate is good and safe, because he hath not onely tasted, but bought this Christ; as the wise Merchant in the Gospel, that rejoyced he had found the pearle, but yet stayes not here, but sells away all, and buyes the pearle. Like two Chapmen that come to buy Wine, the

the one tasteth it, and goeth away in a drunken fit, and so concludes it is his: So a man doth, that hath the false spirit: but the true spirited man doth not onely taste, but buyes the Wine, although he doe not drinke it all downe, when he cometh to taste it; yet he having been incited by tasting to buy it, now he calls it his owne: So a child of God tasting a little of God, and a little of Christ, and a little of the promises at his first conversion, although he tastes not all the sweetnesse that is in God, yet he forsakes all for God, for Christ, and so takes them lawfully as his owne.

Againe, the false spirit having given a man comfort and peace, suffers a man to rest in that estate; but the true spirit having made the soule taste the Love of the Lord, stirreth up the soule to doe and worke mightily for the Lord. Now the soule cryeth out, What shall I doe for Christ that hath done wonders for me? if every haire on my head were a tongue to speake of his goodnesse, it were too little. Ne.

hem. 8. 10. the joy of the Lord is our strength. Psal. 51. 12. Uphold me with thy free spirit, or as the Chaldean paraphrase hath it, thy kingly spirit; the Spirit of Adoption in Gods childe is no underling, suffering men to lye downe, and cry, my desires are good, but flesh is fraile; No, It is a kingly spirit that raignes where it liveth.

IV.

IV. False applying of true promises, is the last cause of false peace. And when a man hath Gods Spirit within, and Gods hand and promise (as he thinks) for his estate, now he thinkes all safe. Thus did the Jewes, they said, Wee have Abraham to our Father, and so reputed themselves safe, God having made them promise, I will be a God of thee, and of thy seed. But here is a difference betweene a child of Gods application of them & a wicked mans; the first applieth them so to him, as that he liveth upon them, and nothing but them; and to whom doth the dugges belong, but to the childe that liveth upon it. The other lives upon his

his lusts, and creatures, and yet catcheth hold on the promise.

By these foure meanes is begot a bastard false peace.

Thus much of the second cause of mans deceiving himselfe; False peace in the Conscience.

Now followeth the third.

III. The corruptions and distempers of the Will, which is the third cause why men deceive themselves. Which are many. I will onely name three.

III.

First, When the Will is resolved to goe on in a sinfull course, and then sets the understanding a worke to defend it. Whence it fareth with the soule, as with a man that commeth to search for stollengoods, who having received a bribe afore hand, searcheth every where but where it is, and so the man is never found out to be what he is: So a man having tasted the sweetnesse of a sinfull course (which pleasure bribes him) he is contented to search into every corner of his heart, and to try himselfe, as many doe, except there

I.

where his darling lust lyes; he sits upon that, and covers it willingly from his owne eyes, as Rachel did upon stolne gods, and so never findes out himselfe, Is. 3. 20. a man that hath a mind to sleepe quietly, will cause the curtaines to be drawne, and will let some light come in, but shuts out all that, or so much as may hinder him from sleeping: So a man having a mind to sleepe in some particular sinfull course at his ease, will search himselfe, and let some light come into his minde.

And hence many prophane persons, that know much, (their opinions are orthodox, their discourse savoury) yet doe they know little of themselves, and of those sinnes and lusts that haunt them, which they must paynfully be- cause this light troubleth them, it hinders them from sleeping in their secure estate, and therefore they draw the curtaine here: Hence many men that live in those sinnes of the grossest as- sury, finding the gaine, and tasting the sweet of that sinne, will reade all bookes, goe to all those Ministers, they they suppose, that hold it lawfull, and so pick up and gather reasons to defend the lawfulness of the sinne, and so because they would not have it to be a sinne, finde out reasons whereby they thinke it no sinne; but the bottome is this, their will hath got the bribe, and now the understanding playes the lawyer, and hence men live in the most crying finnes, and are sure to perish, because they will not know they are in an error.

2.
Secondly, when the will sets the understanding a worke to extenuate and lessen sinne: for many, when they see their sinne, yet make it small by looking at the false end of their opticke glasse; they thinke such small matters never make any breach betweene the Lord and their soules. Hence they say, the best man finnes seven times a day, and who can say my heart is cleane? What is the reason that a child of God hath little peace many times after commission of small finnes? Oh! it is because they see the horrible nature of the least sinne: small wrongs against so P 4 deare,

deare, so great a friend as the Lord is, it cuts their hearts; yet a carnall heart is never troubled for great sinnes, because they make a light matter of them.

3.

Thirdly, Wilfull ignorance of the horrible wrath of God. Hence men rush on in sinne, as the horse into the battell. Hence men never feare their estates, because they know not Gods wrath hanging over them. Coldest Snakes when they are frozen with cold, never sting nor hurt; one may carry a neast of them in his bosome; but bring them to the fire, then they hisse and sting; so sinne when it is brought neare Gods wrath, (that devouring fire) it makes men cry out of themselves, then I am undone, oh I am a lost creature; but being not thus heated, sinne never makes a man cry out of himselfe.

These are the causes why men are ignorant of their wofull, miserable estate, which Ignorance is the first Rocke, or the first powder der-plot that spoyle thousands.

Yet, there are three more dangerous, because more secret.

Now followeth the second reason of mens ruine. By reason of mans carnall securitie, whereby men cannot be affected with, nor so much as have hearts to desire to come out of their misery, when they know it: for if a mans minde understand his misery, yet if the heart be hard or sleepy, and not affected, loaden, wounded, humbled, and made to groane under it, he will never greatly care to come out of it, Isa. 29. 9, 10. Now this is the estate of many a soule, he doth know his misery, but by reason of the sleepy, secure, senseles spirit of slumber, he never feels it, nor mournes under it, and so comes out of it.

Now the Reasons of this security are these.

Because God powres not out the full measure of his wrath upon men, because hee kindles not the pile of wrath that lyes upon men, its reserved and

The second Reason why men ruine themselves.

Reas. I.

Nahum 1.

2.

and concealed, not revealed from heaven, and so long, let God frowne, Ministers threaten, and smaller Judgements drop, yet they will never seeke shelter in Jesus Christ, but sleepe in their finnes, untill God raine downe floods of horroure, bloud, fire, untill Gods arrowes sticke in mens hearts, they will never seeke out of themselves unto Jesus Christ, Eccle. 8. 11. so long as Gods plagues were upon Pharabb, he giveth faire words, and Moses must be sent to pray for him: but when Gods hand is taken away, now *Pharabb*s heart is hardened. So long as Gods sword is in his scabberd, men have such stout hearts, that they will never yeeld; God must wound, and cut deep, and stab, and thrust to the very heart, else men will never yeeld, never awaken, till Gods fists be about mens eares, and he is dragging them to the stake; men will never awake and cry for a pardon and deliverance of their woefull estate.

Reas. 2.

Secondly, because if they doe in part seeke, and so feare Gods wrath, they they put away the evill day farre from them, they hope they shall doe better hereafter, and repent some other time, and therefore they say, soule eate, drinke, follow thy sports, cups, queanes; thou hast a treasure of time which shall not be spent in many yeares, Isay 22. 12, 13. that looke as it is with the waxe; let it be of never so pliable a disposition, and the fire never so hot, yet if it be not brought neare the fire, and be held in the fire, it never melts, but still remains hard: so it is here. Let a man or woman have never so gentle or pliable a nature, and let Gods wrath be never so hot and dreadfull in their Judgements, yet if they make not the day of wrath present to them, if they see it not ready every moment to light upon their hearts, they are never melted, but they remaine hard-hearted, secure, sleepey wretches, and never groane to come out of their woe full estate; and this is the reason why many men, that have guilty consciences, though they have many secret wishes and purposes to be bee better, yet never cry out of themselves, nor ever seeke earnestly for mercy, till they lie upon their death-bed, and then, oh the promises that they ply God with ! try me Lord, & restore me once more to my health, and life againe, and thou shalt see how thankfull I will be ; because that now they apprehend wrath and misery neare unto them, Heb. 3. 13.

Reas. 3.

Thirdly, Because they thinke they can beare Gods wrath, though they doe conceive it neare at hand, even at the very doores : men thinke not that Hell is so hot, nor the devill so black, nor God so terrible as in deede he is. And hence wee shall observe the Prophets present Gods wrath as a thing intolerable before the eyes of the people, that thereby they might quench all those cursed conceits of being able to beare Gods wrath, Neham 1. 6. and hence we shall have many men desperately conclude, they will have their swinge in sine, and if they perish they hope they shall be able to beare it, it is but a damning they thinke, and hence they they goe on securely. O poore wretches! the devill scares and feares all the world, and at Gods wrath the devills quake, and yet secure men feare it not, they thinke hell is not so terrible a place.

Fourthly, because they know no better an estate: Hence though they feeke their wofull and miserable condition, yet they desire not to come out of it. Although men finde hard lodging in the world, hard times, hard friends, hard hearts, yet they make a shift with what they finde in this miserable Inne, untill they come to Hell; for such a man pursued by outward miseries or inward troubles, there staves. O miserable man, that makes shift till he come to Hell. They may heare of the happy estate of Gods people, but not knowing of it experimentally, they stay where they are, Joh. 4. 14.

Take a Princes childe, and bring it up in a base house and place, it never aspires after a Kingdome or Crowne. So men, hatched in this world, knowing

ing no better an estate, never cast about them to get a better inheritance: than that they scramble for here. Wives mourne for the long absence of their beloved Husbands, because they know them and their worth. God may absent himself from men, weeks, months, yeares, but men shed not one teare for it, because they never tasted the sweetnesse of his presence. It is strange to see men take more content in their cups and cards, pots and pipes, dogges and hawkes, than in the fellowship of God and Christ, in Word, in Prayer, in Meditation, which Ordinances are burdens and prisons unto them. What is the reason of it? Is there no more sweetnesse in the presence of Gods smiling in Christ, than in a filthy Whore? Yes, but they know not the worth, sweetnesse, satisfying goodnesse of a God; yet into fresh waters they will never returne, because now they taste a large difference of each estate: So it is here, if men did but once taste of the happinesse of Gods people, they would not for a thousand sand worlds be one halfe houre in their wild loose Sea againe.

Fifthly, because if they doe know a better estate, yet their present pleasures, their sloth doth so bewitch them, and Gods denyals when they seeke unto him, doe so farre discourage them, that they sleepe still securely in that estate. A slothfull heart bewitched with present ease and pleasures and delights, considering many a teare, many a prayer must it make, many a night must it breake its sleepe, many a weary step must it take towards heaven and Christ, if ever it come there, growes discouraged and deaded, and hard-hearted in a sleepey estate, and had rather have a bird in the hand then two in the bush, Prov. 1. 32. Jer. 48. 11. The Israelites wished that they were at their Onyons and garlike againe in Egypt. Was there no Canaan? yes, but they wished thus because there were walls built up to heaven, and Giants sonnes of Anack in the Land, difficulties to overcome. O slothfull hearts! Secondly, because God

Reas. 5.

God sometime put them to straights, and denied them what they sought for, they were of such a waspish, ready, fullen spirit, that because the Lord had them not alwayes on his knees, they would runne away: so many a man meets with sorrow enough in his sinfull, dropie, drunken estate, he heares of heaven and a better estate; yet, why goes he to his lusts and flesh pots againe? Oh! because there are so many difficulties and blockes and hindrances in his way, and because they pray and finde not ease, therefore they eate, drinke, laugh, sport and sleepe in their miserable estate still, Matth. 7. 14. therefore men walke in the broad way, because the other way to life is straight and narrow, it is a plague, a burden, a prison to be so strict; men had rather sit almost an houre in the stockes, than be an houre at prayer; men had rather be damned at last, than sweat it out and runne through the race to receive a Crowne, and hence men remaine secure.

Sixthly;

Sixthly, because of the strange strong power of sin, which beares that sway over mens soules, that they must serve it; as prisoners stoope to their Jaylor; as souldiers that have taken their pay, their pleasure of sinne, must follow it as their Captaine, though they goe marching on to eternall ruine: nay though Doomes day should be to morrow, yet they must and will serve their lusts. As the Sodomites when they were smitten with blindnesse, which tormented their eyes, as though they had beene pricked with thornes, for so the Hebrew word signifies; even when destruction was neare, they groped for the doore. Men cannot but sin though they perish for sinne; hence they remaine secure.

Reas. 6.

Rom. 1.
ult.

Seventhly, Despaire of Gods mercy: hence, like Cain, men are Runnagates from the face of God; men thinke they shall never finde mercy when all is done: hence they grow desperately sinfull; like those Italian Senators, that despairing of their lives (when upon submission they had been promised their lives, yet) being conscious of their villany, made a curious banquet, & at the end of it, every man dranke up his glasse of poyson, & killed himselfe: so men feeling such horrible hard hearts, and being privie to such notorious finnes, they cast away lives, and heaven, and soules for lust, and so perish wofully, because they lived desperately, and so securely.

Reas. 7.

Reas. 8.

Eighthly, Because men nourish a blinde, false, flattering hope of Gods mercy: hence many knowing and suspecting that all is naught with them, yet having some hope they may be in a good estate, and God may love them; hence they lie downe securely, and rest in their flattering hope. Hence observe, those people that seldome come to a conclusion, to a point, that either they are in the state of grace, or out of it, that never come to be affected, but remaine secure in their condition; they commonly grow to this desperate conclusion; that they hope God will be mercifull unto them; if not, they cannot helpe it: like the man that had

had on his Target the picture of God and the Devill under the first he writ; for now is, if thou wilt not; under the other he writ, if thou wilt, here's one will.

Ninthly, because men bring not their hearts under the hammer of Gods word to be broken, they never bring their consciences to be cut. Hence they goe on still securely with festered consciences. Men put themselves above the word, and their hearts above the hammer, they come not to have the Minister to humble them, but to judge of him, or to pick some pretty fine thing out of the word, and so remaine secure sotts all their dayes: for if ever thy heart be broken, and thy conscience be awaked, the word must doe little but people are so Sermon-trodden, that their hearts, like foot-paths, grow hard by the word.

Tenthly, because men consider not of Gods wrath daily, nor the horrible nature of sinne; men chew not these pills: hence they never come to be affected nor awakened,

Reas. 9.

Reas. 10

Vse.

Awaken therefore all you secure creatures; feeke your misery, that so you may get out of it. Dost thou know thine estate is naught, and that thy condemnation will be fearefull, if ever thou dost perish; and is thine heart secretly secure, so damnablely dead, so desperately hard, that thou hast no heart to come out of it: what no sigh, no teares: canst thou carry all thy finnes upon thy backe, like ~~scavenger~~ ^{scavenger} the gates of the Citie, and make a light matter of them? Dost thou see hell fire before thee, and yet wilt venture? art thou worse than a beast which we cannot beate nor drive into the fire, if there be any way to escape: oh get thine heart to lament & mourne under thy miseries, who knowes then but the Lord may pittie thee? But oh hard heart! thou canst mourne for losses and crosses, burning of goods and houses, yet though God be lost, and his image burnt downe, and all is gone, thou canst not mourne. If thine heart were truly affected, the pillow would be washed with thy teares; and the wife wife in thy bosome would be witness to thine heart-breakings in mid night for those sinnes which have grieved the spirit of God many a time; thou couldest not sleepe quietly, nor comfortably without affluance. If you were sicke to death, Physicians should heare how you doe; and if you were humbled, we should have you in the bitterness of your spirits cry out, What shall we doe? but know it, thou must mourne here or in hell. If God broke Davids bones for his adultery, and the Angels backs for their pride; the Lord, if ever he saves thee, will break thine heart too.

Quest. But thou wilt say, how shall I doe to get mine heart affected with my misery?

Ans. Take a full view of thy misery. 1. Take speciall notice of the Lords readinesse and willingnesse to receive thee yet unto mercy: for, two things harden the heart. 1. false hope: whereby a man hopes, he is not so bad, as indeed he is. 2. No hope; whereby a man when he seeth himselfe so noto-

Quest.

Ans. 1.
How to get a broken heart.

riously bad, thinkes there is no willingnesse in the Lord to pardon or receive such a monster of men to mercy; and if neither the hammer can breake thy stony heart, nor the Sunshine of mercy melt it, thou hast an heart worse than the Devill; and art a spectacle of the greatest misery. 1. In regard of sinne, 2. in regard of Gods wrath.

First, in regard of sinne. Thou hast sinned, and that grievously against a great God, thou makest no great matter of this: No, but though it be no load to thee, it's a load on the Lords heart, Isa. 1. 24. and time will come he will make the whole sinfull world by rivers of fire and bloud to know what an evill it is.

For 1. In every sin thou dost strike God, and sling a dagger at the heart of God. 2. In every sin thou dost spight against God: for if there were but one onely thing wherein a man could doe his friend a displeasure, was not here spight scene if he did that thing? Now tell me, hath not the Lord bene a good friend unto thee? Tell mee, wherein wherein hath hee grieved thee ? and tell me, in what one thing canst thou please the devill, and doe God a displeasure, but by sinne ? yet O hard heart thou makest nothing of it ; but consider thirdly, in every sin thou dost dethrone God, and setteth thy selfe above God : for in every sinne, this question is put, whose will shall be done, Gods will or mans ? Now man by sinne sets up his owne will above the Lords, and so kicks God, (blessed for ever, adored of millions of Saints and Angels) as filth under his feet. What, will this breake your hearts ?

Consider then of Gods wrath ; the certainty of it, the unsupportablenesse of it, how that dying in thy sinnes, and secure estate, it shall fall ; for when men cry, Peace, Peace, then commeth sudden destruction at unawares ; pray therefore to God to reveale this to thee, that thine heart may breake under it. Secondly, consider of the Lords mercy and readinesse to save thee, who hath prepared mercy, and intreats thee

2 Thes. 5.
3, 4.

2 Cor. 5.
19.

3. General Reason of mans ruine.

thee to take it, and waiteth every day for thee to that end.

The third Reason of mans ruine is, that carnall confidence, whereby men seeke to save themselves, and to scramble out of their miserable estate by their owne duties and performances, when they doe feele themselves miserable: the soule doth as those Hos. 5. 13. men when they be wounded and troubled, they never look after Jesus Christ, but goe to their owne waters to heale themselves, like hunted Harts when the arrow is in them, Rom. 9. 31, 32.

For the opening of this point, I shall shew you these two things.

1. Wherein this resting in Duties appears.
2. Why doe men rest in themselves.

Wherein Mens Resting in Duties appears.

First, this resting in Duties appears in these Eleven degrees.

1. The soule of a poore sinner, if ignorantly bred and brought up, rests confidently in superstitious vanities.

Aske

Aske a devout Papist, how he hopes to be saved; he will answer, By his good workes. But enquire further; what are these good workes: why, for the most part superstitious ones of their owne inventions (for the Crow thinks her owne bird fairest) as whipping themselves, pilgrimage, fasting, mumbling over their Pater-nosters, bowing downe to Images and Crosses.

2. Now these being banished from the Church and Kingdome, then men stand upon their titular profession of the true Religion, although they be Devils incarnate in their lives, Looke up and down the Kingdome, you shall see some roaring, drinking, dicing, carding, whoring in Tavernes and blind Alehouses; others belching out their oathes, their mouthes ever casting out like raging Seas filthy frothy speeches: others, like Ismaels, scoffing at the best men, yet these are confident they shall be saved. Why, (they say) they are no Papists, hang them, they will die for their Religion, and rather burne

2.

Zeph. 3.
11.

burne than turne againe by the grace of God. Thus the Jewes boasted, they were Abrahams seede : so our carnall people boast : Am not I a good Protestant ? am I not baptized ? doe I not live in the Church, and therefore resting here, hope to be saved ? I remember a Judge, when one pleaded once with him for his life, that hee might not be hanged, because he was a Gentleman, he told him, that therefore hee should have the Gallows made higher for him, so when thou pleadest, I am a Christian and a good Protestant (yet thou wilt drinke, and sweare, and whore, neglect prayer, and breake Gods Sabbath) and therefore thou hopest to be saved ; I tell thee thy condemnation shall be greater, and thy plagues in hell the heavier.

3.

3. If men have no peace here, then they fly to, and rest in the goodnesse of their infides : you shall have many a man, whom if you follow to his chamber you shall finde very devout, and they pray heartily for the mercy of God, and forgivenessse of finnes : but follow follow them out of their Chambers, watch their discourses, you shall finde it frothy and vaine, and now and then powdered with faith and truth and obscene speeches. Watch them when they are crost, you shall see them as angry as Waspes, and swell like Turkeys, and so spit out their venome like Dragons. Watch them in their journeyes, and you shall see them shoot in- to an Alehouse, and there swill and swagger, and be familiar with the scumme of the countrey for prophane- nesse, and halfe drunke too sometimes. Watch them on the Lords day, take them out of the Church once, and set aside their best clothes, they are the same then as at another time; and be- cause they must not worke nor sport that day, they thinke they may with a good conscience sleepe the longer on the morning. Aske now such men how they hope to be saved, seeing their lives are so bad; they say, though they make not such shews, they know what good prayers they make in pri- vate, their hearts they say are good. I tell

The Sincere Convert.

tell ye brethren, he that trusteth to his owne heart, and his good desires, and so resteth in them, is a foole. I have heard of a man that would haue the Tavernes, and Theaters, and whore-houses at London all day, but he durst not goe forth without private prayer in the morning, and then would say at his departure; now devill doe thy worst, and so used his prayers (as many doe) only as charmes and spels against the poore weake cowardly devill, that they thinke dares not hurt them, so long as they have good hearts within them, and good prayers in the chamber; and hence they will goe neare to raile against the Preacher as an harsh Master, if he doe not comfort them with this, that God accepts of their good desires.

4.

4. If their good hearts cannot quiet them, but conscience tells them, they are unsound without, and rotten at core within, then men fall upon reformation; they will leave their whoring, drinking, cozening, gaming, company-keeping, swearing, and such like roaring ring finnes, and now all the Countrey saith, he is become a new man, and he himselfe thinkes he shall be saved, 2 Pet. 2. 20. they escape the pollutions of the world, as swine that are escaped and washed from outward filth, yet the swinish nature remaines still, like Mariners that are going to some dangerous place, ignorantly, if they meet with stormes, they goe not backward, but cast out their goods that indanger their ship, and so goe forward still: so many a man going towards hell, is forced to cast out his lusts and finnes, but he goeth on in the same way still for all that.

The wildest beasts (as Staggs) if they be kept waking from sleepe long, will grow tame: so conscience giving a man no rest for some finnes he liveth in, he groweth tame; He that was a wild Gentleman before, remaines the same man still, onely he is made tame nam (that is) civill and smooth in his whole course, and hence they rest in reformation: which reformation is commonly but of some troublesome sinne, and it is because they thinke it is bet-

better following their trade of sinne at another market, and hence some men will leave their drinking and whoring, and turne covetous, because there is more gaine at that market; sometimes it is because sinne hath left them, as an old man.

5.

5. If they can have no rest here, they get into another starting hole, they goe to their Humiliations, Repentings, Teares, Sorrowes, and Confessions. They heare a man cannot be saved by reforming his life, unlesse he come to afflict his soule too; he must sorrow and weepe here, or else cry out in hell hereafter. Hereupon they betake themselves to their sorrowes, teares, confession of sinnes, and now the winde is downe, and the tempest is over, and they make themselves safe, Matth. 11. 21. They would have repented, that is, the Heathen, as Beza speakes, when any wrath was kindled from Heaven, they would goe to their sackcloth and sorrowes, and so thought to pacifie Gods anger againe, and here they rested: so it is with many a man, many people people have sicke fits and qualmes of conscience, and then they doe as Crowes that give themselves a vomit by swallowing downe some stone when they are sicke, and then they are well againe ; so when men are troubled for their sinnes, they will give themselves, a vomit of prayer, a vomit of confession, and humiliation, Isa. 58. 5. Hence many when they can get no good by this phyicke, by their sorrows, and teares, cast off all againe; for making these things their God, and their Christ, they forsake them when they cannot save them; Mat. 3. 14. more are driven to Christ by the sense of the burden of an hard, dead, blind, filthy heart, than by the sense of sorrows, because a man rests in the one, viz. in sorrows most commonly, but trembles and flies out of himselfe when he feeles the other : thus men rest in their repentance, and therefore Austin hath a pretty speech which sounds harsh, that Repentance damnethe more than sin; meaning that thousands did perish by resting in it : and hence

we

wee see among many people, if they have large affections, they thinke they are in good favour; if they want them, they thinke then they are cast-awayes, when they cannot mourne, nor be affected as once they were, because they rest in them.

6. If they have no rest here, then they turne morall men, that is, strict in all the duties of the morall law, which is a greater matter than reformation or humiliation, that is, they grow very just and square in their dealings with men, and exceeding strict in the duties of the first Table towards God, as fasting, prayer, hearing, reading, observing the Sabbath, and thus the Pharisees lived, and hence they are called the strict sect of the Pharisees. Take heede you mistake me not, I speake not against strictnesse, but against resting in it, for except your righteousness exceed theirs, you shall not enter into the Kingdome of Heaven. You shall finde these men fly from base persons and places like the Pesthouses, commend the best bookes, cry downe the finnes finnes of the time, and cry against civill or morall men (the eye sees not it selfe) and cry up zeale and forwardnesse.

Talke with him about many morall duties, that are to be done towards God or man, he will speak well about the excellency and necessity of it, because his trade and skill whereby he hopes to get his living and earne eter-nall life, lieth there; but speake about Christ, and living by faith in him and from him, & bottoming the soule upon the Promises (peecces of Evangeli-call righteousness) he that is very skilfull in any point of controversie, is as ignorant almost as a beast when he is examined here; hence if Ministers preach against the finnes of the time, they commend it for a speciall Sermon, (as it happily deserves too) but let him speake of any spirituall inward souleworking point, they goe away, and say, he was in their judgement confused and obscure, for their parts they understood them not. (Beloved) pictures are pretty things to look on, and that's all the goodnesse of them, so these men are

R

are (as Christ looked on and loved the naturall yong man in the Gospel) and that's all their excellency. You know, in Noah's flood, all that were not in the Arke, though they did climbe and get to the top of the tallest mountaines, they were drowned : so labour to climbe never so high in moralitie, and the duties of both Tables, if thou goest not into Gods Arke, the Lord Jesus Christ, thou art sure to perish eternally.

7. If they have no rest here in their moralitie, they grow hot within, and turne marvellous zealous for good causes and courses, and there they stay and warme themselves at their owne fire : thus Paul, Philip. 3. 6. was zealous and there rested. They will not live as many doe, like snails in their shells, but rather than they will be damned for want of doing, they are content to give away their estate, children, any thing almost to get pardon for the sinne of their soule, Mich. 6. 7.

Rom. 3. 10

8. If they find no helpe from hence, but

but are forced to see and say, when they have done all, they are unprofitable servants, and they sinne in all that which they doe; then they rest in that which is like unto Evangelicall Obedience, they thinke to please God by mourning for their failings in their good duties, desiring to be better, and promising for the time to come to be so, and therein rest, Dent. 5. 29.

9. If they feelee a want of all these, then they dig within themselves for power to leave sinne, power to be more holy and humble, and so thinke to worke out themselves in time, out of this estate, and so they digge for pearles in their owne dunghills, and will not be beholding to the Lord Jesus, to live on him in the want of all; they thinke to set up themselves out of their owne stock without Jesus Christ, and so, as the Prophet Hosea speaks 14. 3, 4. thinke to save themselves by their riding on Horses, (that is) by their owne abilities.

10. If they feelee no helpe here, then they goe unto Christ for grace and power to leave sinne and doe better, whereby they may save themselves; and so they live upon Christ, that they may live of themselves; they goe unto Christ, they get not into Christ, Psal. 8. 34, 35. like hirelings that goe for power to doe their worke, that they may earne their wages: A child of God contents himselfe with, and lives upon the inheritance it selfe, the Lord in his free mercy hath given him. But now wee shall see many poore Christians that runne in the very roade, the Papists devoutly goe to Hell in.

First, the Papist will confesse his misery, that he is (and all men are) by nature a child of wrath, and under the power of sinne and Saran.

Secondly, they hold Christ is the onely Saviour.

Thirdly, that this Salvation is not by any Righteousnesse in a Christ, but Righteousnesse from a Christ, onely by giving a man power to doe; and then dipping mens doings in his blood, he merits their life. Thus the wisest
and

and devourest of them professe, as I am able to manifest; just so doe many Christians live. First, They feele themselves full of sinne, and are sometimes tyred and weary of their lives, for their vile hearts, and they finde no power to helpe themselves. Secondly, Hereupon hearing, that onely Christ can save them, they goe unto Christ to remove these sinnes that tyre them and load them, that hee would enable them to doe better than formerly. Thirdly, If they get these sinnes subdued and removed, and if they finde power to doe better, than they hope they shall be saved. Whereas thou mayest be damned and goe to the devill at last, although thou dost escape all the pollutions of the world, & that not from thy selfe and strength, but from the knowledge of Jesus Christ, 2 Pet. 2. 20. I say woe to you for ever, if you die in this estate, it is with our Christians in this case, as it is with the Ivy, which claspes and groweth about the tree, and draws sap from the tree, but it growes not one with the tree, because it is not ingrafted into the tree: so many a soule commeth to Christ, to suck juice from Christ to maintaine his owne berries, (his owne stocke of grace,) alas, he is but Ivy, he is no member or branch of this tree, and hence he never groweth to be one with Christ. 2. Now the reasons why men rest in their duties are these.

The Sincere Convert.

Why men doe rest in their good duties.

Reas. 1.

First, because it's naturall to a man out of Christ to doe so. Adam and all his posterity was to be saved by his doing, Doe this and live, worke and here is the wages; winne life and weare it: Hence all his posteritie seekes to this day to be saved by doing; like father, like sonne. Now to come out of all duties truly to a Christ, hath not so much as a coate in innocent, much lesse corrupted nature; hence men seek to themselves: now as it is with a bankrupt, when his stocke is spent and his estate crackt, before he will turne Prentice, or live upon another, hee will turne Pedler of small wares, and so follow his old trade with a lesse stocke: so men naturally follow their old old trade of doing, and hope to get their living that way: and hence men having no experience of trading with Christ by faith, live of themselves. Sampson, when all his strength was lost, would goe to shake himselfe as at other times; so when mens strength is lost, and God and grace is lost, yet men will goe and try how they can live by shifts and working for themselves still.

Secondly, because men are ignorant of Jesus Christ and his righteousness, hence men cannot goe unto him, because they see him not, hence they shift as well as they can for themselves by their duties, John 4. 14. men seeke to save themselves by their own swimming, when they see no cable cast out to helpe them.

Reas. 2.

Thirdly, because this is the easiest way to comfort the heart, and pacifie conscience, and to please God as the soule thinks; because by this meanes a man goes no further than himselfe. Now in forsaking all duties, a soule goeth to heaven quite out of himselfe, and there he must waite many a yeare, and that for a little it may be. Now if a fainting man have Aquavita at his beds head, he will not knocke up the shopkeeper for it. Men that have a Balsome of their owne to heale them, will not goe to the Phyfician.

Reas. 3.

Reas. 4.

Fourthly, because by vertue of these duties a man may hide his sin, and live quietly in his sin, yet be accounted an honest man: as the whore in the Pro. 7. 15, 16. having performed her vowes, can intice without suspition of men, or check of conscience; so the Scribes and Pharisees were horribly covetous, but their long prayers covered their deformities, Matth. 23. 14. and hence men set their duties at a higher rate than they are worth, thinking they shall save them, because they are so usefull to them. Good duties, like new apparrell on a man pursued with Hue and cry of conscience, keepe him from being knowne.

Use 1.

Take heed of resting in duties; Good duties are mens money, without which they think themselves poore and miserable; but take heed that you and your money perish not together, Gal. 5.
and

3. The paths to Hell be but two. The first is the path of sinne, which is a dirty way. Secondly, the path of Duties, which (rested in) is but a clearer way. When the Israelites were in distresse, Judg. 10. 14. The Lord bids them goe to the Gods they served: so when thou shalt lie howling on thy death-bed, the Lord will say; Goe unto the good prayers and performances you have made, and the teares you have shed. Oh they will be miserable comforters at that day.

Object. But I thinke thou wilt say, no true Christian man hopes to be saved by his good workes and duties, but onely by the mercy of God and merits of Christ.

Ans. It is one thing to trust to be saved by duties, another thing to rest in duties. A man trusts unto them, when he is of this opinion, that onely good duties can save him. A man rests in duties, when he is of this opinion, that onely Christ can save him, but in his practise he goeth about to save

Ob.

Ans.

save himselfe. The wisest of the Papists are so at this day, and so are our common Protestants. And this is a great subtilty of the heart, that is, when a man thinks he cannot be saved by his good works and duties, but onely by Christ: he then hopeth, because he is of this opinion, that when he hath done all, he is an unprofitable servant: (which is onely an act or worke of the Judgement informed aright) that therefore, because he is of this opinion, he shall be saved.

But, because it is hard for to know when a man rests in duties, & few men finde themselves guiltie of this sinne, which ruines so many: I will shew two things.

1. The signes of a man resting in duties.

2. The insufficiency of all duties to save men. That so those that be found guilty of this sin, may not goe on in it.

First, for the signes whereby a man may certainly know, when he rests in his duties, which if he doe, (as few professors especially, but they doe) he perissheth eternally.

First,

Signes of mens resting in Duties.

The Sincere Convert.

247

First, Those that never yet saw they rested in them, they that never found it an hard matter to come out of their duties. For it's most naturall for a man to sticke in them, because nature sets men upon duties; hence it is a hard matter to come out of resting in duties. For two things keepe a man from Christ.

Signe 1.

1. Sinne; 2. Selfe. Now as a man is broken off from sinne by seeing and feeling it, and groaning under the power of it: so is a man broken from himselfe. For men had rather doe any thing than come unto Christ, there is such a deale of selfe in them; therefore if thou canst not tell the time when thou didst rest in thy duties, and then diddest groane to be delivered from these intanglements, (I meane not from the doing of them, this is familiarisme, and prophanenesse, but from resting in the bare performance of them,) thou dost relye upon thy duties to this day.

2 things
keepe us from Christ.

10 These rest in duties, that prize the bare performance of Duties wonderfully; for those duties that carry thee out of thy selfe unto Christ, make thee

Signe 2.

to

to prize Christ. Now tell me, dost thou glory in thy selfe? now I am some-body. I was ignorant, forgetfull, hard-hearted, now I understand and remember better, and can sorrow for my sinnes; if thou dost rest here, thy duties never carried thee further than thy selfe. Dost thou thinke after that thou hast prayed with some life, now I have done very well, and now thou dost verily thinke (meaning for thy duties) the Lord will save thee though thou never come to Christ, & sayest as he in another case; now I hope the Lord will doe good to me, seeing I have got a Priest into mine house, Judg. 17-13. Dost thou inhanse the price of duties thus, that thou dost doate on them, then I doe pronounce from God, thou dost rest in them: these things (saith Paul) I accounted gaine, (that is, before his conversion to Christ, he prized them exceedingly) but now I account them losse; and this is the reason why a childe of God commonly after all his prayets, teares and confessions, doubts much of Gods love towards him: whereas another

Phil. 3. 8.

ther man that fallerh short of him, never questioneth his estate; the first seeth much rottenesse and vilenesse in his best duties, and so judgeth meanly of himselfe: the other ignorant of the vilenesse of them, prizeth them and esteemeth highly of them, and setting his come at so high a price, he may keepe them to himselfe; the Lord never accepteth them, nor buyeth them at so high a rate.

Thirdly, those that never came to be sensible of their poverty & utter emptinesse of all good: for so long as a man hath a penny in his purse (that is) feelles any good in himselfe, he will never come a begging unto Jesus Christ, and therefore rests in himselfe: Now didst thou never feele thy selfe in this manner poore, viz. I am as ignorant as any beast, as vile as any devill; O Lord, what a nest and litter of sin and rebellion lurks in my heart. I once thought at least, mine heart and desires were good, but now I feele no spirituall life. Oh! dead heart, I am the poorest, vilest, basest, and blindest creature that ever

Signe 3.

The Sincere Convert.

Isa. 66. 2.

Signe 4.

ever lived. If thou doest not thus feele thy selfe poore, thou never camest out of thy duties; For when the Lord bringeth any man to Christ, he bringeth him empty, that so he may make him beholding to Christ for every farthing token.

Fourthly, those that gaine no Evangelicall righteousness by duties, rest in duties; I say, Evangelicall righteousness, that is, more prizing of acquaintance, with desire after, loving & delighting in union with the Lord Jesus Christ: for a morall man may grow in legall righteousness, (as the stony and thorny ground seede, sprang up and increased much, and came neere unto maturitie,) and yet rest in duties all this while. For, as it is with tradesmen, they rest in their buying and selling, though they make no gaine of their trading: now Jesus Christ is a Christians gaine, Phil. 1. 21. and hence a childe of God askes himselfe after Sermon, after prayer, after Sacrament, what have I gained of Christ? have I got more knowledge of Christ, more admiring of the Lord Jesus? Now a carnall heart that rests in his duties, asketh
onely

onely what he hath done, as the Pharisee, I thanke God I am not as other men, I fast twice a weeke, I give almes, and the like, and thinkes verily he shall be saved, because he prayer, and because he heares, and because he reformes, and because he sorrowes for his sinnes, that is, not because of the gaining of Christ in a dutie, but because of his naked performance of the duty, and so they are like that man, that I have heard of, that thought verily he should be rich, because he had got a wallet to beg: so men, because they performe duties, thinke verily they shall be saved. No such matter, let a man have a bucket made of gold, doth he thinke to get water, because he hath a bucket? No, no, he must let it downe into the well & draw up water with it: so must thou let downe all thy duties into Christ, & draw life and light from his fulnesse, else though thy duties be golden duties, thou shalt perish without Christ. When a man hath bread in his wallet, and got water in his bucket, he may boldly say, so long as these last, I shall not.

not samish : so mayst thou say, when thou hast found and got Christ, in the performance of any duty, so long as Christs life lasteth, I shall live, as long as he hath any wisdom or power, so long shall I be directed and enabled in well doing.

Signe 5.

Fifthly, if thy duties make thee sin more boldly, thou dost then rest in duties ; for these duties which carry a man out of himselfe unto Christ, ever fetch power against sinne ; but duties that a man rests in, arme him and fence him in his sinne, Isa. 1. 14. A cart that hath no wheelles to rest on, can hardly be drawne into the dirt, but one that hath wheelles, commeth loaded through it ; so a child of God that hath no wheelles, no duties to rest upon, cannot willingly be drawne into sinne : but another man, though he be loaden with sinne (even sometimes against his conscience) yet having duties to beare him up, goeth merrily on in a sinfull course, & makes no bones of sinne ; when we see a base man revile a great Prince, & strike him, we say, surely he durst not doe it, unlessse lesse he had some body to beare him out in it, that he rests and trusts unto: so when wee see men sinne against the great God, we conceive, certainly they durst not doe it, if they had not some duties to beare them out in it, and to encourage them in their way, that they trust unto.

For, take a prophane man, what makes him drink, sweare, cozen, game, whore? Is there no God to punish? Is there no hell hot enough to torment? are there no plagues to confound him? yes, why sinneth he then so? Oh! he prayeth to God for forgiveness, and sorroweth, and repents in secret (as he saith) and this beares him out in his lewd pranks.

Take a morall man, he knowes he hath his failings and his sinnes, as the best have, and is overtaken sometimes as the best are; why doth he not remove these sinnes then? He confesseth them to God every morning when he riseth; why is he not more humbled under his sinne then? the reason is, he constantly observeth morning and evening prayer, & then he craves forgive-

S

nesse

nesse for his failings, by which course he hopes he makes his peace with God, and hence he sinneth without feare, and riseth out of his falls into sinne without sorrow. And thus they see and maintaine their sinnes by their duties, and therefore rest in duties.

Signe 6.

Sixthly, those that see little of their vile hearts by duties, rest in their duties: For if a man be brought nearer to Christ, and to the light, by duties, he will spy out more moats; for the more a man participates of Christ, his health and life, the more he feeleth the vile-nesse and sicknesse of sinne. As Paul when he rested in his duties before his conversion, before that the Law had humbled him, he was alive, that is, he thought himselfe a sound man, because his duties covered his sinnes, like fig-leaves. Therefore ask thine own heart, if it be troubled sometimes for sinne, and if after thy praying and sorrowing thou doest grow well, and thinkest thy selfe safe, and feelest not thy selfe more vile. If it be thus, I tell thee, thy duties be but fig-leaves to cover thy naked-nesse,

Rom. 7.

ness, and the Lord will find thee out, and unmaske thee one day, and woe to thee, if thou dost perish here.

Secondly, Therefore behold the insufficiency of all duties to save us; Which will appeare in these three things, which I speake that you may learne hereafter never to rest in duties.

The insufficiency of any dutie to save a man.

First, Consider thy best duties are tainted, poysoned, and mingled with some sinne, and therefore are most odious in the eyes of an holy God, (nakedly & barely considered in themselves) for if the best actions of Gods people be filthy, as they come from them; then to be sure, all wicked mens actions are much more filthy & polluted with sin: but the first is true, All our righteousnesses are as filthy ragges; for as the fountaine is, so is the streame; but the fountaine of all good actions, (that is the heart) is mingled partly with sin, partly with grace; therefore every action participates of some sin, which sins are daggers at Gods heart, even when a man is praying and begging for his life, therefore there is no hope to be saved by duties.

Isay 6.6.

2.

Secondly, Suppose thou couldest performe them without sinne, yet thou couldest not hold out in doing so, I say 40.6. All flesh and the glory thereof is but grasse. So thy best actions would soone wither, if they were not perfect: and if thou canst not persevere in performing all duties perfectly, thou art for ever undone, though thou shouldest doe so for a time; live like an Angel, shine like a Sunne, and at thy last gaspe have but an idle thought, commit the least sin, that one rocke will sinke thee downe even in the haven, though never so richly loaden; one sin, like a pen-knife at the heart, will stab thee; one sinne, like a little fire-stick in the thatch, will burne thee; one act of treason will hang thee, though thou hast lived never so devoutly before, Ezek. 18. 24. For it's a crooked life, when all the parts of the line of thy life, be not straight before almighty God,

Gal. 3. 10.

3.

Thirdly, suppose thou shouldest persevere, yet it's cleare, thou hast sinned grievously already, and dost thou think thine obedience for the time to come can

can satisfie the Lord for all those Rents behind, for all those sinnes past? as can a man that payes his Rent honestly every yeare, satisfie hereby for the old rent not payed in twenty yeares? all thy obedience is a new debt, which cannot satisfie for debts past. Indeed men may forgive wrong and debts because they be but finite, but the least sin is an infinite evill, and therefore God must be satisfied for it. Men may remit debts, and yet remaine men; but the Lord having said, the soule that sinneth shall die, and his truth being himselfe, he cannot remaine God, if he forgive it without satisfaction. Therefore duties are but rotten crutches for a soule to rest upon.

But to what end should we use any duties? cannot a man be saved by his good prayers, nor sorrowes, nor repentings? what should wee pray any more then? Let us cast off all duties, if all are to no purpose to save us. As good play for nothing as worke for nothing.

Though thy good duties cannot save thee, yet thy bad workes will damne thee. Thou art therefore not to

Obj.

Ans.

Good duties not to be cast off, but our resting up-on them.

Ob.

cast off the duties, but thy resting in these duties. Thou art not to cast them away, but to cast them downe at the feet of Jesus Christ, as they did their crownes, Rev. 4, 10, 11. Saying, if there be any good or graces in these duties, it's thine Lord, for it is the Princes favour that exalts a man, not his owne gifts; they came from his good pleasure.

But thou wilt say; to what end should I performe duties, if I cannot be saved by them?

Ans.

For these three ends.

Use 1.

1. To carry thee to the Lord Jesus the onely Saviour, Heb. 7. 25. he onely is able to save (not duties) all that come unto God (that is, in the use of means,) by him: heare a Sermon to carry thee to Jesus Christ: Fast and pray, and get a full tide of affections in them to carry thee to the Lord Jesus Christ, (that is,) to get a more love to him, more acquaintance with him, more union with him: so sorrow for thy sins, that thou mayest be more fitted for Christ, that thou mayest prize Christ the more; use thy duties, as Noah's dove did her wings, wings, to carry thee to the Arke of the Lord Jesus Christ, where onely there is rest. If shee had never used her wings, shee had fallen in the waters: so if thou shalt use no duties, but cast them all off, thou art sure to perish; Or as it is with a poore man that is to goe over a great water for a treasure on the other side, though he cannot fetch the boate, he calls for it; and though there be no treasure in the boate, yet he useth the boate to carry him over to the treasure: so Christ is in heaven, and thou on earth, he doth not come to thee, and thou canst not goe to him; now call for a boate, though there is no grace, no good, no salvation in a pithlesse dutie, yet use it to carry thee over to the treasure the Lord Jesus Christ. When thou comest to heare, say, Have over Lord by this Sermon. When thou comest to pray, say, Have over Lord by this prayer to a Saviour. But this is the misery of people, like foolish lovers, when they are to woe for the Lady, they fall in love with her handmaid that is onely to leade them to her: so men fall in love with, and doate upon their owne duties, and rest contented with the naked performance of them, which are onely handmaids to leade the soule unto the Lord Jesus Christ.

Vse 2.

Secondly, use duties as evidences of Gods everlasting love to you when you be in Christ; for the graces and duties of Gods people, although they be not causes, yet they be tokens and pledges of salvation to one in Christ: they doe not save a man, but onely accompany & follow such a man as shall be saved, Heb. 6. 9. Let a man boast of his joyes, feelings, gifts, spirit, grace, if he walks in the commission of any one sin, or the omission of any one knowne duty, or in the slovenly ill favoured performance of duties, this man, I say, can have no assurance without flattering of himselfe, 2 Pet. 1. 8, 9, 10. Duties therefore being evidences and pledges of salvation, use them to that end, and make much of them therefore, as a man that hath faire evidence for his Lordship, because he did not purchase his Lordship, will he therefore cast it away?

way? no, no, because it is an evidence to assure him that it is his owne, and so to defend him against all such as seeke to take it from him, he will carefully preserve the same: so because duties do not save thee, wilt thou cast away good duties? No, for they are evidences (if thou art in Christ) that the Lord and mercy is thine owne. Women will not cast away their love-tokens, although they are such things, as did not purchase or merit the love of their husbands, but because they are tokens of his love, therefore they will keep them safe.

That God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ may be honoured by the performance of these duties, therefore use them: Christ shed his blood, that he might purchase unto himselfe a people zealous of good workes, Tis. 2. 14. not to save our soules by them, but to honour him. Oh! let not the blood of Christ be shed in vaine. Grace & good duties are a Christians Crowne, it is sin onely makes a man base: now shall a King cast away his Crowne, because he bought not his Kingdome by it?

No,

Use 3.

No, because it is his Ornament and glory to wear it, when he is made a King; so I say unto thee, it's better that Christ should be honoured, than thy soule saved; and therefore performe duties, because they honour the Lord Jesus Christ. Thus use thy duties, but rest not in duties; nay, goe out of duties, & match thy soule to the Lord Jesus: take him for better & for worse, so live in him and upon him all thy dayes.

4 Generall reason of mans
ruine.

Fourthly, By reason of mans headstrong Presumption or false faith, whereby men seeke to save themselves by catching hold on Christ, when they see an insufficiency in all duties to helpe them, and themselves unworthy of mercy. For this is the last & most dangerous rock that these times are split upon. Men make a bridge of their own to carry them to Christ; I meane, they looke not after faith, wrought by an omnipotent power, which the eternall Spirit of the Lord Jesus must worke in them, but they content themselves with a faith of their owne farging and framing, and hence they thinke verily and beleeve,

Eph. 1. 19.

leeve, that Christ is their sweet Saviour, and so doubt not but they are safe, when there is no such matter, but even as dogs they snatch away childrens bread, and shall be shut out of doores, (out of heaven hereafter for ever) for their labour.

All men are of this opinion, that there is no salvation, but by the merits of Jesus Christ, and because they hold fast this opinion, therefore they thinke they hold fast Jesus Christ in the hand of faith, and so perish by catching at their owne catch, and hanging on their owne fancy and shadow. Some others catch hold of Christ before they come to feele the want of Faith and abilitie to beleeve, and catching hold on him (like dust on a mans coate whom God will shake off, or like burrs and bryers cleaving to ones garment, which the Lord will trample under foot) now they say they thanke God, they have got comfort by this means, and though God killeth them, yet they will trust unto him, Mick. 3. 11.

It is in this respect a harder matter to convert

convert a man in England than in India, for there they have no such shifts and forts against our Sermons, to say they beleeve in Christ already, as most amongst us doe: wee cannot wrap off mens fingers from catching hold on Christ before they be fit for him; like a company of theeves in the street, you shall see an hundred hands scrambling for a jewell that is fallen there, that have least, nay nothing to doe with it. Every man saith almost, I hope Christ is mine, I put my whole trust and confidence in him, and will not be beaten from this. What, must a man despaire? must not a man trust unto Christ? thus, men will hope and trust, though they have no ground, no graces to prove they may lay hold and claime unto Christ. This hope skared out of his wits damnes thousands, for I am perswaded if men did see themselves Christlesse creatures, as well as sinfull creatures, they would cry out, Lord, what shall I doe to be saved?

True faith is a precious faith, 2 Pet. 1. 3. precious things cost us much: & we set them them at an high rate, if thy Faith be so, it hath cost thee many a prayer, many a sob, many a salt teare. But ask most men how they came by their faith in Christ? they say, very easily: when the Lyon sleepest a man may lye and sleepe by it, but when it awakens, woe to that man that doth so: so while God is silent and patient, thou mayest befoole thy selfe with thinking thou dost trust unto God: but woe to thee when the L O R D appeares in his wrath, as one day he will; for by vertue of this false faith, men sinning, take Christ as a dish-clout to wipe them cleane againe, and that's all the use they have of this faith. They sin indeede, but they trust unto Christ for his mercy, and so lye still in their sinnes: God will revenge with bloud and fire and plagues this horrible contempt from heaven.

Hence many of you trust unto Christ, as the Apricock tree that leanes against the wall, but it's fast rooted in the earth: so you leane upon Christ for salvation, but you are rooted in the world, rooted in your pride, rooted in your filthinesse still.

Altho' Woe to you if you perish in this estate, God will hew you downe as fallow for his wrath, what ever mad hope you have to be saved by Christ. This therefore I proclaime from the God of Heaven to you, i. you that never felt your selves as unable to beleeve as a dead man to raise himselfe, you have as yet no faith at all. You that would get faith, first must feeble your inability to beleeve, and fetch not this slip out of thine own garden: it must come downe from Heaven to thy soule, if ever thou partakest thereof.

Other things I should have spoken of this large subject, but I am forced here to end abruptly. The Lord lay not this sin to their charge, who have stopped my mouth, labouing to withhold the truth in unrighteousnesse. And blessed be the good God, who hath stood by his unworthy servant thus long, enabling him to leade you so farre, as to shew you the rockes and dangers of your passage to another world.

8 JA 66
F I N I S.

